“Get on the Bus for Sustainability”

Invitation to Exhibitors

Western Kentucky University will hold its first Education for Sustainability Summer Institute (EFSSI 2011) on July 21-22, 2011. This event will involve university faculty and staff, preK-12 teachers, non-formal educators and administrators from throughout Kentucky and the region. It's focus will be on successful program models and practical strategies for integrating sustainability into classes, schools, and districts.

As a business who integrates fair-trade and sustainability aspects into your company, we invite you to be an exhibitor for the event. We are seeking education for sustainability-related information and book displays as well as fair trade products.

EFSSI 2011 will be held in Gary A. Ransdell Hall, the new College of Education and Behavioral Sciences building at WKU. The building is designed to Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) standards and is a model for sustainability itself. The event will run from 12:00 noon on Thursday, July 21 through 4:30 pm on Friday, July 22. The Exhibitor's Hall will be accessible for the duration of the conference.

Please complete the Application for Exhibitor's Space below. When an application is submitted, additional information about set-up and take-down, and parking will be sent.

For other questions, please contact cees@wku.edu.

Thank you for considering participating in this important first event!
