EXPLANATION OF COURSES OF STUDY.

PRIMARY.—There will be, in connection with the school, a Primary Department, which will be in the charge of a teacher who has made primary school work a special study. It is our intention to make this a model school, both as regards discipline and methods of instruction. In it the latest and most approved methods will be used. This will give to our pupils who are preparing to teach, the opportunity of observing the practical workings of the various methods discussed in the Teachers' Training Class.

PREPARATORY.—The work done in the Preparatory Department is a thorough preparation for profitable work in the higher grades. Reading, Composition, Grammar, and Arithmetic receive special attention. A thorough knowledge of the elementary principles of these branches is insisted on as an indispensable condition of advancing to higher studies. Formation of correct habits of study is an end kept constantly in view. Here we "make haste slowly," as an extended experience has shown us that the ultimate success or failure of a pupil depends in a great measure on the thoroughness with which work is done at this stage of an education.

TEACHERS' COURSE.—Our principal efforts are directed to successful work in this department. Our "Teachers' Class" is always a large one, and is marked by that enthusiasm which is an outgrowth of healthy progress.

This course includes the branches required to be taught in the public schools. The time necessary for its completion, if the work in the preparatory course has been well done, is one year. Pupils can enter profitably, however, at any time, and find classes suited to their advancement. We first ascertain as nearly as possible the needs of new pupils, and arrange their studies accordingly; never consuming time in useless reviews, nor permitting them to drop studies which they do not fully understand. Frequent written examinations serve to show both pupils and teachers where there are deficiencies.

In teaching the various branches the most approved methods are used, so that our pupils, in acquiring a knowledge of the branches, learn at the same time the best method of presenting them in the class room.

Teachers' Training holds a prominent place in this course. The thorough drill in the studies, and the careful training in methods of teaching enable our pupils to compete successfully with teachers of many years experience who have not enjoyed these advantages.

Wherever our pupils have been brought into competition with those of other schools, whether in county examination or in actual work in the class room, it has always been to the credit of our school. The teachers who have received their preparation with us do not find it necessary to seek a new location each succeeding term. These are significant facts, and we refer to them with pride.

SCIENTIFIC COURSE.—The curriculum of the Scientific Course contains those studies that accomplish most successfully the two principal ends of education, viz.: The development of power, and the acquisition of that knowledge which will be of the greatest practical utility. For those who have finished the Preparatory and the Teachers' Course, the time necessary for its completion is one year. Those having time for a course of only one year will find this the best possible preparation for the duties of life. Pupils completing the course will receive the degree of B. S.

ADDITIONAL STUDIES.—In addition to the studies of the preceding courses, classes will be organized in the following studies, whenever a sufficient number wish to pursue them: Book-keeping, Advanced Latin, Greek, French and German.

DRILLS.

In the various courses, the drills are considered to be of equal importance with the other school work. The drill in debating and parliamentary practice receives constant and careful attention. No other school exercise is productive of more practical good. It gives to a pupil the power to use knowledge acquired from books more effectually than he could possibly do otherwise.

The Teachers' Class will have regular drills in letter-writing and other exercises in composition.

Mr. E. T. Thomas will give two lessons weekly in vocal music. Mr. Thomas is widely known as a successful teacher of vocal music.

Penmanship will be taught by Mr. M. D. Taylor, alternating with music.

The Scientific Class will have weekly drills in Essay Writing, and in the reading and discussion of some of the leading American and English poets.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

The services of Miss Indie Winston have been secured as teacher of Instrumental Music. Miss Winston is an experienced teacher, and her patrons all bear testimony to her eminent fitness for the position.

EXAMINATIONS.

Classes are examined in each study at the close of the term or upon the completion of the study. In addition to this, the classes in the common school branches are examined every Friday on the work of the week. This in most cases secures a thorough review of the week's work, and serves to fix it well in mind. It also keeps a pupil's progress constantly before him, and a failure to reach the standard of work required of the class is impressed more strongly by this method than by any other. The grades made at intermediate and final examinations are given to the pupil on grade sheets. All examinations are by written questions and answers. Regular examinations, with questions judiciously selected, conducted in such a way as not to become tiresome or monotonous, have proved with us one of the most effective means of securing consistent and enthusiastic work from pupils who would otherwise have been indifferent to their progress. They arouse a spirit of emulation and rivalry among the members of a class, which usually result in the best efforts.

HISTORY.

Summer Shade Institute was founded in 1873 by Prof. R. E. Grinstead, who erected the school buildings and conducted the institution successfully for two years. In 1875 the school property was purchased by Prof. J. W. McD. Moore, who remained in the school as principal until 1877, at which time it passed into the charge of the present principal. In the spring of 1886 it received from the Legislature a liberal charter, conferring many privileges which materially enlarge its sphere of usefulness. Among the various provisions of the charter is one forbidding the sale of intoxicants within two miles of the school. This provision the trustees, citizens and principal join in enforcing, and the result is that the school is entirely free from the evils growing out of intemperance.

The growth of the school has been slow, but sure. Now its permanence is assured. The attendance is not large, never having exceeded a hundred; but our pupils are of the best class, and do the best kind of work. Those who attend school with other motives than study and self-improvement usually go elsewhere. The outlook for the school at the present time is more encouraging than ever before.

LOCATION.

