THE TEACHER'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

(by Miss Lincoln)

At the holidays in the winter,
we earnest teachers delve and plan
How to teach our students English
Worthy of Americans.

In September, when the scholars
Back into the schoolroom pour,
We are greeted by some language
We have often heard before.

"Teacher, I hav'nt got no pencil,"

"Where is this here lesson at,"

"I seen seven head a-riding,"

"George Smith taken my new hat."

Day by day we fight the battle;
Oft our courage we renew;
Perhaps the year two thousand
Will see our dreams come true.
