DANVILLE, KENTUCKY - A RESOURCE PROFILE

Danville, located in central Kentucky's Bluegrass Region, is the county seat of Boyle County and the home of Centre College, an independent liberal arts college with a tradition of academic excellence. The city had a 1980 population of 12,942. Boyle County, with a population of 25,066 in 1980, covers a land area of 182 square miles which ranges from gently rolling to hilly terrain.

Danville played a prominent role in Kentucky's history, serving as the site for the drafting of the state's first constitution. Today, Danville is a progressive community which continues to develop its economic base, while preserving its historical heritage.

Danville is 35 miles southwest of Lexington, Kentucky; 85 miles southeast of Louisville, Kentucky; and 130 miles south of Cincinnati, Ohio. A central location and good transportation facilities have been major factors in the city's growth in distribution and manufacturing industries.

The Economic Framework

The total number of Boyle County residents employed in 1982 averaged 11,915, with nonagricultural jobs accounting for 11,265 workers. Manufacturing employers in the county reported 3,410 workers; wholesale and retail trade 3,010; service occupations 1,500; and 1,175 employees in state and local government. Manufacturing employment is greatest in stone, clay and glass products; apparel and related products; electrical and nonelectrical equipment; and fabricated metal products.

Per capita personal income in Boyle County in 1981 was $8,736. Between 1977 and 1981, per capita income increased by 53 percent.

The Danville labor market area includes Boyle County and the adjoining Kentucky counties of Casey, Garrard, Lincoln, Marion, Mercer and Washington. The total number of residents of the labor market area employed in 1982 averaged 46,840, with nonagricultural jobs accounting for 40,680 workers. Manufacturing employers in this area reported 8,160 workers; wholesale and retail trade 6,080; state and local government 3,930; and 3,530 employees in the service industries.

Resources for Growth

1. Labor Supply - There is a current labor supply of 8,830 men and 4,720 women available for industrial jobs in the labor market area. In addition, from 1983 through 1987, 5,635 young men and 5,360 young women in the area will become 18 years of age and potentially available for industrial jobs.

2. Transportation - The Southern Railway System provides rail freight service to Danville, with daily stops and piggyback facilities available. U.S. Highways 127 and 150 are "AAA"-rated, 80,000-pound gross load limit highways serving Danville. U.S. 127 provides access to the Blue Grass Parkway, 25 miles north of Danville, and to the Cumberland Parkway, 51 miles south of Danville. Interstates 64 and 75 are both accessible near Lexington, 35 miles northeast of Danville. Twenty-two common carriers serve the city, and four of these maintain local terminals. The nearest scheduled commercial airline service is available at Blue Grass Field near Lexington. Chartered air freight service is available by prior arrangement at the Danville-Boyle County Airport, 4 miles south of Danville.

3. Power and Fuel - Kentucky Utilities Company provides electric power to Danville and portions of Boyle County. The major portion of Boyle County is served by Inter County Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation, whose source of power is East Kentucky Power Cooperative. Western Kentucky Gas Company, whose source of supply is Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, provides natural gas service to Danville. Five propane dealers and six distillate fuel oil dealers are located within 15 miles of the city.

4. Education - The Boyle County School System enrolled 2,535 students in 1983. The Danville Independent School System had an enrollment of 2,193 students and is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The Kentucky School for the Deaf, a state supported institution for the hearing impaired, is also located in Danville.

Centre College, located in Danville, is a four-year, independent, liberal arts college which confers Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees. The Fall 1982 enrollment at Centre College was 718. Also located in Danville is the Kentucky Junior College of Business which confers the Associate in Science degree. The college's Fall 1982 enrollment was 415.

In addition, three universities, two senior colleges, a junior college and a technical institute are located within 36 miles of Danville.

Central Kentucky State Vocational-Technical School is located in Lexington, 35 miles northeast of Danville, and offers instruction in 20 course areas. Harrodsburg Area Vocational Education Center, 9 miles north at Harrodsburg, offers training in seven course areas. Garrard County Area Vocational Education Center at Lancaster, 12 miles east of Danvile, offers six course areas.

AVERAGE WEEKLY WAGES BY INDUSTRY, BY PLACE OF WORK, 1982

*Not disclosed.

Note: Excludes domestic workers, railway workers, certain nonprofit corporations, majority of federal government workers, and self-employed workers.

Source: Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, Average Weekly Wages of Workers Covered by Kentucky Unemployment Insurance Law, 1982. Occupational wage rates for specific industries are usually not available to most government agencies, and wage data furnished to state employment agencies by individual industrial employers are protected from disclosure by federal law. The most reliable up-to-date wage information can be obtained by direct contact with local employers.

Associated Industries of Kentucky, a voluntary organization of Kentucky businesses, regularly collects occupational wage rates and fringe benefits data from participating member firms. Data are compiled for over 127 clearly defined office, production, and service occupations. Tabulations are published for nine geographical areas of Kentucky, as shown on the map below. It should be noted that the data may be weighted by the preponderance of firms in the larger cities and may be somewhat higher than the rates paid in the smaller communities. Data from these tabulations are available, upon request, from the Kentucky Department of Economic Development, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Kentucky school districts levy property taxes on property located within individual school district boundaries. Two types of school districts are operated in Kentucky: 1) independent school districts which usually operate within a single city and often do not cover the entire city; and 2) common school districts which operate in portions of counties not covered by independent districts and cover the entire county when there is no independent district. School district boundaries are mutually exclusive and do not cross.

The first post office west of the Alleghenies still stands in the square alongside replicas of the jail, courthouse and meeting house. The recently completed Governor's Circle Monument features a landscaped ring of plaques, each with a likeness of a Kentucky governor. Newly renovated buildings house historical displays, Kentucky crafts and a Centre College exhibit.

The McDowell House is the home in which pioneer surgeon Dr. Ephraim McDowell lived and worked. Now a registered national historic landmark, the house is located adjacent to Constitution Square and is open to the public year-round. The Apothecary Shop next door displays authentic 18th and 19th century pharamaceuticals.

The Centre College campus is the site of a variety of intercollegiate sports activities throughout the fall, winter and spring months. The college's track is available for public use. The Regional Arts Center, also located on the Centre campus, offers a variety of cultural and entertainment activities to the community, including art exhibits, concerts and theatrical performances by national touring companies.

Dining and outdoor theatre is available at Pioneer Playhouse. An 18th century village has been constructed on the theatre grounds, depicting a typical street scene at the time Kentucky's constitution was adopted.

Perryville Battlefield State Shrine, located in Boyle County, 13 miles west of Danville, is the site of the largest Civil War battle in Kentucky. A museum, a picnic area, and a playground are located on the grounds. Crawford Springs Park, a small county park two miles from Perryville, offers a nature area, picnic and barbecue equipment, and wildflower and tree identification.

Central Kentucky Wildlife Refuge, a 500-acre, non-profit refuge, is located in western Boyle County. Open seven days per week, it offers hiking trails, and a wildflower walk is scheduled each April.
