M A J O R L E W I S P O T T E R

The eldest son of Revolutionary War soldier Thomas Potter was Lewis Potter, who was born about 1766. It is believed that his birthplace was Henry County, Virginia for his father enlisted into the military from there in 1777.

On 15 August 1787, Lewis Potter married Nancy Hickerson in Franklin County, Virginia. She was a daughter of Thomas and Mary Hickerson. Soon after their marriage, Lewis and Nancy moved to what became Lincoln County, Kentucky and resided there from 1788 to 1797. Other members of the Potter family (including his father) also migrated to Lincoln County.

The first record of Lewis Potter in Warren County, Kentucky was in 1799 when the County Court granted him 400 acres of land on Lamb's Sinking Creek (near the Barren County line). In a period of only 18 years (1799-1817) Mr. Potter acquired 1625 acres of land on Sinking Creek and Little Elk Spring in northeastern Warren County. He was a slaveholder, and by 1826 he owned 5 slaves.

Lewis Potter assumed an active part in the affairs of his day. In 1801 he was made Captain of the 26th Regiment of the Kentucky Militia and by 1804 he achieved the rank of Major of the 61st Regiment. A year or so later, he served his district as Justice of the Peace. Warren County Court records list the many times he served as a guardian for orphans, estate appraiser and administrator, as well as overseer for road work.

Five sons and five daughters were born to Lewis and Nancy Potter: 1) Daniel, md 1809 Nancy Greathouse; 2) Thomas, md 1810 Bersheba Grinstead; 3) Felix, md ?; 4) William, md 1821 Polly Lowery; 5) Harmon md 1822 Martha Lowery; 6) Polly md 1826 John Howard; 7) Frances md Richard Grinstead; 8) Elizabeth "Betsy" md 1815 Willis Arnold; 9) Ann md 1820 Garret Lowery; and 10) Rhoda md 1824 John Bently.

No doubt Lewis Potter was a positive influence on his family. This writer descends from his daughter Elizabeth "Betsy" Potter Arnold, and many descendants from just her family have carried the first and middle names of Lewis Potter even into the 20th Century.

Mrs. Potter's death occurred in the 1820's and on 25 May 1827 Major Lewis Potter married Mary Glaisbrook in Barren County. Lewis's death must have occurred in 1845 for his will, which was written in 1842, was probated in August 1845. In his will he appointed "my friends Joseph R. Underwood and Henry Grider, Esq. . . . to hear all differences that may arise relative to my will . . ." The final resting places of Lewis and Nancy are unknown to this writer.

The following information is in reference to Scrapbook Gleaning No. 265, p 116 of Vol XIV, No 4 of THE LONGHUNTER. The date of this clipping is 7 May 1909. John W Thacker was a son of Prudence Ann Narcissa Kelley and her first husband, Dillingham Dougan Thacker. After Dillingham's death, Prudence married his younger brother Alfred Payne Thacker. As a result of the second marriage the siblings mentioned in the article were not all full brothers and sisters of John. Mrs Young and Mrs Bolton were full sisters, but Mrs Miller was a half sister and A P Thacker Jr and Charles Thacker were half brothers. The following may help clarify the relationships:

DILLINGHAM DOUGAN THACKER, son of Edward P and Elizabeth (Morgan) Thacker), was born 3 Jun 1809 Allen Springs, Warren (now Allen) Co KY, and died 22 Jun 1849, Warren Co. He is buried at "Fairview", the Kelley plantation, on Rt 68 (Russellville Rd) west of Bowling Green. He married in Warren Co 12 Oct 1837 as her first husband Prudence Ann Narcissa Kelley, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Ashley) Kelley, born 24 Oct 1820 Allen Co KY and died 22 Jun 1896 Logan Co KY. The marriage bond was signed by Dillingham Thacker and by Beal Kelley, her grandfather, as bondsman for Prudence. A note from her father, James Kelley, giving authorization to issue license was attached to the bond. Dillingham died during a cholera epidemic which also struck down Prudence's father and one of her brothers in the same week. All their children were born at "Fairview".

ISSUE OF DILLINGHAM AND PRUDENCE (KELLEY) THACKER:

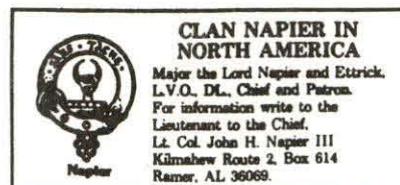

1. James Edward Thacker, b 29 Aug 1838, d 18 Dec 1906; md 19 Aug 1856 Keziah Durrett.
2. Lucinda Wilkins Thacker, b 22 Jan 1840, d 4 Mar 1905; md 4 Jan 1855 Silas Lee Newton.

