BUDGET

BUDGET AND EXPENDITURES

1. See Table 4 on next page for complete 1996-97 budget breakout and comparison with two previous years.

2. Budget Development. The budgeting process begins with general guidelines provided by the vice president for academic affairs to the dean of Potter College, who establishes criteria for the college. Within the department, sequence coordinators consult with faculty reporting to them to discuss needs. Proposed budget adjustments from sequence coordinators are considered by the department head in completing budget requests.

In recent years there has been no increase in operating budget. In fact, the department's spending power was decreased as university policy changed to require departments such as Services and Supplies to charge a 25% surcharge to generate their salaries. This is to change in the 1997-98 school year when the university will close the purchasing department and purchase supplies through an outside vendor. It is unknown how that will affect purchasing power.

Students taking journalism courses taught in computer labs or requiring use of the photo lab pay a $10 fee per course. That money is transferred to department and is used for lab supplies and to pay student lab supervisors.

Spending. Funds allocated to the department are shared equally by the four sequences. If an item relates to number of majors in a sequence, funds are distributed on a per capita basis. Every effort is made to ensure that no favoritism is shown to a particular sequence. Faculty requests are responded to on a needs basis as long as funds are available. The administrative assistant is in charge of distribution of supplies and materials.

Adequacy of budget. The departmental budget has increased $107, 467.59 over the past three years, including $9,754.66 spent in 1996-97 from earnings of the Hearst visiting professionals endowment. When that sum is deducted, the budget increase was $97,712.64 or 10.68% over 1994-95.

However, most of the growth was the result of payroll increases. Payroll increase in full-time teaching salaries was $71,064.72 over three years, or an 8.77% increase. Part-time teaching salaries decreased with reduction in the use of the supplemental teachers. Student payroll increased by $6,026.87 or 20.15%, but a good deal of that was the result of an increase in minimum wage, not an increase in the allocation of student helper hours available. The speakers grant money included in budget year 95-96 and 96-97 photojournalism student payroll was increased $2,000 after our full-time volunteer left.

When salaries are deducted, the operating budgets for the three years 1994-95 were: $104.080.33 1995-96

$110,318.23 increase of 5.82% over '94-95

1996-97 $140,483.20 increase of 6.42% over '94-95.

Additional money for department operations was generated through grants. This is especially evident in the increase in the special lecturers budget, which went from zero three years ago to $9,754.66 spent in 1996-97. (The dean made $900 a year available to departments in the college, but it was not part of the department budget).

The basic operating budget remains tight. Limited funds for travel and organized research limit scholarship/professional activity within the department. The university travel allocation is $235 a year for faculty members and $335 for the department head. This is hardly enough to take the whole faculty to the state capital for three days, much less finance a trip to a professional meeting for each faculty member. Faculty members are encouraged to apply for college development grants, and the department head diverts funds from other budget lines to help cover expenses for paper presentations and other development activity.

Funds to purchase needed equipment also increased because of grant development efforts and university support. The dean's office provided $35,000 in 1994-95. In 1995-96 he successfully pushed to have $100,000 allocated to us from fund balances. In 1996-97 the dean provided $22,000 for equipment and $10,000 to help defray renovation costs; Academic Affairs added $10,000 to renovation costs and at year end made $50,000 available for equipment that was purchased in Fall 1997. We still need more than $400,000 for equipment to be able to expand our offerings across the department.

A full-time teaching position in the advertising sequence was eliminated in budget cuts three years ago. This faculty line has not been replaced. Another budget inadequacy is lack of funds for a full-time computer lab technician in the department and for a full-time staff person to manage photography labs in the absence of a full-time volunteer the sequence had three years ago. Likewise, we have no replacement for the 20-hour-a-week volunteer who did computer maintenance for us until four years ago.

The department acknowledges that it is treated fairly by the university in comparison with other departments. But all are grossly underbudgeted.

3. Student Aid. Table 5 - Student Aid is on page 175. A substantial number of students receive scholarships each year. In addition, the department had funds for 218 student work hours each week during the fall and spring semesters. This number was reduced with the 1997 increase in minimum wage.

Academic Common Market. Photojournalism majors from five southeastern states -- Alabama, Georgia, Maryland, Tennessee and Virginia -- have out-ofstate tuition waived if they qualify for ACM benefit. (There are 13 states in ACM. Each state selects academic programs it wants made available for its residents, usually those for which it grants no degrees.)