Summer Shade is a town of about two hundred and fifty inhabitants, situated in Metcalfe County, Ky., sixteen miles from Glasgow, on the road leading from that town to Barksville. It is near the watershed separating the waters of Cumberland river from those of Green. The attitude is consequently considerable, giving it complete exemption from that class of diseases produced by malarial influences. It has daily stage connection with both Glasgow and Barksville, thus giving it excellent mail facilities. Religious and moral advantages are unsurpassed. It has three churches, each of which extends a kindly welcome to students. The town is noted for the high moral tone and social culture of its citizens, and for its entire freedom from the effects of intemperance. The charter of the town forbids the sale of intoxicants within the corporate limits, and that of the school within two miles of the school-house. These laws are strictly enforced, and the result is, the sale of intoxicating liquors is entirely prevented. The citizens of the town put forth every effort to make the stay of students pleasant, as well as profitable. In church privileges, mail facilities, and social culture, pupils attending school here enjoy all the advantages afforded by larger towns, while they are subject to none of the disadvantages.

BUILDINGS.

The school building is beautifully situated in a grove of native trees, on an eminence overlooking the town. It is well-furnished, and large enough to accommodate comfortably more than a hundred students.

The boarding hall is situated within a short distance of the school building. It will furnish accommodation to about thirty boarders, and it is our wish to use it during the ensuing year exclusively for young ladies.

READING ROOM.

A room in the school building has been set apart for the library, and will be open at all times to the students for reading. The library, though small, is well selected, containing Lexicons, Cyclopedias, Histories and choice works of poetry, fiction, etc. It will be furnished with current newspapers and periodicals, and pupils will be encouraged to form habits of reading. A daily record, kept for a considerable portion of last year, showed that the school made abundant use of this privilege, both in regular school work and in general reading.

TUITION EXPENSES.

Primary and Preparatory, per Term	$ 5 00
Teachers' and Scientific, per Term	10 00
Instrumental Music, per Term	7 50
Use of Instrument	2 50

Tuition is due at the opening of each term. Money paid for tuition will not be refunded, but pupils who lose time on account of protracted sickness will receive a due bill, which will be taken in payment of tuition at any future time. Special arrangements will be made with young ladies and gentlemen preparing to teach, who may not be prepared to pay on entering.

BOARDING.

Table Board, per week	$1 25
Private Board, everything furnished, per week	$1 50 to $2 00
Rooms for Self-Boarding, per week	15 to 30

Mr. L. P. Williams, Dr. T. S. Howard, Mr. Overton Tudor, and perhaps others, will take a limited number of young gentlemen to board at $1.50 per week, everything furnished. Persons arranging to enter school should come immediately to the Principal, who will assist them in securing satisfactory boarding and making all necessary arrangements.

An estimate of the cost of boarding and tuition will show that the expenses of attending school here are from 20 to 40 per cent. less than at any other school doing the same grade of work.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the school is such as to develop principles of honor, self-reliance and self-control. Pupils are received and treated as ladies and gentlemen. No espionage is exercised, and good behavior is secured by a reliance upon the honor of our students. Only in very rare cases is this confidence abused.

No regulation is ever imposed until there is manifest necessity for it. But when circumstances require it, the Trustees and Principal act promptly in adopting any rule that will advance the interests of the school. No pupil, whose presence exerts a harmful influence, will be permitted to remain in school. Parents or guardians will be promptly notified whenever a pupil forms habits of idleness or immorality which the discipline of school fails to correct.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION.

We are wedded to no system of teaching. We use those methods by which we have secured the best results. The objects we have in view are the development of power, and the acquisition of useful knowledge on the part of our pupils. Whatever plans enable us to accomplish must successfully these results, we use.

We meet with a widespread misapprehension among the young ladies and gentlemen coming to us regarding the amount of work they can accomplish in a given time. Many expect to get a good preparation for teaching in a few months, or to complete their education in a year. Our first, and frequently our most difficult, lesson to teach is, that it is much better in every way to learn one thing thoroughly than to gain an imperfect knowledge of many. We hold that we would be doing an irreparable wrong if we should permit our pupils to form habits of superficial work. We might, by that means, please them and make reputation for the school, but in many cases it would be at the expense of their future success. Young men and women, after they leave school, succeed or fail according as they do thorough or superficial work; and habits of work, as a rule, are acquired in school. The boy who, as a student, slights his lesson, will, when he enters upon his life-work, follow the same course. Our work from first to last is directed to securing thoroughness. In the free-school studies, especially, our constant effort is to direct the work in such a way that each successive step may be completely mastered before the next is taken. When the free-school studies have been learned thoroughly, the habit of thorough work is fixed, and the higher branches will give comparatively no trouble.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD ATTEND SCHOOL AT SUMMER SHADE.

1. Expenses are less with us than at any other school doing the same grade of work. Our facilities for cheap boarding enable pupils to live here almost as cheaply as at home.

2. We make a specialty of preparing teachers. The Principal of the school has had an experience of twenty years in teaching in schools of all grades; has taught three years in one of the best Normal schools in the South. He has studied carefully the needs of the public school teachers, and the greatest effort is made to meet successfully these ends.

3. The work done in our school is more thorough than that done in other schools. Our pupils competing with those of other schools in county examinations receive the best certificates.

4. Spirituous liquors are not sold within two miles of the school. Young men attending with us are entirely removed from the harmful influences of larger towns.

5. The location is one of the healthiest in Southern Kentucky.

6. We make no promises that we do not fill.

For any information not contained in the preceding, write to the Principal, and your request will receive immediate attention.