4. Larana Elizabeth Thacker, b 10 Jul 1845, d about 1911; md about 1860 Henry Edward Young.
5. Mary Virginia Thacker, b 10 Dec 1847, d 11 Jul 1921; md 13 Dec 1866 Lewis F Bolton.

ALFRED P THACKER, son of Edward P and Elizabeth (Morgan) Thacker), was born 13 Mar 1816 in Allen Springs, Allen Co KY and died 12 Jun 1907 in Logan Co.

He married first 09 Oct 1846, Mary McGuire. He married second 9 Oct 1851 in Warren Co, his brother Dillingham's widow, Prudence (Kelley) Thacker. They are both buried at Gasper River Churchyard, near Bucksville in Logan Co.

INFORMATION 1920 CENSUS

On the 20th of March, this year, the 1920 United States Federal Census will become accessible. Copies of it will be available for use at the National Archives in Washington and in all of the branches throughout the United States. Copies of the entire census should be on line in all State Libraries shortly. A copy of the Kentucky 1920 Census is on order at the Kentucky Library, Kentucky Building, Western Kentucky University, in Bowling Green, KY and will be available for research by local members of the SKGS.

There is a complete index for each state and territory. The records are contained on 2706 rolls, and the index fills 8585 rolls. Each roll costs $23 if you wish to purchase. Should you wish to purchase one of particular interest to you, and then donate it to your library, it is tax deductible. Many libraries endeavor to add the rolls pertaining to their state and welcome either rolls or a donation towards this goal.

The data contained on the 1920 schedules includes: names, address, relationship to the family head, sex, race, age, martial status, if foreign born, year of immigration to the United States, whether naturalized and the year of naturalization, school attendance, literacy, birthplace of person and parents, mother tongue of foreign born, ability to speak English, occupation, industry and class of work, home owned or rented, and if owned, whether free or mortgaged.

This information will be invaluable, and will fill in that hard to fill part of history, especially when one does not have relatives that can help them with this time frame.

Note: The above copied from the January 1992 Issue of the COLLIER COLLATOR published by Alice Collier Clark, P. O. Box 865017, Plano, TX, 75075 with her permission.

EVANS FAMILY

Abner Evans was born 13 Sep 1760 in Pennsylvania and died 01 Oct 1816 in Warren County, Kentucky. He married Rachel (Murphy?) about 1793. She was born 18 Nov 1766 and died 19 Sep 1846 in Warren County. They are both buried in the Evans-Wren Cemetery on the McCoy farm in Warren County.

According to family lore, the Evans family came from Wales and settled with William Penn. Some members of the Evans family say that Abner served in the Revolutionary War and was a blacksmith at one of the frontier forts along the Ohio River. The story is that Rachel's father was also a blacksmith and could have been at the same frontier fort as Abner. Abner was 17 years of age and Rachel was a young girl at the beginning of the Revolutionary War.

Abner was an early settler in Warren County, Kentucky. The first record of him in the county is on the 1799 Warren County Tax List where he has 2 horses. Between 1806 and 1808 Abner received three land grants south of the Green River consisting of 528 acres. He had the first home in the area made of brick, making the brick and building the home himself. Abner is often mentioned in the Warren County property and court records.

After Abner's death his son Samuel Evans was appointed administrator of his estate. In 1827 Joseph and Rachel (Evans) Wren and others filed a suit in Chancery. Rachel was allotted for life a widow's dower of 1/3 of Abner's lands. The residue was to be divided into 9 shares equal in value and divided by lottery. In 1835 members of the Evans family indicate that Levi Evans would have title of the dower of Rachel Evans by her death. (Book 17, page 172 Warren Co KY).

Using the 8870 formula to ascertain a birth date can be a tremendous help to the genealogist when checking tombstone dates. If a tombstone records that a person died May 6, 1889 and was 71 yrs., 7 mos. and 9 days old but lists no birthdate, one has only to count backward to correctly arrive at the birthdate.

	18890506	Died 1889 May 6
subtract	710709	71 yrs. 7 mos 9 days
	18179797
subtract	8870	(Constant)
	18179797	Born 1817 Sep 27

"CUZ OF SORTS, NORTH AMERICAN DESCENDANTS OF GAELIC CLAN MacEACHAIN, Vol. 1, compiled by Minniebell McKaughan Perkins, 703 Tanglewood Lane, Kerrville TX 78029. Published 1991. Soft back, 270 pages, partial index. Price $15.00 (includes shipping). Order from Virginia DeVries, P O Box 50475, Bowling Green KY 42102.