4. Student Tuition. The tuition schedule for the 1997-98 school year is:

Full-time	Resident	Non-resident
Undergraduate	$1,045	$2,845
Graduate*	$1,135	$3,115
Part-time (per credit
Undergraduate	$85	$235
Graduate*	$123	$343

* Journalism has no graduate program.

There are course-specific fees. Journalism has a $10 fee for all courses that use computer and photo labs.

Refund policy. The refund policy as stated in the Fall 1997 schedule bulletin is as follows:

Tuition refunds or reductions in outstanding fee liabilities for students who officially withdraw through the Registrar's Office, or who change their status from full-time to part-time or who change their part-time status through drop/add in the Registrar's Office, will be made according to the following schedule:

Public Relations: Students choose between JOUR 321 Public Affairs Reporting and JOUR 425 Editorial and Feature Writing and take one restricted elective from among:

JOUR 231 Basic Photography JOUR 301 Press Law and Ethics JOUR 321 Public Affairs Reporting JOUR 331 Intermediate Photography JOUR 341 Principles of Advertising

JOUR 426 Advanced Reporting BCOM 266 Basic Television Production SCOM 148 Interpersonal Communication SCOM 461 Organizational Communication

7. Describe the teaching of ethics, law, history and mass communications theory in the journalism curriculum.

The teaching of ethics is worked into courses in each of our majors. We do not offer a separate course in ethics, although students are encouraged to take the subject in the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Every Western student is required to take a course in ethics or two courses with ethics emphasis.

The Academic Council of WKU says that courses designated with an E for ethics "are intended to instill an appreciation for the values which govern moral and ethics choices. The anticipated outcome is an educated citizen who recognizes the value of ethical behavior and can thoughtfully and objectively consider ethical issues in the conduct of his or her life and career. Courses in the major may be designated by an 'E' by providing recurring consideration of the nature and importance of moral and ethical behavior in the profession. Other courses that devote at least 20% of the syllabus and course effort to a relevant study of ethical philosophies or issues (in the course content) also may be designated by 'EE' for ethics emphasis."

JOUR 301 Press Law and Ethics is required of all photojournalism and print journalism majors. Most of the course concentrates on law, but at least 20% of the course focuses on ethics. Teaching qualifications for the course are a terminal degree in JMC or substantial professional experience.

JOUR 421 American Press History is taught by an individual with a Ph.D. in mass communications, as is appropriate. The course is paired with JOUR 422 Current Issues in Mass Communication, taught by the same teacher. One of the two is required for all print journalism majors. JOUR 422 has substantial ethics content.

JOUR 201 Journalism and Society is required of all majors and minors and is taught by a Ph.D. in mass communications.

Students majoring in advertising are given an overview of law and ethics and history in JOUR 341 Principles of Advertising. Specific applications are made in skills courses such as copy writing and layout, advertising research and advertising media. Teaching qualifications for the course are a terminal degree in JMC or substantial professional experience.

JOUR 351 Fundamentals of Public Relations offers similar exposure to PR students as that given by JOUR 341 to advertising majors. Teaching qualifications for the course are a terminal degree in JMC or substantial professional experience.

JOUR 353 Public Relations Theory examines applicable communication theories used in developing public relations campaigns and introduces research methods and sources necessary in formulating and evaluating public relations campaigns. The course is required of all PR majors. It is taught by a Ph.D. in mass communication.

Evaluation of teaching is done as for all department courses. Details are in Part II, Section 5 -- Instruction/Evaluation..

- 8. Outside Speakers -- Persons not connected with Western who gave lectures for journalism majors in 1996-97 included some nationally known professionals, thanks in great part to our receipt a few years ago of a $200,000 grant from the William Randolph Hearst Foundation to establish a visiting professionals program. See list on page 193.
- 9. Multiple-section courses. Wherever possible multiple-section courses are taught by one teacher. Sequence coordinators are responsible for ensuring that instructional objectives for courses with multiple sections are met. This usually happens through meetings with teachers of a course to discuss content to cover in a semester. A common syllabus is required for JOUR 202 Basic Reporting. In Fall 1996 we started offering all 202s in a once-a-week format, and in Fall 1997 we started requiring attendance at eight one-hour common lectures to be sure all 202 students received common material from the same speaker. The eight speakers include 202 teachers and other full-time faculty members who are not teachers of record for any 202 class but do have expertise in the topics they cover.

10. Progression of Courses -- Catalog copy showing numbering and prerequisites of journalism courses is on pages 189 and 190. Advising sheets that inform students of the proper order of taking courses are in Part II, Section 4 - Student Records/Advising. Copy from the Two Plus Two Transfer Guidebook on pages 191 and 192 shows information about course progression made available at community colleges in the state.

