BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Rosa Belle Praigg was born at Perryville, in Boyle County, Kentucky, on 17 July 1843. She graduated from Perryville's Harmonia College in 1862, and in 1865 became a music teacher at Green River Female Seminary (Thomas H. Storts' school), in Bowling Green, Kentucky. On 4 July 1867, she married a Warren County physician, Dr. William Henry Dickerson (1833-1912).

Rosa Praigg Dickerson had begun her writing career by the age of 16. When Godey's Lady's Book accepted one of her stories in 1859, she used her earnings of fifteen dollars to buy what was said to be the first oil lamp in Perryville. Her short stories and poems appeared in periodicals and newspapers such as Peterson's Lady's Book, the Kentucky Tribune, the Cincinnati Enquirer, the Louisville Times, the Bowling Green Democrat and the Bowling Green Gazette; she also wrote song lyrics. Mrs. Dickerson published under both her own name and the pen name Violet Woods (or Violette Woods). She chose the name after reading a description of the poet Sappho, whom she admired, as "violet tressed."

Rosa Praigg Dickerson died in Warren County, Kentucky on 29 July 1902.

COLLECTION NOTE

The collection consists mostly of material relating to the literary career of Rosa Belle (Praigg) Dickerson, writing under her own name and under the pen name Violet Woods or Violette Woods. Folder 2 contains biographical information, including notes that were probably taken at the time the collection was donated, and her obituary. Folder 3 contains complimentary letters to Dickerson from George D. Prentice, editor of the Louisville Journal, and from the editors of the Kentucky Military Institute Magazine. Another letter from an admirer, who sought to answer one of her poems with a composition of his/her own, is in Folder 8.

Folder 4 contains two speeches and an exhibit program relating to Dickerson's graduation from Harmonia College in Perryville, Kentucky. Folders 5-10 contain stories, poems and song lyrics, both published and unpublished. Due to the condition of the originals, the scrapbook pages in Folder 5 and the clippings in Folder 7 have been photocopied on acid-free paper; in addition, the poems in Folder 10 are typescripts from other sources. Folders 11 and 12 contain miscellaneous materials, namely a stock application by Dickerson's daughter and photocopies of carte de visite photos, mostly of Confederate officers but including a photo of George D. Prentice. The original photos have been transferred to the photograph collections of the Kentucky Library.