Through the years, the surname McEachin has taken on different spellings with one of the more popular being MacCOIN. Various other spellings include: MCKAUGHAN, MCKAUGHN, MCCAUGH, MCCAUGHAN, MCCAUGHIN, MCKOIN, MCKEIGHAN, MCGAHAN, MCCONN, MCCANN, McEACHIN, McEACHAN, McEACHERN.

This book is a record of the various generations of the descendants of ARCHIBALD MCKAUGHAN JR. (b. 1735, Ireland) and wife JANE (MERCER). McKaughan was the son of ARCHIBALD SR. and wife REBECCA (BOYD). He came to America with his parents in 1747 and settled in Pennsylvania. After the Revolutionary War, the family migrated to Sullivan Co TN, to Pulaski Co KY, then to Jackson Co TN.

Also included in this nice volume are brief histories, family pictures, a genealogical report from the head to the Clan MacEachain to the Lords of Lyon Court, a very nice frameable family coat of arms (in color) and a most interesting 1873 letter from a great grandson of Archibald McHaughan Sr. Certainly, all members of the Archibald McKaughan Jr. line will enjoy this book.

Siblings of Archibald McKaughan Jr. were: Hugh, who md. (1) Charlotte BLAKE and (2) Nancy INGRAM; Margaret, who md. Joseph BIRDWELL; and Rebecca, who md. Roger BROWNING. Assumably, future volumes will trace the descendants of these siblings. An every-name index in future volumes would be an asset to those people who are weekend researchers and need to check volumes quickly.

S.K.G.S. thanks Virginia DeVries for donating a copy of this book to the Kentucky Library.

I N H E R I T A N C E L A W S

Prior to 1876, a will in Virginia did not have to name the wife or eldest son. Their inheritance of real estate was set by law, the widow receiving her one-third dower and the eldest son receiving the remaining two-thirds, unless otherwise specified in the father's will. The eldest son also received his mother's share when she died. If the eldest son had died, the heir-at-law became the second son. If a man was unmarried, his heir-at-law was his eldest brother, never his father or uncle.

In New England, the eldest son did receive a double portion (called his birthright) of the estate, but definitely not as much as in Virginia. Each state now has laws which may differ from the early days of our country, but the early laws relied to a great degree on English common law. (Henry Co. Gen. Soc., Issue 7, Oct 1991.)

HOW TO FILL OUT AN ANCESTRAL OR PEDIGREE CHART

1. Print or type, using black ink or ribbon. When photocopying charts to use when typing, copy on legal size paper (much easier to type those bottom lines) and trim to regular size when finished.
2. Place yourself in the number one position; thereafter, all even numbers are for males, all odd numbers are for females.

6. If exact dates are unknown, give approximate dates.
7. Familiarize yourself with correct spellings of words such as: Culpeper Co, Muhlenberg Co, cemetery, descendant, ancestor.

11. Give sources of information and documentation.
12. Enter your name and address as preparer of the chart and give date chart is compiled.

THE OAKLAND COUNTRY by Jennie Cole

early day. The Shobes, Allens, Tuckers, Fords and others were members of this church. In 1873 the organization built the first church in Oakland and moved their membership there. On the same hill as the church stood the Pleasant Hill school which was an important school before the public schools were established. The building consisted of several rooms, but a Masonic Lodge occupied part of the second floor. Boys and girls from a distance boarded in the homes of the community and attended this school. They usually had four teachers, including a music teacher.

The home of Mrs. Ethel Pemberton was built by Woodey Self. The old house that stood on this site was the home for years of Willie Shobe. The home of Eubank was built by Roe Wooten on the site of the old home of Mr. Wooten's grandfather, James Monroe Tucker. The home of Mr. Tucker was built in a very early day and before Mr. Tucker became the owner it was a tavern. In addition to being a farmer Mr. Tucker was also a tanner. He and his brother Fount Tucker, ran a tannery for four years near the Old Grove Church and when Mr. Tucker moved on the highway he continued to run the tannery until after the Civil War. Then his son William ran it about four years. Mr. Tucker married Elizabeth A. Shobe, a daughter of Jacob Shobe, Sr. They reared a large family but Charles Tucker is the only one living. Dr. James E. Tucker, a physician in the community for many years was a son.

The place now owned by Mrs. Tom Smith and occupied by Charlie Hendricks was the home for many years of Rebecca Middleton, the widow of Samuel Middleton. She was the grandmother of the late Nat Curd of Bowling Green. After the death of Mrs. Middleton, it became the home of Joe Cullins, a native of Mississippi. Mr. Cullins' first wife was the daughter of Henry Smith and she was the mother of his three oldest children, Henry Cullins being one of them. After the death of his first wife Mr. Cullins married Mary E. Jones, daughter of Absalom Shobe and widow of James W. Jones, Smiths Grove.

