Administrative History: The Catalogue was published by the Registrar's Office from 1883-1913. The publication continued under the title Bulletin from 1913 through 1927 when the college closed. Information contained in these publications include the academic calendar, lists of trustees, faculty, brief history of Ogden College, admissions, course of study, course descriptions, student organizations and a register of students and alumni.

The Cardinal Yearbook was produced in 1913, 1914 and 1917 by the respective senior classes. It includes photos and biographical sketches of faculty and seniors. There are photos of student groups along with membership lists.

The Cardinal Newspaper was published by the students from 1922 to 1927. It contains articles regarding college events, faculty, staff and students. A partial index [1922-1925] is available online.

Description: Publications created by and about Ogden College. Series includes a full run of the Course Catalogs/Bulletins, Cardinal Newspaper and Yearbook as well as several histories of Ogden College.

Perry Snell Hall To Be Dedicated Tonight

Perry Snell Arrives In Town

Distinguished Visitor Comes For Dedication Services, Ogdens' Guest of Honor.

Mr. C. Perry Snell arrived in Bowling Green yesterday and will attend the dedication of the new building tonight. Mr. Snell was in Washington, D. C., at the time he decided to come for the exercises and came direct from that city.

The generosity of this former Ogdens boy is directly responsible for the new building, an extra teacher on the faculty and several other material gifts besides the added spirit and increased confidence that have come about as the result of these donations.

He was born and reared in Bowling Green and attended school at Ogdens from September, 1882, to 1887, when he withdrew. After leaving Bowling Green he took up his home in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he has been very successful in real estate and other businesses. In 1923 he offered the College the sum of twenty thousand dollars toward a new building provided the friends of the school would

Homecoming New Building To Be Thrown Open For Formal Ceremony

The aim of all the former students of Ogdens has materialized! The long looked for building has been finished! With installation of the chapel seats last week the building was completed. Classes were held in all the recitation rooms last week and complete satisfaction, so far as acoustics, heat, and minor details are concerned, was expressed by the faculty and student body.

The new building is beautifully decorated throughout. The walls are white with oak and walnut woodwork varnished to a high gloss. The auditorium walls are finished in tan with decorations of great effect in oak. The beauty of the auditorium decorations is due to the beneficence of Mr. J. R. Sampier. He had the contract of decorating the entire building, and when he reached the auditorium he was dissatisfied with the specifications and offered to carry out his own scheme without additional cost. As a result, the auditorium has a much better and a much more costly job than it would have had otherwise.

The roof is made of red tile and adds much to the effectiveness of the building. The front is decorated with designs in stone. The straight lines of the entire building are broken by some design in stone, an arched window, or some suitable effect in the bricklaying wrought by the skilled workmen.

The building contains six class rooms, a large laboratory and an auditorium with a seating capacity of over 200 students. The laboratory is furnished with the best equipped obtainable, the same type as that used in the laboratory at Yale. The equipment alone cost upwards of thirteen hundred dollars. This section of the science department will be occupied by the Qualitative, Quantitative, and Organic classes. The

Trophy Room Established

Ogdens Club Fitting Out Rooms In New Building For Collections.

In Perry Snell Hall there is a trophy room where the spoils of the vanquished will be displayed to the public eye. In many struggles the prizes of victory have been taken by Ogdens men and now a number of these mementos are to grace the trophy room. The decoration and arrangement of this room will be under the care of Mr. Herman Lewis, of this city, who is an artist in his line, and it will naturally be the most attractive room in the new building.

Ogdens is proud of her teams whose victories these mementos commemorate. They have successfully engaged in many fierce struggles with their opponents on the athletic field, on the debating platform, and in the realm of scholarship. And they have never diminished Ogdens' reputation for clean sportsmanship.

In the trophy room are living ones, pennants and pictures which bespeak of the days long since

Fitch Lost Exploring Cave

Football Hero Of Two Years Ago Underground Twenty-four Hours.

E. A. Fitch, better known as "Little Boy Blue," lost himself in the cave on Regent E. C. P. Thomas' farm Sunday afternoon and remained underground twenty-four hours before the searching party discovered him.

Fitch went in the cave on an exploring trip and became lost when his electric light went out. When found, he was more than a mile from the entrance and was headed in the wrong direction. He was suffering a great deal from the cold and lack of food.

Fitch will be remembered as the star tackle on Ogdens' football team two years ago. His ability and endurance were above the average and attracted a great deal of attention.

T. C. Cottrell, Jeff Starner and Walter Seale were interested in the "Fitch" Club last week. All three of the gentlemen report a warm reception.
