A TRIBUTE
To
Mrs. Claire Brawner Davenport:
FOUNDER and PAST PRESIDENT
THE SOUTHERN KENTUCKY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

By: Mrs. Virginia Posey DeVries, Pres.

Mrs. Claire Brawner Davenport, organizer and founder of the Southern Kentucky Genealogical Society, has served as its president for the past three years.

She is a certified professional genealogist and her expertise and genealogical knowledge are well-known. She has lectured on the subject to various clubs and other groups, and has conducted classes in genealogy in Bowling Green, Kentucky and elsewhere. Her enthusiastic presentation of the subject to her students, motivated them so that at the conclusion of their courses, they expressed the desire of pursuing further studies and genealogical research and of sharing with others the excitement of this interesting subject and hobby.

It was due to the urging of these students and at the insistence of others, that Mrs. Davenport decided to form a genealogical club. Thereupon, in November 1977 The Southern Kentucky Genealogical Society came into being, with an organization, charter and by-laws, and a membership of approximately 15 people. Today its membership has climbed above the 100 mark and there is a growing interest being shown by people from all over the United States.

Claire, as she is known to us, while serving as President of our Southern Kentucky Genealogical Society, has simultaneously served as Regent of the D.A.R and retained active membership in the Daughters of American Colonists and the Kentucky Historical Society. She has likewise been active in other fields of endeavor, among these being member of the Arts and Crafts Guild; Teacher in Bowling Green Schools; Counselor; Chairman of the Hospitality Committee of her Church; and worker in both the Social and Political fields. During her 3-year period as president, she has kept currently abreast in the genealogical field by attending Genealogy School and seminars from time to time.

Despite her very busy schedule and numerous activities outside her home, Mrs. Davenport has successfully maintained a happy and harmonious family life. She is a wonderful wife and mother and is married to Tom Davenport. They are the parents of 4 lovely children as follows: Daughter Teresa, wife of Gerald Broander, and mother of a son, Christopher and a daughter Laura Beth. They live in Nashville, Tenn. and bring the grandchildren to visit often with their grandmother. Daughter Beverly is the wife of Howard Sypher, who graduated from college with a PHD and she and her husband teach at U.of K., Lexington, Ky. They have no children. Her young son Dennis is married and lives in Bowling Green. The one child living at home is 15-year old Deana, a cheerleader at Bowling Green Senior High School. All of the children with the exception of Deana are college graduates.

Our Hats are off to you, Claire, for your forethought in organizing and founding our Southern Kentucky Genealogical Society; for your faithful and sacrificial service during your three years of presidency; for your genealogical assistance to members, but most of all for your continued friendship.

Also we congratulate you for the exemplary manner in which you have reared your 4 children. They are living proof of their fine heritage, and the influence and guidance of wonderful parents. No doubt your children and grandchildren "will rise up and call you blessed", as the Bible says - Prov. 31:28.

inspired me to develop a love for books. My academic interests were very much orientated in the sciences and the mathematics. Chemistry was my major interest and I secured excellent training. My second major activity was track. During my freshman year, I won every mile event that I entered. I was very proud of the fact that I won the first in the mile event at the MIAA Meet. I treasure this medal to this very day. There was a time that I held the school college record in the mile and the two-mile.

After graduating in 1928, I went to California, Missouri for my first teaching assignment as science instructor. These three years were happy years and I have appreciated the kindness that those people of the community gave me. In the fall of 1931, I enrolled in the graduate college at the State University of Iowa in the field of chemistry, where I earned the MS degree in 1932 and PhD in 1935. I must confess that this assignment became the most difficult one that I ever encountered. Money was in such short supply in those days aht I was compelled to seek outside employment.

After one year of post-graduate study, I was given the opportunity to become faculty member at Huron College, Huron, South Dakota, teaching chemistry and physics courses. This was also the time that I married the lovely Miss Vera Huen of Eldora, Iowa, who was also a graduate of the State University of Iowa.

At this period of time, the drought conditions in South Dakota were severe. Huron College was in a severe financial condition. It was our regret that we found it necessary to go elsewhere. In 1937, I took a position in the Chemistry Department at Texas A & M University. Then in 1942 we came to what is now Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, Kentucky. By this time our family included two children, Allene and Gerald.

