ON THE COVER

Daine Harrison, Co-Chairman of the Mabel Shelby Wells program with Nancy Richey (not shown) presents awards to Christy Morrison, left, and Lucas England, right.

At the September 27, 2015 meeting of the Barren County Historical Society, we were honored to have as our guest speakers Christy Morrison and Lucas England. They are both Seniors at Barren County High School. The occasion was a presentation by both students using Power Point to tell us about their family. They entered, while Juniors, the Mabel Shelby Wells Scholarship Program, a program hosted by the Society for Juniors who are preparing to attend a college or university upon graduation.

This program was started many years ago by a gift from Mabel Shelby Wells to the Society to encourage students to learn about their history or the history of this area. For many years it was offered to 7th graders with a small cash award. The Society, in conjunction with the daughters of Mable Shelby Wells, have changed the program to Juniors. This was the first year of competition among students at Barren County High, Glasgow High, Glasgow Christian Academy and Cave City.

Christy Morrison, daughter of John Thomas Morrison and Lorie Jo Ragle, plans to attend WKU and gave a most interesting presentation which included photographs and stories about her family and ancestors. Lucas England, son of the late Tim England and Valerie England also told those present about his family as well as the family connection to several illustrious people in U. S. history. He plans on attending Vanderbilt University.

In the Spring 2016 issue of "Traces", we will be sharing with our readers some of the interesting facts that both students uncovered during their research.

We would like to commend both Christy and Lucas for an excellent program and we wish you great success in your future.

Each will be presented with a $500.00 scholarship upon their acceptance of the school of their choice.

Morgan's Christmas Raid

By Hal Engernd in Kentucky Progress Magazine and re-printed in undated copy of the Glasgow Republican.

“Christmas night, 1862 – A chill penetrating wind swept across the hills of old Kentucky; an occasional flurry of snow gave promise of more severe weather yet to follow. The inhabitants of the little village of Upton, some sixty miles north of Louisville on the Louisville and Nashville railroad had brought in water and food for the night, put out the cats and retired as usual. Only the guard of Upton troopers remained awake; they were thinking of other Christmas nights far away to the north on the banks of the Wabash for most of them were Indiana men. Little did anyone in Upton know of the strange scene which was taking place about 55 miles to the southeast.

“And a strange scene it was! There sheltered by dense timber and hills from the chill of December blast, General John H. Morgan, that fearless, hard-riding raider of the Confederacy, and his men were celebrating Christmas. Three days prior to this time, they had left Alexandria, Tennessee, their object being the destruction of the Louisville and Nashville railroad which was the chief means of supply between Union Headquarters in Louisville and General Rosecrans’ forces in northern Tennessee.

“Morgan’s was a picked force. No braver men ever straddled horses. Most of them were young men, ranging from eighteen to thirty-five years of age – Morgan himself although a Brigadier General, was only thirty-seven years of age; an experienced veteran of the Mexican War. Upon the outbreak of hostilities, he had given up a prosperous business in Lexington to raise a troop of cavalry which he proffered the Southern cause. In an incredibly short time, his daring exploits caused him to become as one of the leading cavalry men of the age. Moreover, there was a certain romance attached to service in his legion.

“Boots and Saddles” before daylight, long brisk, swinging trots through the rosy hours of daybreak; scarcely halting to breathe their animals and adjust equipment, the miles fell behind. Then at night far from the morning’s starting point, the dusty, yelling troopers would fall upon the unsuspecting Union forces. Although in the majority of cases outnumbered. Morgan counted upon this element of surprise and fury of attack to equalize the discrepancy in numbers. Yelling, shouting and shooting like wild men, they would swirl through bivouacs and camps. Then, while calls for reinforcements were being broadcast from the Union lines, Morgan and his men would gather in prisoners, supplies and equipment sorely needed by the Confederates and silently vanish into the night. Daybreak of the next morning would find them miles away and safe from pursuit.

