CRIPPLED OGDEN

GRID MACHINE IS A DECISIVE WINNER

Locals Defeat Hodgenville Independents 20 to 0, With Seven Varsity Players Out of Battle

Ogden College defeated the Hodgenville Independents Saturday by a score of 20 to 0. The Hodgenville team was the same which met the Louisville Brecks and held them to a score of 34 to 6. The Breck team is composed of the best in professional football in Louisville. Several High School and Manuel stars from the past five years can be found playing on this team.

Saturday's game was very fast, though there was no scoring until just before the end of the first half. Smith, star quarterback, took the ball over for the first score by a nice line plunge.

Ogden had in the game Saturday several second strong men, six of the varsity linesmen being on the side lines because of injuries in the last two games.

Thornton had been put back at his old position at end. He was playing true to form, it being very seldom that he was not in a play. Captain Porter, with several broken ribs played the same stellar game that he has played all this season. Guy Thomas played a good game at end. He caught several very nice passes. Shelton, a new man in the line played a good game. He upheld Ogden's punting and kicking to a marked degree of proficiency.

Two second line men that played well were Eisenhart and Kinslow. Both of them many times broke thru the line and downed the Hodgenville man in his tracks. Ogden's line was out-weighted 20 pounds to the man.

In the backfield McGinley showed up best on interference. He could always be relied upon for a gain on end runs. Osborn made several nice runs around end. He was by far the faster man on the field. Osborn made good interference also. Pickles made several nice gains around end and thru the line. Smith, Ogden's quarterback, could be relied upon any time for 5 or 6 yards thru the line. He was the most consistent ground-gainer on either team. Tom Helm played a wonderful game at guard, often breaking thru and getting the man in his tracks. Gillian played as a veteran. The Ogdenites played wonderful teamwork, this being considered one of the main reasons for victory.

As this write up is going to press, our boys are preparing to go on one of the hardest trips and to one of the hardest games of the season. It is with Cumberland University, at Lebanon, Tenn. The school as a body is behind the team and we only hope that they will "bring home the bacon." Normal, the Teachers' College of Western Kentucky, held this team 0 to 0.

WHY I AM GLAD TO BE THE YOUNGEST IN THE FAMILY

"First come first served" is a vulgar phrase that has been unduly exalted, that has been accepted without questioning that might reveal its defects.

There is no doubt concerning the fact that the foremost present have the pick of the day, yet in many cases, where the picker may be observed, the would-be chooser has a chance to see the manner in which, and to what portions the first helps himself and is therefore, more able to choose intelligently for himself.

Such is the case in family life, which excludes all greedy aspects from the situation and leaves it free for discussion, yet holds to the general idea.

I have two brothers and one sister older than I am, and they, as I see it, are respectively unfortunate in the order of which they were born, as each younger had the advantage of the experience gained by his senior. Therefore there is a distant advantage in being the youngest for many reasons.

First, there is the advantage of Democracy, which the first does not know as he is for the time being the Juvenile King of the household.

Second, the young member has the financial advantage, for most young couples are striving to keep the wolf from the door, but after time has allowed the accumulation of some comforts, the youngest child is re-reared in a better home.

Again, the so-called "baby" is heir to the knowledge gained in the rearing of all his predecessors. He has a better chance for health, education, and many other essentials.

But greater than all these combined, is the knowledge he may acquire from observing his older brothers and sisters. He has, as a rule, a chance or chances to become familiar with married life, which may be of vital importance to him some day. He is automatically called upon to care for the children of these older ones, and thereby, unconsciously, learns something about the child mind, which will undoubtedly serve him in good stead.

For these reasons and many more, I'm glad to be the youngest.

CONSPICUOUS BY THEIR ABSENCE

We have all read essays on College Spirit. Yea, we have read scores of them. In fact, most of us have come to consider College Spirit as something that is written about but not practiced. This is, however, a wrong slant to take on that subject. College Spirit is a living thing. It is vital to the school. So, I am sure that to some of our readers that it will be no surprise to learn that a great deal of this Spirit was shown at the Ogden-Hodgenville game. Two boys went out in the country and gathered corn all day long in order that a player might be able to be on the field to help his school. These two boys had a lot of spirit to do this, as both were unused to the rigor of farm work. They were Mr. Alvis Temple and Mr. Ennis Harris.

ODGENITES DEFEATED

BY CUMBERLAND U.

