

4-1-2008

Collide

Trish Lindsey Jaggers
Western Kentucky University, trish.jaggers@wku.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/bgcc_acad_supp_div_fac_pub

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Repository Citation

Jaggers, Trish Lindsey, "Collide" (2008). Academic Support Division Faculty Publications. Paper 7. http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/bgcc_acad_supp_div_fac_pub/7

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by TopSCHOLAR®. It has been accepted for inclusion in Academic Support Division Faculty Publications by an authorized administrator of TopSCHOLAR®. For more information, please contact topscholar@wku.edu.

Collide

Sprigs of baby's breath stretch to fill spaces in a spray of lilies; stars and stripes curve
over the polished casket;
padded corners soften the edges we touch.

Blood, beneath the skin, looks blue, but the blood spreads, tributaries on the map
of flesh; red empties into dark oceans, climbs the faces of yellow banks, grabs soil from brown, red, and black roots,
falls back onto itself, foams, tumbles through rocks, bursts, settles for awhile; bruised.

In the back room, we hunker around the table, a candle, its flame flinching
from the slap of our breaths, our knees just touching, sore beneath the cloth.

Trish Lindsey Jagers