SC LARSH, Abraham 1828
2965

Letter, 3 August 1828, from Abraham Larsh, Bowling Green, Kentucky, to his cousin John Gardner, York County, Pennsylvania. He discusses the emboldening of opposition in Tennessee to Andrew Jackson, President John Quincy Adams's rival, despite a recent assault by Jackson supporters. He also discusses the likelihood of Jackson's alliance with former Vice President Aaron Burr in a plot to separate western states from the Union. While pleased with local crop yields and an expressed supporter of internal improvements, Larsh looks "with anxiety" to the completion of the railroad at the Ohio River, which he believes will give rise to a major commercial center at that location. He closes with brief family references.