“Tireless and fearless himself, a daring horseman and a splendid shot, Morgan demanded the same qualifications in all his recruits. His men were all well mounted and at home on horseback. Days and nights in the saddle without food or sleep and the ever present chance of combat soon developed a seasoned and hardened corps of veterans equal to any task with which they might be confronted. Morgan had confidence in his men; they worshipped him and placed absolute and implicit trust in his leadership and judgment. Such a combination was invincible.

“With 3,000 men, four hundred of whom were unarmed to start with, and with two light batteries of Field Artillery, Morgan left Alexandria on December 23rd and covered the distance of 90 miles from Alexandria, Tennessee to Glasgow, Kentucky. Only one who is familiar with this section of the country, only one who has traversed this rough and hilly region, only one who knows the hardships and difficulties of the little-used hill roads, can appreciate the difficulties of this march. It is easy to conceive how his presence in the country was unknown. High ridges covered with dense woods, deep valleys and lack of communication between the inhabitants along his route explain this factor.

“It was Morgan’s custom to start at daylight, ride rapidly until 11 a.m., when he stopped to unsaddle, groom, feed and rest his horses. Then at 12:00, the march would be resumed and continued until dusk. A strong advance guard always preceded his main body by a considerable distance. An advance guard strong enough to beat back any minor resistance which might be encountered and thereby guarantee the unimpeded march of the main body. His flanks were likewise protected; while active patrols in all directions kept him advised of the presence and movements of any enemy forces in the vicinity.

“Morgan’s advance guard entered Glasgow, Kentucky, at dusk on Christmas eve. Several troops of the Second Michigan Cavalry which had been out on a foraging expedition rode into the public square just as Morgan’s men entered from the south. Without a moment’s hesitation, and with a whoop and yell, Morgan’s men charged. In the brisk fight which followed, the Federal troops were defeated – leaving behind one dead and two wounded. Twenty prisoners were captured – and incidentally numerous Christmas turkeys which the foragers carried tied to their saddles.

“Continuing north from Glasgow on Christmas Day, the advance guard encountered the Union troops drawn up for battle about ten miles north of Glasgow. The commander of the advance guard dismounted his men to fight on foot and attack. However, the Federals had concealed a company of infantry in ambush and no sooner had the attack begun than the Confederates were met with a murderous fire from the flank. The lead horses and holders stampeded leaving the attacking force alone in the presence of a vastly superior number. Dismayed and temporarily disorganized by this surprise attack, the Confederates retired across the field to the protection of an oak thicket one or two hundred yards away. The timely arrival of the main body and a prompt charge by them routed the Federals. The march was then resumed.

“Later in the day, Morgan fell upon and captured a large and richly laden sutler’s train. Indeed Santa Claus was good to these men so far from home and traveling on Christmas Day. The march was continued across the Green River and through Hammondsville. At dusk a halt was ordered between Hammondsville and Upton. Here protected from surprise by far flung sentry squads; and from the unfriendly elements and the spying eyes by dense woods and hills, Morgan’s men celebrated Christmas. A myriad of carefully screened fires were lighted, the luxuries from the hapless sutler’s store were distributed; turkeys captured from the Second Michigan the day before were broiled and augmented the usual scanty fare from saddle bags. Tired as they were from a hard day’s riding and fighting, Morgan attempted sending messages making inquiries concerning the disposition of the Federal forces in the vicinity (signing himself of course as one of the Federal Commanders along the line). Numerous messages were likewise sent to other commanders and some very misleading information as to whereabouts and strength of Morgan’s command was disseminated. General Boyle’s office was thrown into turmoil as a result.

“That Morgan’s presence along the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was absolutely unknown to the authorities in Louisville was evinced by the fact that while General Morgan and “Lightning” were amusing themselves at the telegraph office, a train laden with artillery and other supplies came into sight from the north. The engineer, however, saw his danger in time to reverse his engine and escape.