Last Saturday the Odgen warriors journeyed to Lebanon, Tenn., for a try at Cumberland University, and after their try the score was figured out and reported as 65 to 0 in favor of the Cumberland Bull Dogs.

Ogden, with Porter, Williams, Hill, Lindsay and Thornton out of the lineup, was unable to make a thing against the Presbyterians, and the only thing that they could hope to do was to hold them as best as they knew how. This, they did admirably, considering that the entire line was composed of second string men and that they were all outweighed forty pounds to the man. The gallant resistance that our boys offered, won the respect of the sidelines and many comments were heard favorable to the boys in green.

The best thing about the Cumberland trip was the sportsmanlike conduct that was displayed by the students, team and faculty of Cumberland University. Many little things which when added up amounted to big things were done for our team that other schools would either forget or purposely omit. We should take a lesson from Cumberland and all resolve that in the future our treatment of all visiting teams will be above reproach.

As a result of this game, the management decided that it would be next to impossible for the team to meet Morgan School here next week and therefore the game was cancelled. However, everyone should be in good condition in time to meet the Tennessee Polytechnic boys at Cookeville on the 24th.

Ambition Vs. Laziness

Examinations have come and gone. The first quarter is ended. As might be expected, the usual number have dropped by the wayside, too far outclassed to remain in the race. Others are limping along slowly handicapped by a flunk or two, but honestly striving to do better, while still others are running as smoothly as it nothing had happened.

This is a strange state of affairs if we stop to consider long enough. We all have our ambitions. We have a goal in sight. We are coming to school in order that our "Castle in Spain" may materialize. We are as intelligent as other boys and we have every opportunity to develop our brain. Our instructors labor over us tirelessly, and our home folks pay our bills willingly, and yet, some of us FLUNK.

What is the cause of this strange state of affairs if we all have the same chances? I you were to take up the question with a representative group of students, you will undoubtedly find that the answer is laziness. Our ambition is in an almost inaccessible place. The night is cold and stormy. It is a great temptation to sit and bask by the fire and unfortunately, we give in. However, this is the way of the world. Keep pushing and preparing and you will some day take a lead. Give in to your lazier self, and surely you will taste of defeat just as some of us did last week.

Now, that we have found the cause, what is to be the result? Are we to let things continue in their old way or decide upon and make a change right now?

Let's take the latter course and eliminate such a thing as a flunk on Ogden's record book. Let's make the best of our opportunities. Let's eliminate that examination fear that

ALUMNI NOTES

As we look thru the paper, we are interested in the news and are amused by the jokes, but we always feel our pulses quicken as we read of the success of our Alumni. This success is the inspiration of the whole school. Without its Alumni, no school would be worth attending. And we claim that our Alumni is the best of the country.

We have lately heard of the following:

Eldridge Roemer of the class of '21, who for a while was teller in the American National bank, is now in his senior year at Yale University. He is specializing in Social Science in connection with the banking business. We are glad that he is there and we offer him every encouragement for his best success.

Roma Demunbrun of the class of '21, is the principle of the Sharon Grove Graded and High school. While at Ogden he won the Trustee's medal for scholarship. He received his present position over twenty other applicants. Keep up the good work, old man!

Edward B. Stout, Jr., is home. He was with the United State Geological Survey while it was located at Clarkston, Ky. Mr. Stout is of the class of '22.

B. P. Eubank of the class of '86, is assistant cashier of the American National bank of this city. He is a very faithful alumnus and we wish him success in the vast field of banking.

THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

The Obenchain Society

At this meeting of the society there was but one speaker. This speaker was Mr. Albert Covington. His subject was, "Why Andy Gump Should Go to Congress."

Mr. Covington held forth on this for some twenty minutes. It appears that the main reason for Mr. Gump's popularity is that he wears no man's collar. It would also appear that there is a great need for a good strong Independent leader. Mr. Gump could fill this position better than anyone Mr. Covington knows of.

The organization is centered around the following officers with Secretary Wulfeck and Professor Lee forming the Advisory committee.

President—Alvis Temple.

Vice President—St. George Carmichael.

Secretary—Guy Howerton.

Treasurer—Aubrey Jackson.

Membership is open to all Ogden boys above the Freshman class. There were twenty-seven present at the last meeting. We want fifty on next Tuesday. How about you?

Doctor—"With care your husband will recover in a week. You don't seem very pleased!"

Wife—"You told me he would die a week ago—and I have sold his clothes!"

When the ghosts of the past rise up and join forces with the ghosts of the present a man needs all his optimism.