In this new position I was able to organize and develop the courses in analytical chemistry that I so badly wanted to do. I have found that my twenty-eight years of teaching at Western to be most rewarding. I served for ten years as a member of the committee for the purpose of promoting Western students for entrances to various medical colleges. It has become a great satisfaction to view the successes that these young men and young women have achieved. Another one of my projects was the seeking out and encouraging talented young men and women to continue their education on the graduate level. Consequently, there were well over thirty young men and women with the doctorage degree. Some occupy high positions in the industrial world while others are most successful in the academic world. The greatest is Dr. Harry B. Gray. When Dr. Linnus Pauling retired at California Institute of Technology, Dr. Gray was sought as a replacement in the Department of Chemistry. He is now being recognized as one of the great young chemists of the world. I regard this to be my greatest academic achievement.

No biography would be complete without giving considerable attention to my family. Our two children were born in Bryan, Texas. The first, Allene Margaret, was a lovely daughter. She graduated from Western Kentucky University with honors and continued her graduate studies

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF DR. GLENN DOOLEY

The dawn of my life was May 18, 1905, near South Haven, in the southern part of Sumner County, Kansas. I was told that my birthplace was in a typical rural home which was located within two miles of the Kansas-Oklahoma line. I have few memories of this early life. My family soon moved to Missouri, where I grew up in Vernon County, near the town of Nevada. To be more specific, we lived in Washington Township. Most of my early schooling came at the Washington and Lone Star one-room schools. I am delighted to report that my "Old Alma Mater" is in existence today. The Lone Star School saw many youthful feet come and go through the door. This building is now used as a Community Building.

There are many happy memories of those early years, which were typical of what a youth would experience. Tractors were unknown and so it was here that I learned to plow, cultivate and the like with horses and mules. The cows were milked, the pigs were fed, the sheep were sheared and the chickens were fed and the eggs were gathered. The corn was handpicked and the grain thrashed with a steam-trashing machine. The roads were not paved and the automobile was a rare piece of equipment. Today, I have developed the feeling that I did live in the dwindling period of pioneer life.

Graduating from the eighth grade with the highest scholastic average in the Township, I was awarded free tuition for one year at the Nevada High School. My freshman year was rather uneventual. It was in the second year that I began to blossom forth. The seven miles from town had certain disadvantages and advantages. During the winter months, it was much more simple and easy to travel this distance by foot than by horseback or by buggy over the frozen roads. Consequently, I was in a most excellent condition when the track season arrived. I won every mile event in the high school meets that the Nevada High School participated that year. In those days, these meets were run over a dirt track at the local Fair Grounds. I must give Finis Engleman and Horace Robbins a lot of credit for their patient coaching and encouragements.

The class studies at Nevada High were equally rewarding. In those days, our teachers knew little else to do but to teach. My major interest was in the area of the sciences. I had wonderful teachers in H. Clifton Wilkerson, R. Emerson Park and W. S. Ester. It was Finis Engleman that encouraged me to attend what is now Southwest Missouri State University, Springfield.

Money was a scarce commodity in those days. I fully believe that seventy-five percent or more of the students found it necessary to secure some off-campus employment to finance their way through college. I was compelled to do the same. I was a bit more fortunate in that I was a student librarian. It was Miss Grace Palmore who in English at the University of Arkansas, where she earned her Masters. She has two lovely daughters of her own, Grace Margaret and Jennifer Anne. They reside in Pocatello, Idaho. Our son, Gerald Wilton, also graduated from Western and continued his studies on the graduate level at Iowa State University at Ames, where he earned his Ph D. He is now employed as C.P.A. in the office of State Comptroller's Division of State of Tennessee in Nashville. He has increased our family by adding another granddaughter, Amira Elaine, and a grandson, Glenn David.

Since my early life was spent on a farm, I acquired a love for growing plants and animals. For obvious reasons, animal culture is not practical as a hobby in a city. Plant culture is. I soon centered on the gladiolus as a flower to grow. Since daffodils grow so well in Kentucky, I have acquired a great love for them. As a general rule the culture of the two flowers are non-conflicting.

In 1951 I organized the Kentucky Gladiolus Society and became its first president. At the last meeting of the Society, my wife Vera was elected to be the president for the coming year. At the Convention of the North American Gladiolus Council last January 1977, I was given the highest award in the form of a Gold Medal for my work in the promotion of gladiolus and gladiolus shows.

When the American Daffodil Society was organized several years ago, I became a charter member, and later became a charter member of the Kentucky Daffodil Society. It is interesting to note that there are state-wide flower societies, and two presidents live in the same household, as I now am serving a two-year term as president of KY. Daffodil Society.