Required courses for a major in journalism are JOUR 201, 202, 231, 232, 301, 321, 323, 343 or 435, 421 or 422, and 425 or 426. In addition, the journalism major must elect six hours from the following restricted electives: JOUR 341, 343, 351, 421, 422, 423, 425, 426, 428, 435, 437, 454 and BCOM 265. Also, students must complete GOVT 110, GOVT 210, ECON 203, HIST 141 and GEOG 110 or 360.

Teacher Certification in Journalism—To meet state Department of Education requirements for certification to teach journalism, grades 7-12, the student must take Journalism 427 School Journalism, in addition to the 36 hours required for a major in journalism.

Major in Public Relations

The major in public relations (reference number 763) requires 36 semester hours and leads to a bachelor of arts degree. (Hours in journalism and communication taken above the 36 required hours must be added to the 128 hours needed for graduation.)

Students receive a detailed introduction to the public relations profession and learn necessary skills to successfully work in public relations agencies, businesses, government and nonprofit organizations.

Students plan public relations programs and prepare materials for print, oral, audio-visual and broadcast presentations. Photography, graphic arts and computer techniques are integrated into instruction. Majors study individual, group and societal communication theories and their relationships with public relations practices.

The major requires a broad program of study. In addition to general education requirements of the University and 36 hours in journalism, students must select an appropriate minor or second major, approved by their public relations advisor. Popular minors or second majors include marketing or other business area, health care administration, government, agriculture, natural sciences, social sciences or foreign languages.

Objectives of the Public Relations major:

1. To promote a broad understanding and appreciation of the expanding and important role of public relations in modern society.

2. To increase knowledge and develop skills required for entrylevel positions in the public relations field.

To instill high standards of ethical content.

4. To build a foundation for lifelong learning and advanced edu cation in communications, journalism, social sciences and public relations.

Required courses for a major in public relations: JOUR 201, 202, 232, 323, 343, 351, 352, 353, 425 or 321, 454 and 456. In addition, the public relations major must select one course from the following restricted electives: JOUR 231, 301, 321 (or 425), 331, 341, 426, 458, BCOM 266, SCOM 148 or SCOM 461. Also, students must complete ECON 203, GEOG 110 or 360, GOVT 110 and 210, SCOM 161, and one course in statistics from the following: MATH 203, ECON 206, PSY 201 or SOCL 300.

Minor in Journalism Education

A certifiable journalism education minor (reference number 402) requires 21 semester hours including JOUR 201, 202, 231, 301, 323, 421 and 427. Students also must meet the certification requirements of the State Department of Education.

Courses of Instruction

Note: Any course approved for general education credit, either categorical or non-categorical, is designated to the right of the title. For details refer to the section of the catalog titled "General Education Requirements."

ADVISING PROCESS

The university requires advisement of all students seeking degrees. Registration clearance is given only after a student's faculty adviser has approved a schedule. Journalism majors are alerted by individual letter to the imminent release of the schedule bulletin for the upcoming semester and told to contact their individual advisers for advisement.

The department head, with the help of her administrative assistant, is adviser of record for all unadmitted transfer students for their first two semesters at WKU and all unadmitted sophomore and freshmen majors.

Until Fall 1997, students were admitted to the department immediately upon enrollment in the university. They were identified by pre-admission numbers until admitted to a major. Those numbers are:

- 715 Print Journalism majors seeking admission
- 717 Advertising majors seeking admission
- 749 Photojournalism majors seeking admission
- 762 Public Relations majors seeking admission.

With the beginning of the University College established in Fall 1997, new premajors are identified as:

- 715P Print Journalism majors seeking admission
- 717P Advertising majors seeking admission
- 749P Photojournalism majors seeking admission

762P Public Relations majors seeking admission.

While they are enrolled in the University College, journalism majors have two advisers, one assigned by the UC. Once these students meet requirements of the University College, their advising is the full responsibility of the department. This was at the insistence of the department, which did not want to lose immediate contact with journalism majors.

