Landmark Association of Bowling Green and Warren County

1984 - 1985 Annual Report

As we reflect back over the past, Landmark has continued its influence, commitment and awareness of our cultural and architectural heritage in Bowling Green/Warren County through a variety of activities and programs. 1984/85 has been a busy year involving continuing activities of the Downtown Revitalization project, several new preservation activities, and maintaining and promoting our efforts and creating a greater appreciation and awareness of our heritage.

As you review Landmark's efforts of last year, please keep in mind that although we have already done a lot and come a long way in a few short years, we need your continuing support and assistance to maintain our momentum and strive to achieve even greater heights as we approach Landmark Association's 10th Anniversary next year.

MAIN STREET PROJECT

Bowling Green's Downtown Revitalization project as administered by Landmark has continued as a major effort of the Association and has gained wide recognition as one of the more successful programs not only in the state but in the nation. This recognition is appreciated and deserved due to the overall commitment and support of the entire community.

Even though we have a successful project, many things need yet to be accomplished. This past year several ongoing projects were continued and several new ones were started as highlighted below:

Historic Rehabilitation - The Jesse Building at 511-19 10th Street was a tax act project completed by Harlin, Parker, and Rudloff law firm for professional office space on both first and second floors.

Another transformation took place at 426 E. Main (Barclay Building) with the removal of an aluminum facade and considerable interior work for the home of Landmark Travel on the first floor and construction of an apartment on the second floor.

Also during the year, the Old State Theatre was purchased and very nicely rehabilitated for the permanent place of worship for the Fountain Square Church.

Business Recruitment Study - a new program to recruit new business for downtown Bowling Green was initiated with a study completed by a Maryland marketing and development consultant. The impetus for this study and strategy was to systematically begin an effort to recruit the types of retail establishments relevant to the downtown market. In addition, recommendations concerning appropriate service businesses were made.

Actual recruitment efforts began during the year with the development of several marketing tools including a downtown color brochure and detailed information on available buildings for lease and sale. This project is intended to be an ongoing one as we strive to provide an appropriate mix and variety of shopping and business establishments in the downtown area.

Tax Moratorium Program - Another incentive program for property owners was begun in November 1984 in conjunction with the City of Bowling Green. This program offers a 5-year tax abatement on improvements to all types of buildings - residential - commercial - industrial - 50 years of age or older. Landmark administers this program for the City and approved four applications totalling $350,000.00 for last year.

Also, during the year Landmark provided programs to various local and state groups. Locally, presentations were made to Optimist Club, Lions Club, Downtown Business Association, Mother's Club, SOON neighborhood group, Bowling Green City Commission, and Bowling Green Women's Club.

Landmark staff participated in several conferences and made presentations to out of town preservation groups including, Boyle County Trust in Danville, Downtown Merchants Association in Campbellsville, two Elderhostel groups at Shaker-town-Pleasant Hill, Pulaski Heritage Annual Meeting in Somerset, and to Knoxville Heritage Annual Awards Meeting in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Staff also participated on a historic preservation resource team in Davenport, Iowa; gave a presentation on economic analysis at the Southern Main Street Conference in Atlanta, and discussed Bowling Green's Business Recruitment Program at the Spring conference of the Kentucky Chapter of the American Planning Association.

Appropriately, Landmark's Fifth Annual Meeting at the Elks Lodge on Main Street kicked off the week's activities on May 13. Approximately 80 members and guests enjoyed the evening of food and drink, business, and awards.

Elected to lead Landmark for the coming year were Romanza Johnson as President, Rick Voakes as Vice President, Betty Fulwood as Secretary, and Gary Murphy as Treasurer. New members elected included Carol Burford, Suzie Coombs, Casey Lester, John C. Perkins, and Richard Wiesemann.

Preservation Week continued with several open houses in recently rehabilitated buildings in the Downtown Historic District.

NATIONAL REGISTER

On December 5, 1984 three Civil War sites in Warren County were placed on the National Register of Historic Places. Listed on the Register were FORT WEBB, located off Beech Bend Road; FORT LYTLE, located on Western Kentucky University's campus; and FORT C.F. SMITH, situated on Reservoir Hill.

During the Civil War, Bowling Green became an important military and political center. As a result, several fortifications were constructed on the hills surrounding Bowling Green by the Confederate Army, only later to be captured and improved by the Union Army.

Today we are very fortunate to have portions of the three Civil War sites remaining as our only surviving reminders of Bowling Green's once extensive system of fortifications.

Another major historic property, the St. James Apartments, was placed on the National Register on August 2, 1984 as a part of the Warren County Multiple Resource Area. The St. James is significant for several reasons: the structure was the first apartment building constructed in Bowling Green in 1912, the structure has maintained its original character, and the building serves as an important link between the downtown district and the older residential neighborhoods.

Landmark is proud to have assisted with the project and listing of the building for its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Shrewsbury.

PLANS FOR 1985-86

The coming year should prove to be another exciting and productive one for the Landmark Association as it enters its 10th year of community service. Our ongoing activities such as membership development, Downtown revitalization, technical assistance to homeowners, National Register and survey work, Awards program, membership events, walking tours, publicity and public relations, and office management and administrative responsibilities will continue as a major portion of our work for the coming year.

This past summer, the Board of Directors held its annual planning retreat to take a long term view of Landmark's future over the next five years relative to community involvement and funding considerations. From the planning retreat a variety of new projects and activities were produced. Some of the new programs for 1985/86 that Landmark will tackle include,

1. Ongoing commitment to a business recruitment strategy for downtown.
2. Organize neighborhood watch projects.
3. Produce an historic preservation ordinance for Bowling Green.
4. Conduct a second Decorator's Show House in Spring 1986 in conjunction with Arts Alliance.
5. Conduct a special "10th Anniversary Celebration" of the Association.
6. Conduct a spring bus tour for the membership.
7. Erect historical markers in historic districts in Bowling Green and Smiths Grove.
