While quintuplets have been publicizing a Dominion, and quadruplets have been drawing the attention of a nation to a small Kentucky town, Bowling Green's unusual twins have been making friends for this metropolis of South Central Kentucky.

These twins are the assets of Growth and Balance, a combination seldom possessed by one city. Expansion since 1935 has been rapid, resulting from natural opportunity without artificial booms of any sort. Four agricultural markets—burley tobacco, livestock, dairy products and strawberry—have made spectacular gains within this period.

Due to efficient merchandising service and Bowling Green's growing accessibility by road, rail and water to numerous South Central communities, the city's retail sales increased 33 per cent in 1939 as compared with sales of 1935. Only three other cities in the State surpassed this record.

Industry has been developed to manufacture or process agricultural products. Two tobacco manufacturing companies, two tobacco re-drying plants and five tobacco warehouses have prospered especially since the establishment of Bowling Green as a burley tobacco market in 1933. During the 1940-41 tobacco season 7,476,336 pounds of burley tobacco were sold here for a total revenue of $1,254,859.28. Millions of pounds of dark tobacco were processed by the two re-drying plants.

The milk industry in Warren County, of which Bowling Green is the county seat, realized revenue approximating $1,335,000 in 1940. One milk condensery, three major dairy products companies and many smaller dairies have consumed all milk and cream produced by the 12,500 milch cows in the county. Although Warren has more milch cows than any other county in the State, the industrial absorption of the milk has resulted in a demand for a major increase in the cow population.

Two livestock markets have established local prices comparing favorably with those in much larger marketing centers. In 1938, livestock sales totalled $1,250,000 as compared with a livestock revenue in 1940 of more than $2,000,000. In addition to the auction markets, two meat packing plants buy livestock throughout the year.

Although most of the strawberry crop is shipped direct to Eastern markets, establishment in 1940 of a cold-pack plant in Bowling Green made it possible for the growers to sell profitably the berries which are too ripe for shipping.

Two flour mills, a modern baking company, three hatcheries and a sweet feed mill are additional industries which are dependent upon agriculture. A handle plant buys local hickory timber and an asphalt company uses Bowling Green as a storage and loading point for paving material mined in adjoining Edmonson County.

Unique in that they do not procure their raw material from the locality are an industry which manufactures an air compressor in the low-priced field and an industry which makes men's shorts. The Bowling Green Industrial Foundation was organized by the Chamber of Commerce in 1940 to invite new industry and promote growth of established industry. On January 20, 1941, the Foundation placed a modern factory building at the disposal of an underwear company which has in its employ as this directory goes to press, approximately 800 men and women from Warren County and will have an annual payroll of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Public building, development of residential districts and modernization of business structures have stimulated employment and trade. In 1940, the $125,000 addition to the post office was completed, a modern $85,000 industrial plant was erected and approximately $50,000 was expended in increasing the floor space of two tobacco warehouses. A modern $90,000 concrete jail for Warren County already in use, and a $25,000 N.Y.A. workshop, now nearing completion, are other building projects the year 1940 saw added to its construction program.

Bowling Green's new 250-watt radio station W.L.B.J., in its own modern building at the East end of the city, went on the air June 25, 1940 on a frequency... of 1340 kilocycles. Federal and State governments are spending $800,000 on U.S. Highway 31-W in Warren County this year due to designation of that artery of travel as a military highway. In August 1941, the sum of $332,000 was appropriated by the Federal government for a municipal airport at Bowling Green as a part of the National defense program.

Making this the cultural city of Southern Kentucky are a strong city and county public school system, an excellent Catholic parochial school and two nationally prominent colleges—Western Kentucky Teachers College and the Bowling Green Business University. The Bowling Green Business University is one of the oldest and largest schools of its kind in America. It has now more than 1,000 students in daily attendance, representing 35 states and several foreign countries. As a result of its long years of service in the field of business education, successful graduates of this unusual school are found all over America and many of them are outstanding in business and professional activities. Western Kentucky Teachers College, crowning College Heights—often called the "most beautiful college campus in America"—has had an average annual enrollment of 3,823 students since 1928. The college and its predecessors, Southern Normal School and Business University and Western Kentucky Normal School, have enjoyed an unbroken record of distinguished service to education for 48 years with the result that all of Kentucky is proud of the outstanding physical growth and academic achievements of Western Kentucky Teachers College.

Derived from the sport of bowling on the green late in the 1790's the name Bowling Green is suggestive of recreational activities. Tradition says the city was so named when it was established in 1798 because Robert Moore, one of the two Moores who gave the land on which the town was built had a bowling alley on the green at the rear of his home and the settlers enjoyed the game of bowling on the green. Supporting this tradition in the modern manner are the city's four beautiful municipal parks affording facilities for golf, tennis, picnicking and children's playgrounds. For the past three years Bowling Green has held a franchise in the Kitty League, her Barons winning the championship playoff their first year of competition in professional baseball and being runners-up the second year. Achievements of athletic teams representing Western Kentucky Teachers College have long been outstanding. A leader in all major intercollegiate sports, the college has attained even national importance as the home of fine basketball teams by virtue of having won 10 consecutive State titles and seven Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association championships, as well as single victories over some of the nation's leading teams.

Bowling Green's citizens were among leaders in the movement to establish historical Mammoth Cave as a national park. Acceptance of the Mammoth Cave area by the Federal government July, 1, 1941, came as a culmination of their work. The city, long the Southern gateway to Mammoth Cave, has become known as a mecca for tourists because of its modern hotel and its own scenic and historic attractions among which are Lost River Cave, Fort Albert Sidney Johnston and the Kentucky Building Museum on the Campus of the Teachers College.

Largest city between Louisville and Nashville, Bowling Green is strategically located from a business standpoint, serving as it does a rich agricultural area extending for a radius of 50 miles. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, eight Federal and State highways and navigable Barren River provide facilities for transportation by rail, truck and water. These factors have contributed to the rapid growth in the city's population, which, according to the 1940 census, was 14,585. This is in addition to the approximately 5,000 students annually enrolled at the two colleges, giving Bowling Green an approximate stable population of 19,000 or better than half the population of the entire county, which in the 1940 census, was given as 36,631. In this directory there are listed 10,817 individual names, which is 967 more than was shown in the last issue. Bowling Green, therefore, faces the prospect of a happy future of continued steady growth in population, industry, construction and economic stability. Based upon the elements of favorable location from both standpoints of supply and accessibility to markets for the products of her people and blessed by a civic-minded citizenry her future history can not fail to be otherwise than a saga of progress.

The publishers wish to thank the Chamber of Commerce, the business men and the citizens generally for their generous support and assistance, without which it would be impossible to issue a City Directory.
