Biographical/Historical Note: In the fall of 1976 the WKU Board of Regents approved the reorganization that separated journalism from mass communications. The new Department of Journalism offered majors in advertising, journalism, photojournalism and public relations. The reorganization marked a shift in curriculum from the theoretical communications foundation to a professional program that could gain national accreditation. (Journalism Self-Study, 1998)

In 1999 the department merged with the broadcasting and mass communication programs to become the School of Journalism & Broadcasting consisting of six programs of study: advertising, broadcasting and mass communication, photojournalism, print journalism and public relations.