“Moving on, the stockade and garrison at the bridge over Bacon Creek were attacked and captured. Later in the afternoon, the stockade and garrison at Nolin suffered the same fate. These stockades were a part of the general scheme for the protection of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Supplies for the depot at Nashville were mainly received by rail from Louisville (185 miles away). The success of the southern holding this line with such tenacity that no serious break could be made in it by cavalry raids, or by disaffected population of the district through which it passed. “The destruction of a single important bridge would have made matters in front look very serious. The destruction of a number would have compelled the army to retrace its steps.” (Col. W. E. Merrill’s Report of Engineering Activities, Army of the Cumberland). Stockades built of heavy logs and banked with earth were therefore erected at each and every railroad bridge. Some of the stockades were built with towers or second stories to afford an elevated point of observation from which to observe the approach of raiders. Such were the stockades at Bacon Creek and Nolin. Both fell before the determined assault of Morgan’s men that day.

“The night of December 26, Morgan bivouacked a few miles south of Elizabethtown. Elizabethtown was strongly garrisoned by a regiment of Illinois troops – 652 men strong. A number of brick warehouses in the vicinity of the railroad station had been loop-holed and strengthened for defense. Morgan threw a cordon of men about town. His artillery was placed upon a commanding height and opened fire early in the morning. Seeing the futility of defense, the entire garrison surrendered leaving Morgan free to march on to Muldraugh's Hill where he burned the two long trestles of the Louisville and Nashville line. To affect this bit of destruction, it was necessary to reduce two strong stockades determinedly defended by 700 Indiana troops.

"After burning the trestles on the 28th, Morgan moved to the Rolling Fork River. The greatest portion of his command crossed that night and moved towards Bardstown. Five hundred men and some artillery, under command of Col. Basil Duke, were dispatched to destroy the stockade and bridge over the Rolling Fork. In the midst of the engagement, a force of 3,000 Federals under command of Colonel Harlan (later a Judge of the Supreme Court) arrived upon the scene and forced the withdrawal of Duke and his men. A spirited engagement took place at the crossing of Rolling Fork in which Colonel Duke was wounded and escaped capture only through the heroic action of Capt. Quirk of Quirk's Scouts who placed the wounded Colonel across the pommel of his saddle and holding him on.

"It was essential that Morgan should turn southward and beat a hasty retreat from the State if he wished to evade capture or destruction. He accordingly, left Bardstown on the 30th. A cold, chilling rain had set in and his march to Springfield was one misery and hardship. He reached Springfield about dusk on the 30th. There he rested his men an hour and then resumed the march towards Lebanon, nine miles distant. Detouring around Lebanon with his main body, he caused the rear guard to drive in the pickets on the north side of town and to light a myriad of camp fire to give the impression that he was halting in force before the town and only waiting daylight to launch his attack. He was successful in his ruse, for several Federal columns were deflected from a course which would have thrown them across his line of retreat and marched to the aid of Lebanon. When they arrived in the morning, Morgan and his men were miles to the south. All through the bitter cold night, he continued his march. At time, the half frozen troopers dismounted and led their horses to restore the circulation to their benumbed limbs. Horses and men were covered with sheets of ice, but on and on they went. There was no stopping for rest until noon of the 31st when a fleeting hour was snatched for man and beast. Reports had come to Morgan that columns had been dispatched from Munfordville and Glasgow to intercept him at Columbia or Burkesville before he could cross the Cumberland. He was taking no chances with the irate Federal Commanders. He continued the march.

"Night of the 31st found him at Campbellsville. He and his men had been continuously in the saddle, with the exception of two brief rests, for over thirty-six hours; and now that he had safely outdistanced his pursuers for the time being, he ordered a halt and went into bivouac for the night. On the morning of New Year's Day, after eight hours rest, he again took up the march. On through Columbia – ahead of the oncoming enemy – on without stopping, to Burkesville where he arrived on the morning of January 2. Several miles away was the Cumberland and safety. There was not a sign of an intercepting force. He had again successfully outmarched his adversaries. In a few hours, he was safe beyond the river.

"What a glorious Christmas week it had been! He had thrown consternation into the enemy camp; the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was a wreck from Upton to Shepherdsville; he had captured or destroyed vast amounts of enemy property; captured 1,000 prisoners; his command was returning better mounted and armed than when it had started – armed and mounted at the expense of the enemy. It was six months before the hard working Federal engineers were able to repair their main line of supply; in those days, time counted."

