ORGANIZATIONAL HISTORY

Providence Knob Baptist Church was constituted on 29 September 1804 as Providence Baptist Church in Warren County, Kentucky. The first known church building was on land deeded to the trustees in 1814 by Abraham Anderson, near Gladish-Anderson cemetery on Old Greenville Road. The second building was constructed in 1834 on land deeded in 1830 by the heirs of James Wright Gladish, and was also located on Old Greenville Road.

The current church building, constructed in 1853, is at the intersection of Browning Road and Russellville Road in Rockfield, Kentucky. Proper title to the land was not recorded until 1957, when the first of several expansions and renovations of the building took place.

The church officially assumed the name Providence Knob Baptist Church in 1950, and is the oldest Southern Baptist Church in Warren County.
