COLLECTION NOTE

This collection features information gathered through oral histories and observation about the cultural resources in Fleming County, Kentucky. The study consisted of a windshield survey, formal interviews with twenty people, observation and documentation of three public events, and numerous other activities including research. The purpose of the project was for the Kentucky Arts Council to gain better insight into the types of cultural resources present in Fleming County. None of the interviews were included in the collection. Most of the research collected for this project was done by Lynn David, who acted as a Fleming County folklorist. She was assigned to the county due to a Cultural Economic Initiative grant from the Kentucky Arts Council.
