CHHS Faculty Members Publish Articles in *Computers Informatics Nursing

Cathy Abell and Terry Jepson from the School of Nursing along with Jay Gabbard from the Department of Social Work conducted a research study to examine the use of PDAs by nurse practitioners. The results of the study were published in an article, titled "The Level of Use of PDAs by Nurse Practitioners and Administrative Barriers," in the October 2012 edition of Computers Informatics Nursing.

RN to BSN Students Participate in Ag Safety Day

Twenty-six RN to BSN students participated in Ag Safety Day on September 27, 2012. The students taught a variety of classes for approximately 260 Warren County 4th graders, including topics such as: Healthy Lifestyles, ATV safety, Bicycle Safety, Disability Awareness, First Aid, and Sun Safety. The Ag Safety Day is held annually at the Ag Expo Center and is sponsored by the Partnership for Farm Family Health and Safety and South Central Area Health Education Center (AHEC).

FACS Alumni Wins Raffled WKU Logo Quilt

The winner of the Western Kentucky University Logo quilt raffled at the end of Homecoming 2012 was Betty Chelf Coles. Betty is an alumna of the Family and Consumer Sciences Department (FACS) with degrees in 1953 and 1970. She is shown with the quilt and Dr. Martha Combs Jenkins, a 1959 graduate, Professor Emeritus of the department, and active member of the FACS Alumni Association. The group did so well raffling a WKU quilt last year that they decided to do a raffle again this year. Proceeds from both raffles benefit scholarships/awards for students enrolled in programs in the FACS Department.

KEMSA Students Get Involved

As part of their accreditation process, the Kentucky Emergency Medical Services Academy (KEMSA) is required to lead and evaluate the KEMSA students in the affective domain. Joe Dennison, Program Specialist for KEMSA, requires their students to do a little bit more. "I have told my Fall 2012 paramedic students that although their jobs will be serving the community, their responsibility to be good citizens does not end in the ambulance" said Dennison.

"I am requiring my students to demonstrate community service throughout the program.. Anyone can donate out of a wallet; donating of yourself enriches all involved."

Jacob Starks, a KEMSA student, was featured in his local newspaper when his church was involved in an outreach program put together after a football game at a local high school.