The cemetery is located on a knoll on the east side of Highway 163 just north of Highway 90 east of Summer Shade. This was apparently the old Pace place.] She had seven children.

[Anita Veluzat Bryan provided the following information about Wade Veluzat: "Began mature career at Randolph in Barren County. Earned living as schoolmaster. Appointed postmaster of Randolph & Winsom in Barren Co. on August 10, 1861. During the Civil War he had a store in Randolph. Said to have close ties to Abraham Lincoln - was given a laptop wooden desk by Lincoln for services rendered, perhaps for gathering intelligence. Guerilla forces confiscated some of his merchandise and forced him and his son, Lewis, to burn the remainder. He moved to Horse Cave in 1865 and was a banker, having founded the Caverna Bank. Tombstone reads: Wade Veluzat, October 29, 1819 - January 16, 1875. Established First Hart County Bank; Built First Brick Building in Hart County; Extensive Land Owner; Union Co. Civil War; Personal Friend of Abraham Lincoln." ] [Of Eliza, his wife, Anita said,

"Tombstone reads 'Devoted member of the Baptist Church, Biblical scholar, member of one of Kentucky's oldest and historical families.'" ]

Lewis Veluzat, son of Wade and Eliza Veluzat, who married Mary Shirley and had eight children, five of whom are living in Horse Cave, Ky. [The 1880 census for Hart County KY (Horse Cave District, page 281A) shows 7 children: Eugene, Fannie, Henry, Millie, John, Raymond and Eliza.]

Eliza Francis Clark Veluzat, widow of Wade Veluzat, married Robert Sublett, of Horse Cave, Ky.

William Henry Clark [This is the author of this booklet.], son of Samuel and Nancy G. Clark, was born Jan. 11, 1824, married Katie Ann Lawson, May 23, 1843. She died Dec. 22, 1861, and was buried at Brownsville, Ky. They had eight children. He then married Francis Nichols, widow of T.Y. Nichols, who was a Miss Hatcher before her first marriage. They were married April 10, 1862. She died Jan. 16, 1897 and was buried at Coral Hill, Ky., and had nine children.

Those by the first marriage are: Palveneure G. Clark, born March 12, 1845, and married O.H. Fishback, Dec 10, 1867 and had three children, Frederick Jessie, Aubrey Clark and Francis Alma. O.H. Fishback was born March 12, 1834, and died Jan 24, 1903 and was buried in Odd Fellow's cemetery, Glasgow, Ky.

MARTHA POWELL HARRISON HONORED

At the October 22, 2015 meeting of the Barren County Historical Society, one of our most dedicated members was honored.

Martha Powell Harrison is the only charter member of our Society who is faithfully supporting and contributing to the Society. She has been a member since the Society's organization in 1972 and has contributed greatly over the years. She was past Editor of "Traces", back in the days when the quarterly was just a few mimeographed pages. She has published the Barren County Marriage Book which is on the shelves of many libraries and in the homes of a multitude of researchers. She has also read every extant newspaper until to the early 1900's and recorded births, deaths, marriages, etc. which is available on CD. Martha has also hunted, copied and marked hundreds of county cemeteries and published an update of the Society's cemetery book and held various offices through the year.

It was our pleasure to honor Martha at the meeting by presenting her with a life-time membership and a gift card as a small thank you for all she has done.

BOOK DONATIONS TO THE SOCIETY

The Society would like to thank the following for their donations to our library:

Mr. Arland W. Benningfield, Jr. of Louisville, KY., a long-time member of the Society has donated family papers in addition to his large book, on the Marrs Family and assorted lines. He has included many photographs, charts and stories in a well-done and appreciated book!

Another of our members, Lloyd Dean, has donated several booklets which include: 40th Dean & Creech Reunion, Bert T. Dean 1903-1974, An Appalachian Flood of Memories Volume 1, Morehead United Pentecostal Church and Pentecostal Women in Kentucky History. We would like to thank Lloyd for his generous gifts.