The brick house north of Oakland owned by Frank R. Grimes was the old house of Peyton Cook, a large land and slave owner. Later it was the home of his daughter Lonnie Jordan, and her grandson, Wilsford Hines, now of Detroit, Michigan. Mr. Hines sold the home to Frank R. Grimes. NOTE: The home of Peyton Cook was not the home, as has been erroneously stated, of Anne Cook, connected with the Sharp-Beauchamp tragedy. The girlhood home of Anne Cook was in Bowling Green for some time at least. Anne Cook was related to Peyton Cook, but not a direct descendant.

The home of Edmond Gossom, Sr., was built by him on land that originally was part of the Peyton Cook farm. The home of Edmond Gossom, Jr., was built by C. L. Henderson who sold it to D. C. Amos and later it was the home of Mr. Amos' son-in-law, L. G. Hackney. The home of Craig Middleton was built by Lee Burdle and his sisters, Miss Kate Burdle and Mrs. Moody. The home now owned by Mrs. Edward Stout and Miss Rita Middleton was built by their mother, Mrs. Alice Middleton, about 1890. The old house nearby on the same farm was built by Mrs. Middleton's grandfather, William Smith, an early settler and large land and slave owner.

Mr. Meisel bought his home from J. B. Amos who lived there many years. In an early day this was the home of Lafe Long, son-in-law of Mr. Otter whose home was nearer the knob than the land now owned by Mr. Meisel, but it was the home of Tom Davis for quite a while. Mr. Otter sold out and moved to Louisville in an early day but his name remains in the gap in the knob nearby known as Otter Gap.

The home of Mrs. Tandy Gossom was built by her father-in-law, Sandy Gossom, Sr. in 1853. The house of John Cowles was built by Sandy Gossom, Jr., son of Sandy Sr., in 1877. The home of B. F. Amos was built by him. This home was built on the site of a home once the home of Gen. Thomas Madison whose wife Susannah was the sister of Patrick Henry. Later this was the home of Richard Patterson, the grandfather of Mrs. Yandell Page, Bowling Green. Mr. Patterson sold his home to John B. "Jack" Amos, father of B. F. Amos. The wife of Jack Amos was Sarah F. Kirtley, the daughter of Gen. Ambrose Kirtley. They reared a large family. B. F. and J. B. Amos are the only ones living.

Mr. Amos was a native of Hart County and his father, Ransom Amos, was a native of North Carolina. The home of J. B. Amos is on the site of a house that was the home of another Madison, probably a son of the Madison mentioned above. The family graveyard was on this farm and Susannah Madison was buried here. The home of Mr. Amos was built by Samuel Murrell in 1841. Mr. Murrell was the grandfather of the late Samuel M. Young of Bowling Green. He was a native of Barren County, fought in the War of 1812, was sheriff of Barren County, and represented his district in the state Legislature. He was a union man during the War between the States. He kept a tavern and stage coach station. His wife was Elizabeth R. Sterrett. They raised a large family and their home was noted for its hospitality. He lived to be about 97 years old. After Mr. Murrell retired, his grandson Samuel Young, came into possession of his place. Mr. Young sold it to Mr. Henry Cowles about 1887. Mr. Cowles improved the house and made it his home until his death when Mr. Amos bought it.

The first house on the site of the home of William Miller was built by Charles Amos in 1877. After making his home here for a few years, he sold the farm to his brother-in-law Dan Middleton. The wife of Mr. Amos, Josephine Huntley Murrell, and the wife of Mr. Middleton, Hannah Murrell, were both daughters of George Murrell, a son of Samuel Murrell. After making his home here for a number of years Mr. Middleton sold the place to Henry Cowles. The house burned a few years after Mr. Cowles bought it and he built the present house. Harry Wright, son-in-law of Mr. Cowles made his home here for years.

The home of Roger Middleton was built by George Murrell, son of Samuel, and occupied by him for some time as a home. Mr. Murrell sold the place to Dr. Albert S. Goodwin, a brother-in-law, who practiced medicine in the community for several years. A brother of Dr. Goodwin was also a doctor in the community. The last named was a son-in-law of Rev. Morran Larue of the Christian church. This Dr. Goodwin is buried in the Wardlaw graveyard. Other owners of the place were James L. Jenkins and John Potter. About 1887 Mrs. Belle Amos Middleton bought the place and after some years she added the second story and improved it.

