A Word from the President of the Alumni Association, Which Convenes July 16, 1903.

ESTEEMED FRIEND :

Twenty-eight years of struggle have at last won for our Alma Mater a place among the great institutions of our land. Many of her sons and daughters have attained to prominence in their various pursuits. The good old Mother is longing to see all her children gathered once more about the family board, and to hear their merry laughter and enjoy their jest. She knows her boys and girls are too faithful to lose interest in her, but she wants them to show their filial affection by coming back to the family reunion. She not only offers a warm welcome to all her children and their families, but she pleads with them to come and gladden her old heart and rejoice together as of yore. She is awaiting your coming; do not grieve her by your absence. She presses her nose against the window-pane and anxiously, eagerly, joyfully looks for you and listens for the old-time sound of your foot-step.

Can't you, won't you come next July? Write to me at your earliest convenience. The next promises to be the largest meeting the Alumni Association has ever held. Members from Montana to Texas, from Florida to Virginia, have expressed their purpose to attend. The date is July 16.

Fraternally,

J. S. DICKEY,

President Alumni Association.