The University College requirements are:

Completion of 24 hours of baccalaureate degree credit;

Attainment of grade point average specified by the desired academic program; Removal of any pre-college curriculum deficiencies; and

Completion of the University Core Component of the general education program: ENG 100 Freshman English

SCOM 145 Fundamentals of Public Speaking or SCOM 161 Business and Professional Speaking (Journalism prefers SCOM 161 because it includes some interviewing)

HIST 119 or 120 Western Civilization I or II Mathematics

Simultaneous with UC courses, journalism majors start taking courses in the department. The initial schedule depends on the ACT English score of each student. Students who have qualified for ENG 100 credit through an advanced placement class or ACT score may take JOUR 202 Basic Reporting in the first semester. Otherwise they take JOUR 201 Journalism and Society and ENG 100 in the first semester and JOUR 202 in the second. Photojournalism majors take JOUR 231 Basic Photography in the first semester.

Advising forms follow on the pages indicated on the first page of this section. In the first advising session, a student completes an admission form, designating the desired major, and reads and signs the liberal arts/sciences tracking form that is used to ensure compliance with the 65-hour LAS standard. Sample degree program forms that show requirements for a major are used to track students' progress until official degree programs are completed and filed with the Registrar. A new student also is given a chart showing projected completion of classes needed for graduation. Each is advised as though he or she were admitted to a major. An adviser in the desired sequence is assigned when a student is admitted to a major.

Admission to a major requires completion of 48 hours of college study with an overall GPA of 2.25 and a grade of C or better in JOUR 201, 202 and 232 Electronic Technologies for Journalism, and ENG 100 by students declaring a major in Spring 1997 or later. Students who declared a major before then are required to complete 32 hours and do not have to take JOUR 232.

Course passes, now in the form of electronic authorization, are issued on presentation in the department office of an approved schedule signed by an adviser. A student's on-line advising screen is updated to indicate advising is completed and the student is cleared to register by TOPLINE, a telephone registration system. Spaces in restricted classes are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. Students' names are entered on preregistration rolls because so many students fail to register in a timely fashion after being advised.

DEGREE PROGRAMS

Students who have completed 60 hours of study are required to have a degree program on file before they are cleared to register. Degree programs of transfer students who have not been admitted to a major are kept on file in the department office until they are admitted to majors.

Grades are entered on degree program copies each semester so advisers can determine what a student has completed, is taking, and needs to complete. Changes are made using a degree program change form. Degree programs are originated in the department office, checked in the office of the dean of Potter College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences and kept on file by the Registrar. The department verifies that students file degree programs that meet requirements of majors, minors and hours distribution. The dean's office ensures compliance with General Education Requirements and other university requirements. The Registrar verifies that courses listed on the degree program are completed successfully and authorizes awarding for degrees.

The department takes comfort in knowing that the degree program auditor in the dean's office is fully cognizant with department requirements and ensures that students don't change their degree programs in unacceptable ways.

ADVISERS

Each full-time faculty member has several advisees who are majors in the adviser's sequence. Advisers approve schedules and degree programs and are available on demand to advisees. Advisers frequently help students apply for internships and after-graduation jobs. The list of adviser identification numbers is on page 237.

Career counseling takes place in advising sessions. Student organizations provide role models and career advice through programs held throughout the year. Meetings are advertised and open to students who are not organization members. Faculty members conduct resume/cover letter-writing workshops to help students get started on job hunts and critique each student's job-seeking mailings to enhance their effectiveness in placing the student.

3. Academic advising, career counseling and placement opportunities offered outside the department.

The University Academic Advising and Retention Center in Cherry Hall provides a wide range of academic advising services to undergraduates and aims to coordinate academic advising among undergraduate colleges and academic departments. It coordinates advisement for all students and provides advisement for undeclared students, as well as re-entry, non-traditional and parttime students for departments that don't advise such students.

The center evaluates transcripts of transfer students, providing this information to the department for use in advising students desiring one of our majors. It also coordinates articulation agreements with other state schools on acceptability of transferred credits.

The center records changes of majors and adviser assignments made by the department.

Student Support Services provides comprehensive continuing academic assistant for undergraduate students with academic potential who meet financial guidelines and/or are from families where neither parent holds a bachelor's degree or who are physically disabled.

The University Counseling Services Center provides a broad range of assistance for students:

- Counseling for students with personal problems.
- Counseling on learning problems.
- Vocation counseling.
- Referral for students who need services outside the university.
- Administration of national testing programs required by various departments of the university.
- Administration of the College Level Examination Program, a proficiency testing program that allows individuals to earn college credits by examination. The Career Services Center provides the following:
- Career advising.
- Career development sessions on resume-writing, interviewing and specific employers.
- Career library.
- Cooperative education/internships after the freshman year of study.
- MESA -- a computerized employer matching program.
- Campus interview coordination for potential employers with graduating seniors.
- Job vacancy information.
- Placement files that are forwarded on request of a registrant or employer.