Modern writers on etiquette say it is all right to eat chicken on the cob with the fingers.

Nonsense

If I were you, and you were me,
What real difference would there be;
But if you were me, and I were you,
I'd do the things that you would do.

So if I were me and you were you
And you loved me and I loved you,
And we told each other, we both agree
There would be no difference, don't you see.

Now you love me, and I love you,
For I am me and you are you,
There is one thing sure to come true
We love each other, through and through.

So if I get you and you get me,
And you are me and I am you,
Then we will happy always be
For I am me and you are you.

"Look here!" bellowed an irate customer in the general store of Four Corners, "you say you won't sell me a shovel unless I get a permit from the authorities and sign my name in that book. What's the big idea?"

"We ain't takin' chances," answered Proprietor Hoskins firmly. "Gov'ments mighty keerful these days. You fellers buy a shovel, dig up the ground, plant barley, make it into malt and there you are. No, sir-ree!"

MATHEMATICS MEETING
POSTPONED

The regular monthly meeting of the Mathematical Society which was scheduled to meet last Tuesday evening was postponed because of the small crowd present. It is to be hoped that the members will turn out in full force next Wednesday and make this Society a go. Try and leave off something else for once and give us all a welcome surprise by attending.

The Ogden Society

In the Ogden Society there was a debate, or rather there was an attempt at debate. The subject was: Resolved: That Sunday Baseball Should be Abolished, or something to that affect. The affirmative appeared, then the negative. Then the decision was rendered. The debate was hardly over before a motion was on the floor that the meeting be adjourned.

I am extremely sorry to see the Literary society come to this pass. A society of this type is not worth the time it takes. A real society is a great thing. It helps to make the reputation of the school. I am sure that if the program committee would think about what it is doing it will never put such a thing as that up for discussion. There are no points to be gotten on either side that everybody does not already know. In the future, I hope to see the Ogden society put on some good programs. Something that has some depth to it, something that will make you think. After all, this is a College society, composed of College men, and I think that the subjects should be of College calibre.

JOKES

"What does college-bred mean, dad?" asked ten-year-old Johnny.

Father looked up from a perusal of his eldest son's college expenses and answered tersely: "Merely a big loaf, Johnny."

"Say, waiter" growled the disgruntled patron, "there isn't a single oyster in this so-called oyster stew."

"Well, Sir," responded Fitch, "if you ordered cottage pudding, you wouldn't have expected to have found a cottage in the dish, nor would you look for a horse in the horse radish bottle, now would you?"

Both In the Swim

"My daughter sprang from a line of peers," said the ardent father.

"Well," said her feller, "I jumped off a dock once myself."

—The Naval Monthly.

Kinslow: "She confessed to me that many had tried to kiss her and none had succeeded. But lately, she had become anxious to know what it is like."

Dillard: "Weren't you surprised at that?"

Kinslow: "Well, it gave me quite a start."

Tailor: "Do you want a cuff on the trousers?"

Customer: "Do you want a slap on the mouth?"

Coleman: "Fesser, what is diplomacy?"

Prof. Palmer: "Diplomacy is the art of convincing a man that he is a liar without actually telling him so."

"I had a fall last night which rendered me unconscious for six hours."

"Really, where did you fall?"

"I fell asleep."

The new minister stopped a little boy on the street.

"What is your last name little boy?" he asked.

"Tommy!"

"Tommy what?"

"Tommy Jones."

"Then Jones is your last name."

"No Sir. Jones was my name when I was born, but sister says I was not named Tommy until two weeks afterward."

Visitor: "So you have triplets at for them, yet?"

Youngster: "Yes, but I don't think any minister would baptize them with what pa calls them."

Brother: "Where is the paint remover?"

Mother: "Why?"

Brother: "Sister wants something to wash her face with."

—Denver Clarion.

Sending out a show by wireless has this advantage: If the show gets stranded, the actors don't have to walk a thousand miles to get back to New York.

Mary had a Thomas cat,
It wobbled like Caruso,
A neighbor swung a baseball bat,
Now Thomas doesn't do so.

Coleman: "I am asking you for the last time for that half-dollar you owe me."

Peete: "Thanks Coleman, that's the end of a silly question."

A certain lady called up her grocer by telephone the other morning, and after she had scolded the man she added:

"And what's more, the next order you get from me will be the last."

"It probably will, madam," said the voice at the other end of the line, "you are talking to the undertaker."
