COLLECTION NOTE

This collection features information and documentation gathered for the Promising Neighborhoods Program as part of the Improving Rural Appalachian Communities initiative. The Kentucky counties included in this project were Owsley, Clay, and Jackson. Berea College was the fiscal agent and lead partner for the project. The Promising Neighborhoods Program was a grant project with the goal of assessing educational outcomes with the strengths and needs in these three counties in order to develop an implementation grant to address those needs. One folklorist was assigned to each county in order to conduct in-depth research on the variety of arts and cultural traditions represented in each area. This included conducting several interviews with local residents. All interviews for the collection are in digital format.