OLDEN TIMES IN GLASGOW

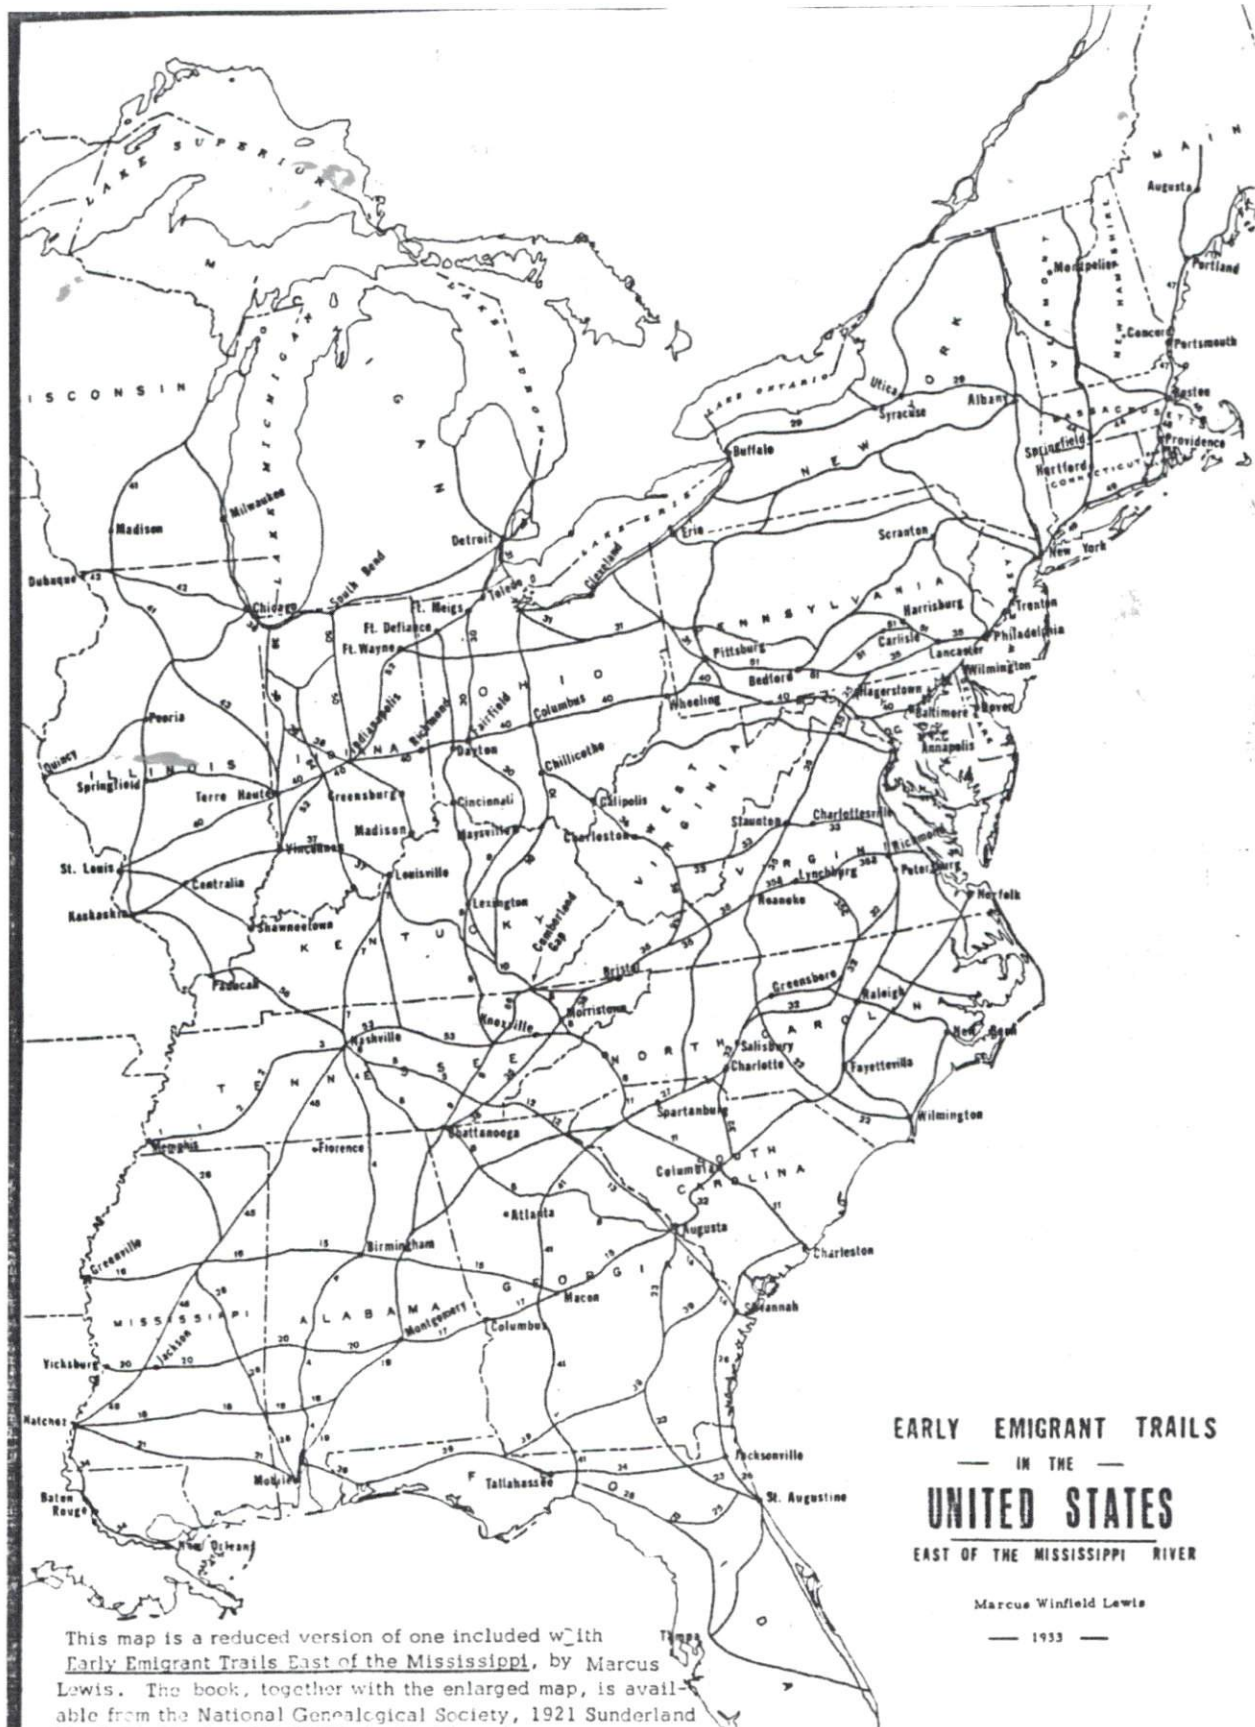

The following two photographs are courtesy of the Kentucky Library and William S. Terry IV. Sam's excellent book entitled "Images of America GLASGOW" is available through Arcadia Publishing (ww.aracadiapublishing.com) as well as through Amazon.com and local stores in Glasgow. It has a wonderful display of photographs.

This view of the East Public Square was captured before the great fire of 1900, which destroyed much of this section of downtown. At first glance, the viewer might confuse this for the North Public Square with the structure on the left being similar to the First National Bank building. The building on the far right, the E. Morris building, and the church steeple, the then location of First Christian Church, set the record straight. (Courtesy of the Kentucky Library.)