The home of Clyde Spinks was once the home of Dr. Payne, a doctor here for some time after the Drs. Goodwin practiced in the community. Dr. Payne was the father of the late Harley Payne of Bowling Green. Dr. Henry Jones next owned the place. He was also a physician and son of old Dr. Jones who practiced perhaps longer than any other doctor in the community. Later a Mr. Settle owned the place. Mr. Charlie Isbell bought it years ago and it is now in the possession of his son-in-law, Mr. Spinks.

Down the highway on the hill was the Lucas home, which was burned years ago. Back of this home toward the Glasgow road was the home of Nathaniel Lucas, who settled here early in the nineteenth century. He was a native of Virginia and a Revolutionary soldier and in the siege of Yorktown. His son Charles Lucas lived at or near the same place. Mr. Charles Lucas was grandfather of Henry Lucas, Jr. of Bowling Green. The home of Mr. Thomas was built by Charles Lucas, Jr., oldest son of Henry Lucas, Sr. After Charles Lucas made his home here for some years, it became the home of his brother Henry Lucas who later moved to Bowling Green.

The next house down the highway was once the home of Rev. Jesse Grider. After this it was the home of William Meredith for years. Mr. Meredith represented this county in the state legislature. The brick house that stands opposite the point where the Glasgow road joins the highway was built by Harvey Lewis who occupied it until his death. It then became the home of H. G. Meadows, a son-in-law of Mr. Lewis. Just off the highway on the Glasgow Road once stood the house of Franklin Lewis, a brother of Harvey. The Lewis Family was one of the earliest to settle in this neighborhood. Back of the Harvey Lewis place just off the Brownsville Road was the home of John Grider, who married Rebecca Martin, the daughter of Dr. Benjamin Martin of Barren County. They reared a large family, one of whom was their son Jesse, the Presbyterian preacher, who probably officiated at more marriage ceremonies and conducted more funeral services than any other preacher ever in the county.

The brick house in which John Grider lived was torn down by Jesse Shroader and a new house was built on the site. Farther out the Brownsville Road were the homes of John Meredith, father-in-law of William McGinnis; Bowling and "Spank" Morris, the undertaker who at one time buried most of the dead in this community; Rochester Strange, father of Robert Strange, Bowling Green. Farther on was the old home of Thomas Ray, grandfather of the late John Ray. This was the home for years of Taylor Doughty and is now the home of Sill Cowles. The gap in the knob nearby is known as the Ray Gap. In between the Brownsville Road and the Dixie Highway is the old home of William Irvin and Rebecca (Crump) Ray. They raised a large family, including the late John Ray, but Miss Loelia Ray is the only one living. The home of Herschel Allen was settled in 1818 by his great-great-grandfather, Andrew Wardlaw, who bought his farm from Robert Lucas, son of Nathaniel Lucas. He was a native of Rock-bridge County, Virginia and lived in this home until his death when his son, John Fulton Wardlaw, became the owner.

John Wardlaw, in addition to being a farmer, was also a pork packer. He slaughtered from six to eight thousand hogs a year. Nearly all this meat, except the hams, was pickled and, with the lard, it was hauled to Graham's Landing on Barren River and shipped to New Orleans. The hams were smoked before they were shipped. After John Wardlaw's death his son, Andrew James Wardlaw became owner of the place. The old house burned in 1868 and A. J. Wardlaw built the present house in 1869. Andrew Wardlaw, Jr., son of Andrew, Sr., at one time owned part of his father's original farm. He owned the farm now owned by Forest Hendricks and _____ Herrington and the farms of Lewis Meadows. Andrew Wardlaw, Jr., was an abolitionist and sold out and moved to Illinois about 1842. One reason he made this move was to set his Negroes free. The old home of Mr. Wardlaw stood some distance across the fields back of the home of Lewis Meadows and was bought by Garnett Bryant. Some time after buying the farm Mr. Bryant began building the brick house on the hill now owned by Forest Hendricks and his son-in-law Herrington. He died before it was completed and his widow Sarah finished building the house. In 1857, some years after the death of Mr. Bryant his widow married Col. Henry Grider and he made his home there the rest of his life. Col. Grider was a member of U. S. Congress at the time of his death.

Mr. Grider's step-daughter, the former Jennie Bryant, was the wife of J. Asher Graham and Mr. Graham bought Mrs.

Grider's interest in the farm and sold 200 acres to Greene Woodcock and the remainder to others. Mr. Woodcock was a native of Allen County and the father of Miss Edna Woodcock, Bowling Green. About 1881 Mr. Woodcock sold his farm to Steven Potter. About 1886 Mr. Durkee of Bowling Green bought the farm and his son-in-law, Henry Glenn made his home here until 1904 when J. Thomas Smith bought the place. Mr. McColgan, a native of Tennessee, was the next owner, then Dr. Wilson. Pace and Warren Kimbrough each owned it for a time before it was bought by the present owners.

