BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Robert Wilkins Lucas (1786-1845) was the son of Nathaniel Lucas (1755-1807) and Sarah Rivers, who emigrated from Brunswick County, Virginia, and in 1807 were living in Warren County, Kentucky. Robert married Sallie F. Marshall, and their sons were Fidella F. (1811-1884), N. Perry "Bone" (1814-1875), Robert Wilkins (1818-1879), J. R. (1820-1889), S. N., W. C., and their daughters were E. A. Stone, Mary Ellen (1834?-1898), Martha Thomas (1837?-1897), and Sara Ann (1829?-1903).

The will of the younger Robert W. Lucas, dated 15 August 1875, left all of his estate to his sisters, Sarah Ann, Mary Ellen, and Martha Thomas. He also desired that an indenture that he had filed with the Warren County Court concerning two colored children, William (or Billy) and Fannie C. Lucas, be complied with until its expiration date. Fannie was reared by the sisters. There is a notebook of R. W. Lucas that indicates that he was engaged in the trading of slaves before the Civil War. There is also a reference to Lucas' involvement in slave-trading in A Sesqui-Centennial History of Kentucky.

In the 1859 will of Mary Ellen Lucas, the bequest was made to her sisters, Sarah Ann and Martha, that they were to receive income from the Lucas estate as long as they lived. Following their deaths, the estate was left to Fannie C. Lucas Penick (1866-1952), and her daughter, Bessie H. (1885-1931), for their kind care of Robert W. Lucas, who was an invalid in his later years.

COLLECTION NOTE

Two-thirds or more of the collection is comprised of journals and scrapbooks. There are three journals which were kept by different Lucas family members. Robert Wilkins Lucas (1786-1845) is the author of two journals. The 1839 one records writings on various subjects, especially that of temperance. His other journal, dated from 1840 to 1843, also records writings on various topics: politics, religion, navigation, and local happenings. The 1854 journal of Ellen Lucas relates deaths and occurrences caused by cholera at Bowling Green and Mammoth Cave, Kentucky. An account book of Robert Wilkins Lucas (1818-1879) details a trip through Mammoth Cave on 15 June 1850, and also contains records of 1863 horse-trading transactions. A small 1846 notebook has writings of a fictional nature recorded by the younger R. W. Lucas. In addition, there is a book dated February 1859 which lists purchases and sales of Negroes. This book evidently belonged to the younger R. W. Lucas, too.

The three scrapbooks were compiled around 1860 to 1870 and chiefly contain Warren County and Bowling Green items as well as newspaper clippings pertaining to the Civil War in Kentucky and elsewhere. (The scrapbooks are indexed, but only for local events.) The miscellaneous papers, 1831-1897 (13), include receipts concerning illness and funeral expenses of N. P. Lucas in 1875 and for Martha Lucas in 1897. The photographs (5) include one thought to be of Fannie Penick and one of her house located at 732 College Street in Bowling Green. This house was obtained after Fannie sold the Lucas home which was in the eastern part of Warren County and then reinvested the money in this property as stipulated by the will of Mary Ellen Lucas. The last survivor (Fannie, or her daughter, Bessie) had the authority to will the estate to whomever she desired. Fannie died in 1952.