- A Complete Index To The Names of Persons, Places and Subjects Mentioned in Littell's Laws of Kentucky. Commonly known as Littell's Statutes of Kentucky, there are 5 volumes that were done by Littell in the early years of statehood. Difficult to find and research, this re-print was done by Littell listing every person's name and places cited in those five volumes with a reference to the volume and page number where found. In alphabetical order with over 4500 individual's names, the reader will find a brief but thorough explanation of why they were listed in the State records. This book contains a gold mine of information where individuals had affairs conducted at the state level instead of county. It includes many murders, illegitimate marriages, divorces, problems with headright lands, surveying difficulties, payments to those leading and protecting settlers through the Cumberland Gap, escaped felons, town founders, business owners, ferries and so much more. 212 pages of names plus a full-name index showing all individuals cited within an individual's entry. A book serious researchers should have when they cannot find references at the county level. $30.00 for printed version; $20.00 as an e-book.
- Warren County Birth Records. Transcribed from the microfilmed copy of the Vital Statistics. The following years are shown: 1852-1859, 1861, 1874-1878, 1901-1904, 1906-1910. This is a huge work of over 4,511 births during this time frame including 858 slave births. Information contained shows the name of the child, date of birth, race, status (living or stillborn), gender and parents' or owner's names. These films are very old; some pages almost totally faded out so there will be some entries that were not totally readable. A valuable source for the Warren County researcher. Has surname index, 141 pages. $28.00 or $20 as PDF file (e-book).
- Warren County Vital Statistics - Deaths. Covering 1852-1859, 1874-1878, 1900-1904 and 1906-1908. 2,875 deaths are recorded including slave deaths. Information varied from year to year but normally included: name of deceased, race, age, gender, marital status, cause of death, places of birth, residence and death, parents' names and sometimes place of birth of parents. The condition of the microfilm is bad on some years but was transcribed to the best of my ability. There about 10 murders, several suicides, deaths from the cholera epidemic of 1854, diphtheria, starvation and other causes. Also shown are some deaths occurring in other counties who never lived in Warren Co plus many families from Barren, Allen, Adair, Logan and Cumberland Co. 151 pages including surname index. $28.00 or $20.00 in the e-book version.

If purchasing both Warren County Births and Deaths - $50.00.

RECENT SPEAKER – Eddie Price

Return speaker, Eddie Price, entertained a large audience on October 22, 2015. Complete with humor, costume and a thorough knowledge of the subject, 1812: Remember the Raisin! The meeting was held in conjunction with the Mary Wood Weldon Library through the auspices of the Kentucky Humanities Council.

"Frenchtown, Ft. Meigs, Mississinewa, the Battle of Lake Erie, the River Thames, New Orleans..." Kentucky's contribution in the War of 1812 was vital to the American War effort. This presentation shows how deeply Kentuckians were involved economically, politically, militarily, and emotionally. The massacre at River Raisin gave rise to the battle cry of the war: "Remember the Raisin!" Governor Isaac Shelby left Frankfort to lead troops along the northern frontier and commanded victorious soldiers at the Battle of the Thames. After all they had sacrificed, Kentuckians answered the call once more to defend New Orleans. The epic battle on the sugarcane plantations below the city provided redemption for the young American nation -- and for a state seeking to shed its pioneer image to become one of the more influential states in the union."

A song was written after the Battle which Eddie had us sing along with. See the words before Queries, this issue.

WE SALUTE THE GLASGOW DAILY TIMES ON ITS 150TH ANNIVERSARY!

The first issue of The Glasgow Times was published by W. L. Porter and C. C. Forbes on November 4, 1865. The first issue had the following announcement: "We will send our paper this morning to everybody in town. We can but venture to hope that it may enlist the interest of all. Free from sectarian or partisan bias, we are using our efforts to supply a newspaper devoted solely to the local interest of the county, etc.” It will be noted that in this month, the state had only been out from under martial law for one month; federal troops were still on duty!

On April 5, 1866, Porter and Forbes turned the paper over to W. B. Munford and C. W. Geers. They in turn sold to E. Y. Kilgore with John D. Woods, Editor. In 1880 W. Basil Smith and Harry C. Gorin were part-owners until 1892. For part of this time, J. M. Richardson was part owner with Smith.

Throughout the years, The Glasgow Weekly Times, now the Glasgow Daily Times, has served us well.