Mizpah Church was built in 1853. It was built principally by John Fulton Wardlaw. The Presbyterians had an organization there for many years and the Baptists had an organization there forty or fifty years and the Methodist held regular services there for some time in an early day. The Mizpah school house near the church was built in 1865. When the schools in the county were consolidated, Mrs. Charlie Isbell, bought this school building and converted it into a residence.

After leaving the Dixie Highway at the old Harvey Lewis place the first house on the Glasgow Road is the one belonging to Trent Hays, which was built by Mr. Hays. The original house on the farm of Joe Lucas was the old house of Daniel Hays one of the earliest settlers in the country. The home of Miss Mary Lucas was built by her father N. Henry Lucas in the sixties. On the site of the home of Mr. Hendricks once stood the home of Asa Hays, a two story frame house that was burned years ago. After this Mr. Hays built a house in Sunnyside and he and his family made their home there.

The home of Emmett Smith was built by Berry White of Bowling Green. The home of A. G. Meadows was recently built by Mr. Meadows. The home of Lewis Meadows was built by Rev. Ferguson a minister of the Christian church. The home of Kimble Pearson was built by Lotter Carpenter. It was enlarged and improved by Mr. Carpenter's son-in-law, James Tucker, whose home it was for many years. The home now owned by Mrs. Mattie Moody and Miss Burtle was built by John F. Carpenter, a native of Virginia, who came to Kentucky about 1793. He settled on what is now the Glasgow Road about 1825. Later this was the home of Luther M. Carpenter a son of Jonathan T. Carpenter. Jonathan T. Carpenter married Elizabeth Dunn, a daughter of Lewis Dunn. Luther M. Carpenter married Sarah E. Duncan, the daughter of Edmond Duncan.

The home of Wilson Smith on lower Polkville Road was once the old home of Jim Harlow. When Mr. Smith bought the farm he enlarged and improved the house. The home of W. H. Smith was once the home of his brother George Smith. W. H. Smith bought the farm and improved the house. The homes of Elvis Miller, Oscar Thomas and Albert Graham come next. Mr. Graham built his home.

The home of Deb Spinks, was built by James Wright, son-in-law of Ambrose Jones, who made his home here for a number of years. Later this was the home of James Smith and then the home of William Graham, son-in-law of A. J. Henderson. After the death of Mr. Graham his widow sold the farm to Deb Spinks.

Farther down this road was the old home of Jim P. Haynes which was occupied by him for many years. Mr. Haynes was a farmer and blacksmith. The farm now owned by Wyatt Jones was the old home of his grandfather Ambrose Jones and it was later the home of Ed Jones, son of Ambrose. The wife of Ambrose Jones was the mother of Carl T. Craig, her first husband being a Craig. Lonnie Jones, son of Ambrose, built the next house. It is now owned by a Jones, but a different family from one mentioned above. The home of Mrs. Sam Hayden was built by C. T. Craig. The home that was once the home of Lige Parker, father of Mrs. Leslie White, Louisville Road, was once the home of Wood Dunn. The home of Mrs. Flem Forrester was the old home of her father, James Deering.

Soon after the War between the States, the colored people built a Methodist church just off of this road and named it Loving Union. A number of colored families bought small farms near the church. Among the older settlers were Henry Patterson, whose home was on the Glasogw Road, and on the Polkville Road were the homes of Anderson Carpenter, Archie Wardlaw, Peter Wardlaw, Henry Grider and William Bryant. Mrs. Sallie Brynat Grider former owner of William Bryant and Henry Grider helped them to pay for their farms.

Coming back to the Glasgow Road, the first house above the Polkville Road is Eugene Cox's, which was built by Henry Jones in 1916. The next house, now owned by Hardin County native, J. D. Monin, was built by George Smith. Mr. Monin's present home was built by S. J. Henderson in 1916. The house north of the railroad on the farm of J. D. Monin and the first house occupied by him when he came to this community, was once the home of Thomas Gossom and was built about 1820. Robert and Thomas Hines bought this farm about 1866. Robert Hines was the father of Henry B. Hines of Bowling Green. John Mackey, Sr., a native of Nelson County, bought the farm about 1871. It was sold about 1886 to Albert Dorherty and was the home of Mr. Dorherty's son-in-law, John Taylor for some years. About 1899 J. D. Monin purchased it.