4. What student records are in the unit office? What measures are taken to assure appropriate confidentiality?

Color-coded student files are kept in the administrative assistant's office in lockable files. All office staff and faculty are kept aware of the need for confidentiality. Parents are provided information only when a student writes a letter asking that this be done. Alphabetically arranged student files are grouped into "active," "graduates" or "miscellaneous."

The maintenance of academic records for undergraduate students is the responsibility of the Office of the Registrar. Records of high school performance, ACT scores and transfer credits are maintained in the Academic Advising Office.

| MEMO TO:   | Admitted Journalism Majors               |
|------------|------------------------------------------|
| MEMO FROM: | Jo-Ann Albers, Department Head           |
| SUBJECT:   | Counseling/preregistration for Fall 1997 |

The schedule bulletin for the fall semester will be available in Potter Hall or in the Department of Journalism on March 24. You should schedule an appointment with your adviser before your date to register. If you don't remember who is your adviser, check with the department office by calling 745-4144.

Sign-up sheets for admission to restricted Journalism classes will be ready on March 26. Spaces will go on a first-come, first-served basis. Seniors get preference if they are advised early. The earlier you schedule an appointment with your adviser, the better. Bring your signed schedule to the department office to reserve a space in a restricted class. Even seniors must have schedules signed by their advisers to be authorized to register and secure spaces in restricted Journalism classes.

Senior official registration is April 9-11. (If you're planning to graduate in May, ignore this memo.) Juniors register April 14-16. Sophomores register April 17-21.

If you have not completed a degree program, you will not be permitted to register. Anyone who does not have a degree program filed by June 30 must meet new general education requirements. Completing a degree program is no big chore if you do the following:

- 1. Call Suzie Hardin on 745-4143 to schedule an appointment.
- 2. Tell her your major and minor (or minors or second major).
- 3. Keep the appointment to complete the degree program.
- 4. Take the completed degree program for approval by department of your minor(s) or second major.
- 5. Bring the signed degree program back to the Department of Journalism office for my approval. We will submit it to the dean's office for you.

TO REPEAT: You must be advised to be allowed to register. All students – even seniors – must have a scheduled signed by an adviser before we will trigger the computer to allow you to register either by telephone or in person. Admission to restricted classes will be authorized on after a student submits a signed schedule in the department office.

| MEMO TO:   | Journalism Majors Seeking Admission with 90 or more hours completed (Seniors) |
|------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MEMO FROM: | Jo-Ann Albers, Department Head and Your Adviser                               |
| SUBJECT:   | Counseling/preregistration for Fall '97                                       |

It is important that you exercise your prerogative as a senior to preregister before other students. We will not be automatically saving spots in classes for you, but you have preference in signing up for what you need. Schedule bulletins will be out by March 24.

I will be advising seniors on March 26. Please call 745-4144 for a specific appointment with me. I want to give you priority before I start advising juniors on March 31.

If you have not completed a degree program, I must have it in hand before you can be issued course passes for journalism classes. Call Suzie Hardin on Ext. 4143 for an appointment to complete your degree program. I will not sign your schedule unless you have the degree program completed. Anyone who does not have degree program filed by June 30 must meet new general education requirements.

You must be advised to gain entry in restricted journalism classes. After you are advised we will enter into the university computer authorization for you to enroll in a restricted journalism class. This replaces course passes that formerly were entered, but now you won't be carrying a piece of paper away from the department office. All students -- even seniors -- must have a schedule signed by the appropriate faculty adviser to be granted enrollment in restricted classes.

It is important that you be admitted to a major as quickly as possible. You are not permitted to take more than 12 hours of journalism courses (four courses) without being admitted to a major. At your counseling appointment we'll go over what you lack and need to do to gain your admission as quickly as possible.

| SUBJECT:   | Counseling/preregistration for Fall 1997                                    |

If you want to exercise your right as a junior to register early, you should make an appointment now for advising after the schedule bulletins come out on March 24. Call 745-4144 to make an individual appointment with me. If you don't come before April 1 for advising you will be grouped with sophomores and freshmen and not receive separate attention.

I will advise juniors on March 31 from 8 to 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. Other times can be arranged if necessary. Fifteen minutes will be allowed for each appointment. You can pick up a schedule bulletin in Potter Hall or in the Department of Journalism on March 24 or thereafter.

