BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

David Berry Garvin was born in Bowling Green, Kentucky, on 1943 February 22, the second child and only son of Charles Cromwell & Martha (Berry) Garvin. He attended the Western Training School and graduated from College High in 1961. He attended Vanderbilt University and graduated from Western Kentucky University; he furthered his education by taking classes at Harvard Business School. He was a member of Bowling Green's First Presbyterian Church and the E.Q.B. Literary Club.

In early- 1940s, David's father, Charles T. "Charlie" Garvin purchases Beech Bend Park, which adjoined the family farm. That began a long career in family recreation for both Charlie and David. Beech Bend Park eventually grew to become a nationally known amusement park and raceway and one of Kentucky's largest tourist destinations. David was instrumental in helping develop the International Race Track at Beech Bend.

David worked at Beech Bend from the time he was 12 years old. In his early 20's, while still working at the park, David founded Camping World (1966), a company which serviced the growing number of people who owned or rented recreational vehicles. Headquartered in Bowling Green, Camping World grew into an important mail order business and eventually opened 100 stores nationwide and employed 5,000 employees. David sold Camping World in 1990 to dedicate more of his time to developing a thoroughbred horse farm at his Ironwood Farm.

Besides his business interests, Garvin maintained an avid interest in historic preservation. He purchased and restored Ironwood, the historic home of Joseph Rogers Underwood on the Barren River near Beech Bend Park. He also restored the Old Richardsville Road Bridge and the College Street Bridge, Garvin also supervised the development of the adjacent river park. Challenging CSX Railroad, Garvin almost singlehandedly persuaded the railroad behemoth to strip the old silver paint of the Barren River railroad bridge and allow the metal to oxidize therefore making it more attractive at this busy entrance to the city. Garvin and his son David renovated the rear of the old Bowling Green Armory into an attractive apartment building.

Besides his development and management of Camping World, David also undertook several land development projects in the Bowling Green area, including the building of Sugar Maple Square, a retail shopping center, on Highway 185, northwest of Bowling Green. He was also heavily involved in conceptualizing land use for a commercial recreational vehicle haven in Franklin, Kentucky, Garvin's, that was to include several national chain stores, a recreational vehicle museum, amusement rides, and an area for camping. Although Garvin purchased large tracts of land along Interstate-65 near Franklin and met with a number of interested parties, the development did not reach fruition.

Garvin married Charlotte Mann in 1969. They had four children: Katherine, Kimberley, David, and Arthur. Garvin died on 30 August 2014 at the age of 71.

COLLECTION NOTE

This collection documents the life of David Berry Garvin, particularly several of his land development and business projects. Box 1 contains a variety of materials including his 1961 high school diploma, news clippings, correspondence and photographs. Of particular interest is a document drafted by Garvin in the late-1980s titled "20/20 Vision Statement" in which he outlines what he anticipated for the future of Bowling Green, Kentucky, and includes comments related to transportation, economic development, education, recreation, art and culture. Folder 11 includes a number of Ironwood Farm's horse photographs. Folder 15 includes information about Beech Bend Park, including several brochures, an annual pass form 1971, a marketing study from 1988 and a business plan from 1981, and a map/information sheet for camping guests. Box 2 contains calendars and part of a diary for 2013-2014. This material is restricted and cannot be viewed until May 1, 2024.

Box 3 contains information about Camping World, including a corporate profile (Folder 1). The Kentucky Library Research Collections owns a large run of Camping World catalogs, but Folder 2 includes sever specialty catalogs. Folder 3 includes a press packet for Camping World produced in 1984 which includes several press releases as well as publicity photographs. Folder 4 includes notes from a strategic planning session, and Folder 5 contains some miscellaneous items such as early Camping World stationery.

Boxes 4 and 5 contain information about a land development project along Interstate-65 near Franklin, Kentucky. It includes correspondence, photographs, reports, maps, etc. related to that project. Material related to specific retailers and vendors that Garvin approached are indicated by the folder headings in Box 5. Folder 12 contains information about Garvin's lobbying efforts to legalize gambling in Kentucky.

Box 6 includes material about other land development and retail projects in which Garvin was involved, chiefly a retail shopping center named Sugar Maple Square on Bowling Green's northwest side. It contains marketing information collected by Garvin from residents related to what they desired in a local shopping center.

Boxes 7 and 8 document Garvin's funeral. Box 7 includes several funeral books in which attendees were allowed to write their personal remembrances about Garvin, and Box 8 includes a large number of sympathy cards and notes received by the Garvin family, as well as floral tribute cards and a funeral program. Of note are several certificates that indicated trees were planted in honor of David's life. Because Garvin loved trees, the family specified that people plant trees in David's memory in lieu of sending funeral flowers.