South of the railroad just across from this home was the home of Thompson Gossom, son of Thomas Gossom, and father of Mrs. Anna Gossom Blewett. Mr. Gossom built this house about 1864. This home was later owned by Calvin Sears and later by Flem Graham.

The home of Joe Rich was built by Luther Butler. The site of the other dwelling on Mr. Rich's farm was one of the oldest places in the county. It was settled by one of three brothers named Hendricks. The other two brothers settled on adjoining farms. Some time after Mr. Hendrick owned this farm it was owned by and the home of Luther M. Carpenter. W. H. Wooten bought the place from Mr. Carpenter and made his home here for many years. This place changed hands several times before the present owner bought it.

In between this farm and the Polkville Road once stood the home of Charlie McDaniel, son-in-law of Flem Graham. Nearby were the homes of John Brooks, Sr. and his son-in-law Rev. Jones. These houses were torn down many years ago. The home of Sallie Cole on the Glasgow Road was built by her father, James W. Cole in 1867.

The first house on the site of Richard D. Floyd's home was built by A. J. Henderson in 1881. Mr. Henderson, a native of Barren County, was an ex-confederate soldier, a member of the Orphan Brigade, and son-in-law of Jerry Jordan. C. L. Henderson bought this farm from his father in 1916 moved the house then standing and built the present house on the site. It was purchased by R. D. Floyd in 1927.

The tenant house on L. G. Hackney's farm was built on the site of a schoolhouse that was erected in 1867. This building served not only as the district school for many years, but it also was a community center for several years before there was either a church or school building at Oakland. Spelling matches, debates by some of the young men in the community, singing schools and a Sunday school were held with Hannial Smith superintendant and James W. Cole, secretary-treasurer. Again, in 1882, a Sunday school was held here for a time with A. J. Henderson as superintendent.

The first house on the site of L. G. Hackney's home was built by H. Porter Smith in 1869. This was the home of Herschel Smith, son-in-law of Cyrus Shobe, until he moved to Louisville. Later this was the home of Baxter Pace, son-in-law of Hannibal Smith. John Holman, father of the late Mrs. Milton B Kirby, bought the place about 1884. Mr. Holman, a native of Barren County, made his home here for some time. The next owner was W. J. Hackney, father of L. G. Hackney. The house burned in 1900 and soon afterwards, W. R. Allen bought the farm and his sons built the present house in 1922.

The house of W. S. Mansfield's farm just off the Glasgow Road was built in an early day and was the home of Nathaniel Strange, a native of Cumberland County, Kentucky.

It was the home of Robert Strange, father of the late D. Bryant Strange of Glasgow, until his death. The farm was rented for a number of years and then D. B. Strange improved the house and made his home here for some time. Mr. Strange was the son-in-law of E. A. Shobe.

The home of Beckham Martin was built by a Mr. Thomas, grandfather of the late Judge R. C. P. Thomas of Bowling Green. This is one of the oldest houses in the area. Some time after Mr. Thomas owned it, it became to residence of Alexander Smith, native of Cumberland County. Mr. Smith was the father of Hannibal Smith mentioned above.

The home of Julian Bohannon was once the property of Dr. T. B. Larue, a native of Larue County, Kentucky, which was named for one of his ancestors. His first wife was a Miss Finn of Simpson County, Kentucky and the mother of Mary Elizabeth Larue, who married Eugene A. Shobe. After her death, Dr. Larue married in 1853 Sarah A. Shobe, daughter of Absalom Shobe. About 1877, Dr. Larue located in Smiths Grove and after renting his farm for some years, he sold it the James Helm, father of Dr. J. B. Helm of Smiths Grove. After making his home here for some years, Mr. Helm sold the property to J. E. Beck. The next owner was a Mr. Whittle, then J. H. Hendrick, grandfather of Julian Bohannon, bought the place.

The house just off the upper Polkville Road now owned by J. S. Smith was built by John Hendricks, a native of Virginia and the grandfather of the late Dr. J. F. Hendricks, dentist of Bowling Green. The front of this house was built more than one hundred twenty years ago. Some time after Mr. Hendricks owned the place, it was the home of Woodford Dunn. Thomas Wardlaw bought it about 1883. The farm at that time consisted of 428 acres. Mr. Wardlaw died a few months after purchasing it and his brother-in-law, James W. Cole came into possession of the farm. Mr. Cole's wife was Margaret Wardlaw, daughter of John F. Wardlaw. The Cole's lived in this house for two years while he was building his home located on the same farm on the Glasgow Road. In 1877 the old house became the home of Mr. Cole's son-in-law, W. R. Allen. Mr. Allen tore down the brick ell of the house, replaced it with a frame one and improved the front of the house.

