"The successful man leaves the rudiments of business in early life. The unspecessful man i the one who in his youth watched the clock to see that the dist not begin work a minute allead of time-or quit a second behind if. These are the boys who are discharged first, whenever the staff is reduced; but the boy who thinks of working instead of quitting, and looks after his employer's interest instead of biso varease, is the one, who "is kept oa, and goes abead and succeeds.

"Success is a simple thing, the money saved in early life grows into fortunes later on. The young man who can save 10 cents a day is a man, of zense. He is on the road for encourts. But the young man who trades 10 cents for a cigar is a fool.

"There may be cases where fortanes are made by jumps, but great success comes from persistent effort. It is a mistake to point out the accomplished work of a successful life and ask a young man to duplicate it. The immensity of such a work appair him. It is like taking him to the top of a high steeple to see a great city. The great height makes him dizzy, but to the steeplalack who knows his business and has realed the stapple, it is a small matter. This is the reason why rising men should not look ahead. They should work for today and today, only, and if they do that faithfully and live faconomically, they will be ready flor wangever connesses inc mor-Tow.