If you have not completed a degree program, you must do so immediately so I have it in hand and can authorize your registration. I will not sign your schedule unless the degree program is completed and on file in the department office. To complete a degree program make an appointment with Suzie Hardin at 745-4143. When you call tell her your major and what minor you want to pursue. Anyone who does not have a degree program filed by June 30 must meet new general education requirements.

You must be advised to be allowed to register. All students -- even seniors -- must have a schedule signed by an adviser before we will trigger the computer to allow you to register either by telephone or in person. Admission to restricted classes will be authorized on the university registration system after a student submits a signed schedule in the department office.

It is important that you be admitted to a major as quickly as possible. You are not permitted to take more than 12 hours of journalism classes (four courses) without being admitted to your major. To be admitted you must have completed JOUR 201 Journalism and Society, JOUR 202 Basic Reporting and ENG 100 Freshman English with a grade of C or better and have a 2.25 overall grade point average, if you started your major before this semester. Students starting majors in Spring '97 must complete JOUR 232 Electronic Technologies for Journalism.

Freshmen and sophomore students -- and seniors and juniors who don't take advantage of earlier advising times -- will be advised in the time slots indicated below. Sophomores can start calling Topline to register on April 17; freshmen on April 22 (except for honors students who may register with seniors). You must have a signed schedule approved by me before you can register.

Registration for Spring '97 Semester

Registration for the spring semester was supposed to have been completed on Friday, but you have not come in for advising. Please call 745-4144 immediately to make an appointment if you intend to take classes in the spring semester.

If you are planning to leave Western and/or change your major, would you please jot a note to that effect on the bottom of this letter and return it to us so we will know your plans?

We wish you success in all that you attempt, and want to be sure you are registered in a timely fashion. Several classes already are closed. Don't put off your advising session any longer. You must be advised before the computer will allow you to register.

RE: Progress Toward Admission

I am sorry that we could not admit you to your major at the end of the Fall 1996 semester. Below is documentation of why you were not admitted. You should address any problem in the Spring or Summer '97 sessions.

Until you are admitted to your major, you may take only 12 hours of journalism courses, six of which must be JOUR 201 Journalism and Society and JOUR 202 Basic Reporting. Failure to be admitted to your major quickly could cause a delay in your graduation date.

Please contact the department office is you have any questions or want to make a change in your Spring '97 schedule.

TO:FROM:Jo-Ann Huff Albers, Department HeadRE:Completing Your Degree Program

I'm writing to encourage you to return to school to complete your degree. You're well over half finished and could complete your studies in three semesters if you come back this fall.

If you take PJ in the fall, you may take JOUR 435 Photo Editing and JOUR 438 Photo Management in Spring '96 and JOUR 436 Advanced Photojournalism or JOUR 437 Electronic Picture Editing in Fall '96 and graduate in December. JOUR 435 and 438 are offered only in the spring and 436 and 437 only in the fall, so it's important that you get 334 this fall to allow you to get both 435 and 438 next spring.

Please let us know what your plans are. We want to count you among our graduates.

We wish you well in all that you attempt.

If you'll call Suzie Hardin, department senior secretary, or me we could help you plan a fall schedule and possibly even register you for the classes you select.

I'm concerned that you dropped JOUR 334 Photojournalism in the spring semester and have no schedule for fall. I hope that doesn't mean you've decided not to complete your degree. It would be a shame for you to not finish when you are so close.

Thank you for your interest in Western's photojournalism program. We're pleased to have you joining us in the fall.

WESTERN

After you left today I looked at your transcript and completed the enclosed degree program for you. I completed a liberal arts/sciences form for you and determined that you have completed 79 hours of such courses, well in excess of our 65-hour minimum requirement. We are admitting you to the major right away and assigning Dave LaBelle as your adviser.

You will take 24 hours in journalism, three hours in Government and will need an additional three hours to account for the 30-hour minimum required by Western for a second undergraduate degree. I'm enclosing the degree program for you to review, sign and return to me for filing with the dean's office. I listed a French course to come up with the 30 hours.

The enclosed worksheet projects a December '98 graduation with your taking the Fall '97 semester off for an internship. This would be the maximum time needed to complete the degree. You can count on being allowed to take JOUR 438 Photo Management along with JOUR 435 Photo Editing in the Spring '98 semester. Any decision to waive one of our photo courses would be made by the photo faculty, based on review of your progress in the major.

On your degree program I listed all the journalism/communication courses you have taken so we have a total picture of professional courses you have taken.

We'll be happy to register you for fall classes once a registration pass is authorized by the Office of Admissions.

Let me know if you have any additional questions.

Sincerely_ abus