Hunters of Kentucky, or Half
HORSE AND HALF ALLIGATOR.

Ye gentlemen and ladies fair,
Who grace this famous city,
Just listen if you've time to spare,
While I rehearse a ditty;
And for the opportunity
Conceive yourselves quite lucky,
For 'tis not often that you see
A hunter from Kentucky.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

We are a hardy, free-born race,
Each man to fear a stranger;
What e'er the game we join in chase,
Despising toil and danger
And if a daring foe annoys,
Whate'er his strength and forces,
We'll show him that Kentucky boys
Are alligator horses.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

I s'pose you've read it in the prints,
How Pakenham attempted
To make old Hickory Jackson wince,
But soon his scheme repented;
For we, with rifles ready cock'd,
Thought such occasion lucky,
And soon around the gen'ral flock'd
The hunters of Kentucky.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

You've heard, I s'pose how New-Orleans
Is fam'd for wealth and beauty,
There's girls of ev'ry hue it seems,
From snowy white to sooty
So Pakenham he made his brags,
If he in fight was lucky,
He'd have their girls and cotton bags,
In spite of old Kentucky.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

But Jackson he was wide awake,
And was not scar'd at trifles,
For well he knew what aim we take
With our Kentucky rifles.
So he led us down by Cypress swamp,
The ground was low and mucky;
There stood John Bull in martial pomp
And here was old Kentucky.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

A bank was rais'd to hide our breasts,
Not that we thought of dying,
But that we always like to rest,
Unless the game is flying.
Behind it stood our little force,
None wished it to be greater,
For ev'ry man was half a horse,
And half an alligator.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

They did not let our patience tire,
Before they show'd their faces;
We did not choose to waste our fire,
So snugly kept our places.
But when so near we saw them wink,
We thought it time to stop 'em,
And 'twould have done you good I think,
To see Kentuckians drop 'em.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

They found, at last, 'twas vain to fight,
Where lead was all their booty,
And so they wisely took to flight,
And left us all the beauty
And now, if danger e'er annoys,
Remember what our trade is,
Just send for us Kentucky boys,
And we'll protect ye, ladies.
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!
Oh Kentucky, the hunters of Kentucky!

GENERAL INFORMATION

MEMBERSHIP is open to anyone interested in the history of the South Central Kentucky area, especially Barren County. Annual dues are $15.00.

TRACES, The Society's quarterly publication, is received by all members. It is published seasonally; Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter. Members joining during the year will receive the past issues of that year in a separate mailing.

CONTRIBUTIONS are earnestly solicited. Family genealogies, marriages, Bible records, wills and probate, cemetery, court and other records are all acceptable. You will be listed as the contributor.

EXCHANGE of Traces with other Societies or publications is acceptable and welcome.

BOOKS to be reviewed in Traces must be sent with information as to the cost, including postage, from whom the book may be obtained. They become the property of the Society library. Books should have Kentucky interest. Reviews will be published as space permits.

MEETINGS are held monthly, except November and December (unless otherwise advised), at the Mary Wood Weldon Library, 1530 S. Green Street, Glasgow, KY., on the 4th Thursday of each month at 6 p.m. Some special program may be held at other locations and local newspaper and media will be informed. Interesting and informative programs are planned for each meeting and your supportive attendance is always welcome.

BACK ISSUES of Traces are available. Our supplies of the following are gone: Vol. 1, Nos. 1-4 (1973); Nos. 1-4 (1974); Vol. 4 (1976); Vol. 5, No. 1 (1977); Vol. 3, Nos. 1 and 4 (1981); Vol. 10, Nos. 1 and 2 (1982); Vol. 12, No. 2 (1984). All others can be purchased as long as the supply lasts at $4.00 each. Back issues will be mailed with our regular quarterly mailings.

CORRESPONDENCE of any type that requires a reply must contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address to: Barren County Historical Society, P. O. Box 157, Glasgow, KY 42142-0157.

BOOKS AND MATERIALS of a genealogical nature that you no longer need – would you consider donating them to the Society? They will be preserved for other researchers and are deeply appreciated.