Retirement came in the year 1970. Obviously, there must be some sort of a project to be developed to occupy one's interest and time. My great aunt wrote a history of the Moses Dooley Family. Several in the family have resolved to revise this 1933 publication. This project has developed into a most interesting history of the early Dooley Family. I have traced this family back to Henry and Martha Anderson Dooley who lived in Orange County, VA. in 1735. My great, great, great grandparents came to Kentucky in 1781. Somehow, the word has gotten around that I am an authority on the history of the early Dooley families in this country.

Often, I have been asked the question as to the most eventful discovery in my family history. I will have to state that the discovery of Col. Benjamin Rush Milam would have to take top honor. Col. Benjamin Rush Milam, an early Texan was a great hero who died in the Texas Revolution battle to save San Antonio. There is a monument in the Milam Square in San Antonio dedicated to this great Texas hero. Col. Ben's mother was Elizabeth Boyd, who was a sister to Mary Boyd, my great, great, great, grandmother. I am spending much time collecting family data. I am constantly discovering lost segments of the family, but there is a great deal of pleasure in putting various segments of the Dooley Family together. It is hoped that an eventual publication will be made in the form of a book showing my pride in my Scotch-Irish ancestry.

I am a member of the Sons of the American Revolution as a descendant of Moses Dooley of Bedford County, Va. I have published two articles in Kentucky Ancestors -- "Arabia Brown of Garrard County, KY" (Vol. 11, No. 3, Jan. 1976) and "Captain Thomas and Rebecca Sharpe Dooley Family" (Vol. 15, No. 1, July 1979, PP. 21-25).

These last years are finding me a very, very busy person. I have developed a deep interest in those things that were a part of pioneer living. My camera is frequently used in capturing pictures of county court house, covered bridges, grist mills, steam locomotives, presidential homes and places of historical interest. The love for good classical music continues with a flow of recordings coming into my collection. With a good wife, two fine children, three lovely granddaughters and one grandson, I have much to be thankful for and they are a great inspiration to live for a good many more years.

(The above autobiography was written by Dr. Glenn Dooley, professor emeritus - Western Kentucky University- about 1978, some two years before his death. At his death on May 29, 1980, other articles were in preparation; his revision of Sarah Dooley Emerick's history of the Moses Dooley family remains unfinished. Because of his extensive research on all Dooley lines, Dr. Dooley had become the unofficial authority on all early Dooley (Dooly, Dooling, Duley, Duly, Dula) families in this country.)

ASK ANDY

When was the first battle in the American Revolutionary War?

The American Revolutionary War started on April 19, 1775, when a band of colonists fought British soldiers at Lexington, Mass. A few hours later in nearby Concord, the colonists fired "the shot heard round the world" when they battled British troops near a bridge.

The first major battle in the war took place in June 1775 and became known as the Battle of Bunker Hill. When the Americans heard the British planned to fortify the hills on Charlestown Peninsula, across the Charles River north of Boston, they decided to occupy Bunker Hill before the British could.

On June 16, the Americans moved onto the peninsula. They by-passed Bunker Hill and fortified Breed's Hill because it was closer to Boston. They left their reinforcements on Bunker Hill. When the British realized what happened, they ferried 2,500 troops across the Charles under Sir William Howe. The Americans, led by Colonel William Prescott, met them on top of Breed's Hill. The British fell back twice under heavy fire.

Then the British charged a third time. The Americans were out of powder and moved back to Bunker Hill. The British kept up the attack and finally drove the Americans not only off of Bunker Hill, but off of the peninsula as well. About 400 Americans were killed or wounded.

Gen. George Washington assumed command of the Continental Army on July 3, 1775, during the first year of the war.

On July 4, 1776, the Second Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence and a new nation was officially launched. On April 15, 1783, Congress ratified the preliminary peace treaty that had been signed in Paris on November 30, 1782. Then on September 3, 1783, both the United States and Great Britain signed the final peace treaty in Paris. The last of the British left New York City on November 25, 1783. The war had lasted eight years.

Compared with modern wars, the American Revolutionary War was a small war with the fighting forces rarely exceeding 15,000 men. Both the patriots and the redcoats, as the British soldiers were called, relied mainly on muskets and bayonets.

Andy sends a year book to Roger Peek, 12, of Florence, S.C., for his question.

