The Classical Club held its March meeting on the tenth. The Club assembled at the apartment of Miss Lily Limestone. Interesting games were played among which was one dealing with flowers having Latin names. During the meeting plans were discussed for going to Nashville to attend the meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South. Nearing the close of our meeting a luncheon was served.

Respectfully,

J.W. Galloway, Sec'y.
The Classical Club held its annual Roman banquet at the Cedar House on Monday April 12. This occasion was well prepared for, and the banquet proper had a beautiful setting of flowers and adornments appropriate to its nature. It scarcely need be mentioned that all present wore Roman dress and that the banquet was carried out in Roman fashion. To one in attendance it was quite evident that no imitations were refused and that no acceptance was regretted.

J.W. Galloway, Sec'y.
On Monday evening May 24th the Classical Club held its final meeting for the semester at the home of Dean F.C. Grise where a picnic lunch was served. The picnic was on the lawn. After the picnic, members of the Classical Club gave the play "The Captives" by Plautus, which was under the direction of Essie Topmiller and Josephine Wright. Those starring in the play were Nicholas Knight, George Grise, John Brown, David Matthews, Howard Matthews and J.W. Galloway. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in conversing and playing games.

Respectfully,

J.W. Galloway Sec'y.

As of this morning, I found myself in a state of confusion and frustration with the recent events at the factory. The situation had escalated to a point where the workers were demanding more answers and action. The management seemed unsure of how to handle the situation.

After the meeting, I found myself in the factory, trying to understand the situation and make any adjustments to the "flag situation." The factory was in a state of chaos, with workers expressing their dissatisfaction and concerns.
The P. C. Grise Classical Club met Wednesday evening, April 10, 1940 at the home of Miss Stonecipher on State Street. The program was the reciting of Greek poetry by all the members. Much enjoyment was derived from hearing the various selections.

After the program a business meeting was held during which plans were made for the picnic. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

Walter Pearce was a guest of the club.

On October 8, 1940 at 7:30, the P.C.G. Classical Club held its first meeting of the year. Miss Stonecipher presided until officers were elected. The following officers were elected:

David Matthews — President
June Vinson — Vice-President
Fred Donnaway — Secretary-Treasurer
Martha James — Reporter

Ways to publicize the club were discussed but little headway was made. Miss Stonecipher suggested to repeat last year's pleasant pastime in memorizing Greek poetry. The whole club approved. The business was dropped, and pleasure presided. The meeting was adjourned after delightful refreshments were served in the midst of a flower game, in which the members displayed their bucolic instincts.

Fred Donnaway
On Wednesday, November 12, the F.C.G. Classical Club held its meeting at the home of the President, David Matthews. Our business, like others, was bad. The meeting was turned over to Dr. Grise, who furnished the group with a report entitled "The Status of Latin in Kentucky." The meeting was adjourned after delightful refreshments were served.

Fred Rannoway

On Wednesday, December 11, the F.C.G. Classical Club held its meeting at the home of Dr. Dean Grise. There were no business discussions; so the meeting was turned over to Miss Stonecipher, who discussed the government, monuments, writers, and literature of Rome from 1153 to 146. After a series of such speeches, a test will be given and prizes awarded to the erudite, so the club suggested. Refreshments were served, then the meeting was adjourned.

Fred Rannoway
On Wednesday, Jan. 15, the members of the Classical Club came one step nearer to fame and fortune. Miss Briggs gave a scholarly report on Roman Development from Tiberius Gracerius to Pompey, followed by Mr. Spaulding discoursing on same from Pompey to the death of Julius Caesar. Before the meeting proper, affairs moved in a lighter vein. From here, then, to the sublime, and back again to the ridiculous amid wild Bacchanalian revelry consisting of tea, food and song. The adjournment closed the book of the semester's meetings, holding in its pages the memories of four pleasant gatherings.

On April 30, 1941, the Classical Club met in the form of a stock company at the Kentucky Building. The Mighty Latin players, purveyors of knowledge and such, added new laurels as they displayed their histrionic abilities on Plautus' play "The Captives" to the acclaim of the many that attended. Certain calls were made, but refreshments were being served. To the regret of many, it seemed that the stock company was to fold. The meeting was adjourned after discussions as to the possibility of a Chapel program.

G. D. Darnall

The Annual Picnic was held May 23, 1941, at Mammoth Cave. The feature attraction was the final rehearsal of the Captives to be given at Chapel. Subsequently refreshments were served by the Club and Mrs. Glise. The rest of the evening was spent in words and song, whose echoes over the murmuring creek extended as a hearty "come back again" as dust obscured the view.

On March 15, 1942, the F.C. S. Classical Club met at the home of Vice-President Briggs. Because of the indisposition of the secretary and the neglect of the President to take notes on the meeting, the authenticity of the minutes could be questionable. However, it is rumored that this was on the fast programs of the year. Refreshments were served, after which the meeting was adjourned.

M. P. D.
The Colossal Club held its third meeting on April 23, at the home of Miss Frances Higgin. After reading the minutes, an intensive study of the Spanish language ensued, in which each member of the club explained the pronunciation and meaning of his list of words. This meeting was always the most interest in the secretaries mind because the rest of the dues were collected with a minimum of trouble. Refreshments were served and the club members all rode home in one taxi.

For its last meeting of the year, the F. C. S. Colossal Club held its meeting on May 28, at Dean and Miss Green's home where the annual picnic was enjoyed on the lawn. The business was discussed, only the frivolities and adventures of Camp life were given by an excellent front rank observer, George. A delightful time was most certainly had by everyone.

During the second week of the Fall term of the summer session, 1945, a Latin Club picnic was held at the home of Dr. Gill on Nashville Road. The thoughtfulness of Marian Weigel, former club member, who sent five dollars to defray expenses, was appreciated by those present. Summer school Latin students Evelyn Young, Martha Davis, and Mrs. Elizabeth Pedigrew with Austin Leathbrook and Ensigen Jo Allen Bryant were guests on this occasion. Quantities of chicken salad sandwiches and other satisfactory refreshments were consumed amid nostalgic reminiscences of former picnics.

Room 316 Cherry Hall was the setting for an informal get-together of Latin students enrolled in first term classes, 1945. Tea was served, and the possibility of resuming occasional meetings of the Latin Club was suggested.
The I. C. F. Classical Club was reactivated on January 12, 1949. The first meeting was held at the home of Miss Sybil Stone either. Pictures for the 1948-49 Salem man were taken at this time.

Plans for the annual picnic which is to be held in May were made during the business meeting.

The discussion of Lucan, Catullus, and the Roman Empire under Augustus made up the evening’s program.

After refreshments were served, the meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

The first meeting of the classical club in the second semester was held in room 316 of Cherry Hall on February 25, 1953 at 4:00 P.M.

We had refreshment while we held the meeting in order to get in all our program. We decided to publish a paper for Latin week in April and picked the death of Julius Caesar as the subject of our publication.

Evelyn Bailey gave a short talk on practice teaching and answered our questions concerning this subject. Meeting was then adjourned and we all helped clean up the room.

Our second and last meeting of the semester was held at Miss Stonecipher's residence on Park St. on April 28, 1953 at 4:00 p.m.

We decided at this meeting not to pay dues for the second semester. We decided that our program for the day would be a discussion since no one seemed prepared to make a formal report. The discussion was on the death of Caesar and the founding of Rome.