About a mile from this house towards the lower Polkville Road is a house on J. S. Smith's farm built by Abner Lyles. This house stood on the site of a log house that was the home of a Hendricks who was a brother of John Hendricks and of the Hendricks who settled on what is now the Joe Rich farm.

The first house on the upper Polkville Road was built by Christopher Haynes, son of John Haynes, and is still owned by his son Webb. Mr. Haynes' wife, Calia F. Gaines, was the daughter of William Gaines. The Haynes and Gaines families were among the earliest settlers of this region.

The home of Atlas Pearson was built by Richard D. Floyd, Sr. in 1894 near the old home of Samuel Greathouse, Sr., an early settler. After the death of Mr. Floyd's widow, S. F. Rector bought the place and made his home here for a few years.

The home of Jim Haynes, son of John Haynes, comes next. The old home of John Haynes stood on the crossroad that led off the upper Polkville Road, just in front of Jim Haynes' place, to the lower Polkville Road. John Haynes was a large landowner and a good blacksmith. His grandson, Warner Hinton, now owns the place and lives nearby in a house he built himself.

Buren Thomas, son of Charlie Thomas, is next on the upper Polkville Road. Just off this road stands a very old brick house which was the home of Asa Gardner, an old settler.

The old home of James Williams, son-in-law of Asa Gardner comes next. Mr. Williams' widow Rachel sold the home to Sim Bunch. Sam McCoy's place was the old home of his grandfather, Willaim Gaines. The next place is the old home of Sam's father, John McCoy.

The home of Hardy Jackson comes next. This was the home of Mr. Jackson's grandfather Manning, who was the magistrate of this district and one of the best known men of the community in his day.

Just above the Oakland Lane a road leads off the Glasgow Road to Iron Bridge over Barren River. The first house on this road is the old Strange place mentioned above. The next is a rock house built to Rodney Whitlow, son of Alpheus Whitlow. His sister, Ruth Whitlow Bratton bought the place from her brother and made her home here for a time.

Just off this road is the home of Nannie Whitlow Moore. This home was built by her grandfather Pleasant Whitlow, a native of Metcalfe County. His son, Alpheus Whitlow, the father of Mrs. Moore, made his home here until his death. His wife, Elizabeth Cole, was the daughter of John Cole, of Cole's Bend, Barren County, Kentucky.

The next house was built by Clay Whitlow, son of Alpheus, and is now owned by a Mr. Young. Clay Whitlow's wife was a daughter of Edmond Gossom, Sr. Other homeowners on this road are Charlie Easton, Mrs. Sallie Rasdall and Ruble Doty. Mr. Doty's home was built by Thomas Flora, an ex-Union soldier who was in the company that chased John Morgan and his men when they made their raid north of the Ohio River. This house was built on the site of the home of James Strange, who moved to Kansas.

Next is the home of Walter Moates, which originally belonged to Wyatt Whitlow, son of Pleasant Whitlow. Mr. Whitlow was a farmer and cobbler and made fine shoes. He was also magistrate in this district. Proctor Jones is a grandson.

The home of Van Peterman was built by a Mr. Price. The home of Will Palmer was Wade Potter's place. Mr. Potter was an early settler and his wife before marriage was a Gardner.

Earl King's house was built by his father Rodney King. Rodney was a son-in-law of Alpheus Whitlow, having married his daughter Maggie in 1888. Back of Earl King's is the home of a Mr. Gardner. This was once the old home of Tom Franklin who moved with his family to Kansas many years ago.

The old George Doss place is now the home of his son-in-law, a Mr. Duvall. The homes of Sterling Doss and Ike Kuykendall come next. Near Ruble Doty's a road leads off the Iron Bridge Road and goes over to the upper Polkville Road. On this road is the old home of Wallace Greathouse, son of Samuel Greathouse and son-in-law of Wade Potter. Another home on this road was for years the home of Rev. B. F. Page, a Baptist minister, native of Logan County, Kentucky. Rev. Page was also a school teacher, but did not teach after buying this home. It was later the home of his son Frank Page.

On this road is Friendship Church, which has been an active Baptist Church. From this road another road, sometimes called the Thomas Road, leads off going to the Iron Bridge Road. The old Jim Doty place is the first home on this road. Mrs. Lorenzo Rector's home is next; then Lillie Lucas Garrison's home. Charlie Thomas, who has lived there more than fifty years is next. Mr. Thomas was a breeder of fine jacks and goats, and he shipped goats to distant states and foreign countries.

Joe Simpson and Joe Mansfield have homes on this road. Also on this road is the home of a Mr. Wheeler, which was once the residence of William Bohannon, father of William Bohannon, of Smiths Grove.