READERS' VIEWS

Revolutionary War battle

In the Ask Andy column for Jan. 14, the question was asked: "When was the first battle in the American Revolutionary War?" The answer stated that this battle was fought at Lexington, Mass., on April 19, 1775.

This is incorrect. It is regretted that historians and others cling to this concept.

The first battle in the Revolutionary War was fought on Oct. 10, 1774. The location was what is now known as Point Pleasant, W. Va. In the early days, this location was in Virginia. The immediate location for this battle is in the area where the Great Kanawha River empties into the Ohio River. From the Acts of the Congress of the U.S. on Feb. 17, 1908, this fact was recognized.

There is a Historical Military National Monument established at Point Pleasant, W. Va. It is hoped that many of the readers of this excellent newspaper will visit this park sometime in the future. And, it is hoped that historians, writers and others will state the facts concerning this great battle.

THE OLD CANMER WAGON WORKS

If you had been traveling on the old upper Louisville and Nashville turnpike in the year 1880, you might have been somewhat surprised when you passed a large two story building on the east side about one-half mile south of Canmer. This was a thriving Wagon and Buggy works; the products of this shop were well known from Louisville to Nashville as well as throughout the surrounding country. In fact this was the largest business of its kind between these two cities.

The story of the Wagon Works goes back many years before 1880. It was about one hundred years ago that Mr. G. W. Blakey moved from Adair County (KY) to Hart County (KY); very soon after he came into Hart Co. he purchased land south of Canmer and erected a log blacksmith shop on the west side of the road. Here he not only shod horses and oxen, but he made both horse and oxen shoes, axes, nails, plows and other farm implements. Also he made a few tar lynchpin wagons, wagons with wooden axels, which were lubricated with tar, rather than axel grease.

As his business increased, Mr. Blakey saw the need for larger quarters; so about 1872 he built a larger shop across the road and moved into it. During this time the business operated under the name of Blakey and Son, F. R. Blakey. From 1875 to 1879, the two sons F.R. and G.A. Blakey ran the business under the name Blakey Brothers. In 1878, Mr. G. A. Blakey withdrew from the firm and F.R. Blakey continued to operate the business.

It was from 1878 to 1886 that the wagon making business was most active. Often during that time as many as eight men were kept busy; three wood workmen, three smiths, one painter, and one upholsterer. Although the business was known as a wagon works, buggies were also made. One of the products that was well known was the drummer wagons, strong two horse wagons in which drummers from Louisville and Nashville carried their sample trunks and boxes. In 1876 the manufacture of thimble-skein wagons was begun, and it was these wagons that gave the Canmer works its reputation. The factory building was about three times the size of the part that stood until recently. It had two stories and several rooms.

After 1886, because of the competition of the Cincinnati and Louisville wagon works, business began to fall off. In the early 1880's, Mr. F. B. Blakey retired from the wagon and carriage business and turned the shop over to his sons, J. V. and George W., who continued to carry on the business which by that time consisted largely of blacksmithing.

Information given by R. H. Blakey about 1930.

I moved to near Hardyville in 1909 and I can remember the buildings when they were larger, and Mr. J.V. Blakey was my friend and blacksmith.

Roy A. Cann, Historian
Munfordville, KY.

(The above was submitted by Eugenia Blakey Hayes, daughter of James Wingfield Blakey (1881-1957), the son of Felix Robert (1839-1928). James W. Blakey was a blacksmith with a shop on Scottsville Road, Bowling Green (1924-1936), about where Dr. Beckett's house is now situated. Later, it was on 8th Street (1936-1949), near the site of Ray's Barbecue Pit. R. H. Blakey, who gave some of the information to Mr. Cann, was the oldest (of 6) sons of F.R. and Drucilla Cowherd Blakey.)

GOSSOM CEMETERY

This old cemetery is on the right side of 31-W, just beyond the Overpass over the L&N Railroad about four miles north of Bowling Green, Kentucky. Here were buried the early members of the Gossom and Roberts families who came to Kentucky from Virginia.

Mr. E. R. Tanksley, Edwina Tanksley Boucher, and Drucilla S. Jones visited this cemetery Nov. 10, 1965, and copied the following inscriptions.

Several stones were face-down and could not be lifted. A number of graves were marked with hand-hewn and/or slabs of native stone without inscriptions.

Mr. Tanksley said the graves at the back of the cemetery were probably of slaves. He supplied information for maiden names, children of, etc. given in parentheses.
