SENIORS HAVE ORDERED
RINGS AND INVITATIONS

Soon after school opened the Senior class organized and then proceeded to make arrangements for their rings and invitations. The rings are the most handsome ever bought by a graduating class at Ogden. Their design consists of seal of College, in gold, set in a garnet.

The invitations are also a very beautiful design and are well in keeping with the occasion for which they are to be used, provided no one flunks out.

The members of the class are: Paul Eisenhart, President; Claude Kinslow, Charles Cook, Hollins Lashmit, Vice President; L. CordeLL Lawrence, Dillard Williams, Wey-Treas., and Truman Demunbrum.

CHAPEL PROGRAMS

STUDENTS ARE ENTERTAINED BY ALUMNUS AND INSTRUCTORS.

Last Monday the students were entertained by Prof. Hiliary. He told of his trip through Europe while attending the University of Leipzig, Germany. He related several amusing incidents that happened to him during his stay in Leipzig.

When the Spring days opened and the university closed for the vacation, the desire for adventure and seeing the beauties of Italy captured our professor, so he told us. As he related his trip through Germany, Switzerland, over the Alps, and down into Italy, we followed in his footsteps, led by his eloquent flow of poetical and classical language.

Professor Hiliary is always hailed with much joy by the student body when it is known that he will conduct chapel. One must be present to enjoy his numberless experiences and reap a benefit from his wonderful personality.

Wednesday—Mr. James Mitchell.

COMMENDABLE STEP.

Outstanding, in the ranks of advancement here at Ogden of late is the strict adherence to the "Scholastic Standard" to which all participants in athletic contests, where the honor of the "Red and Green" is at stake, must conform.

And this as it should be, for no man is worthy of having the privilege, and it is indeed a privilege, of upholding those inspiring colors that symbolize "Ogden and its traditions," those colors that strike terror to the hearts of all that oppose them, those colors that are forever revered by all who once come to know them, unless he be a worthy student of her curriculum.

For the past few years we have been exceedingly lax in this regard, and we have reaped as we have sown, so that the disastrous result of such a policy made itself clearly manifest. Last year, outsiders were permitted to step in and take part in the games over bona fide students. Now this naturally discouraged some of the aspirants who were full-pledged students, and they lost interest, good material went undeveloped.

But, thanks to the Faculty and Coach, this year the men who go forth to battle for Ogden are, in the highest sense of the word, Ogden men, and can’t you see the change that has come over us, for we are prouder than ever of their victories, and feel more than ever their defeats. We glory in that invincible "Spirit" that ever shrouds them, through thick and thin.

A foundation has been laid upon which a structure of honorable accomplishment may be built, and onward and upward may we continue to go.

INFLUENCE OF FOOTBALL ON STUDENTS IN GENERAL

Football has a profound influence on students in general. The man who sits in the grandstand, even though he takes no part, learns to abhor the yellow streak, the spirit of the quitter. Then I think football sometimes helps out members of the faculty. Every faculty has men whose sole aim is pure scholarship. Their intellectual habits tend to draw them out of sympathetic relation with the social and even spiritual activities of the students. Pure scholarship is most important, but without more, it is not sufficient. I have seen occasions where the contagious enthusiasm of football has influenced professors to be broader in their sympathies and enter more into the life of the students and thereby be a greater inspiration.

So I say that the football does much good. A real football player never gets the big-head. Our athletes have become even more modest because of their prominence; since winning many games in all sports for the last year at least.

One making our team doesn’t put on airs or brag, as he knows that it will ruin the honor already won. And he knows that everyone dislikes one that talks of himself always. I believe that football rightly conducted is an important incident in a student’s life; helps to prepare him so that he may enter into life with more abundant physical power, greater enthusiasm, and with a larger capacity for leadership.

experience of being addressed by the "Honor Student" of Ogden to date. He held the coveted honor of making the high calibration of Orpheeus and the basis of his course he made a naverage of seventy-eight per cent. This average has never been approached, much less equaled.

He told of his experience in Cuba and elsewhere after leaving Ogden and complimented the present football squad on its action in the Ogden-K. M. I. game last Saturday. He was enthusiastic over Ogden’s future outlook for her new building and imbued the students with a new desire to help Ogden go forward in her fight for advancement.

Thursday—Professor Minks

Professor Minks gave an excellent discourse on the Value of Education. It reflected deep study and was instructive throughout. The real students of Ogden appreciated it very much and reaped a benefit from listening to his words. He discussed the many phases of an education and showed wherein so many of us fall short in our expectations.

ALL IN SAME BOAT.

It has been said that the mark of true genius is the ability to wonder at what is familiar. This being true, every fellow up here on the hill is endowed with true genius of the most sublime type, for who has not wondered and wondered why Cordell Lawrence took the Rowena bound train on the Saturday preceding the gubernatorial election. Some have advanced one theory, some another, after a prolonged debate and interchange of beliefs around the library table, it is commonly believed that he went home to throw away his vote, but when a youth of twenty and one years goes two hundred miles to vote, as the old proverb says, find the woman.

BACKFIRES.

Paul Hollins, on entering Lawrence’s room very noisily: “Paragon me, I didn't know some of your people were dead.”

Lawrence: “You fool, my people are all right, that is my towel.”

Burton: “Prof. Ayres, am I exempt from the Math. exam?”

Prof. Ayres: “Yes, Burton, and please don’t come back to this class.”

Truman Demumbrum: “I am going to show the fellows how to strut next week.” (His girl is coming to Bowling Green Saturday.)

Alvis Temple: “I don’t know whether to go to chapel or not. Prof. Whittle has me out if I go or don’t go.”

Ikey Eisenhart: “I certainly had a big time on the Bethel trip.”

Dillard: “Oh, Ikey, that girl was smiling at me too.”

THE BULL IS MIGHTIER.

I don’t want the wealth that some people have got, I don’t want to pretend that I’m something that I’m not; The joys of gay pleasure have no thrills for me, And I don’t crave the fame of an Author’s degree, I fret not at all if my purse is not full.

If this world will just give me a good line of bull.

JOKE.

Prof. Johnson: "Where is Chile?"

R. Fitch (shivering): "It’s chilly right here.”

Minister (to flapper): "Would you care to join us in the new missionary movement?"

Flapper: "I’m crazy to try it. If its anything like the fox trot.”

OGDEN MEETS S. P. U. THURSDAY

SCORELESS TIE WITH TENN. TECH.

For the second time this season, Ogden came out of a game with a scoreless tie when they played Tennessee Tech on the home field last Friday.

The muddy field slowed the game considerably and made only a line plunging and punting game possible.

The first half gave the Mechanics the edge on the Cardinals but the second period saw our little squad, outweighed twenty-five pounds to the man, come back and completely outplay the visitors.

During the first half the line backs of Rickman and Miller of Tech were looking bad for Ogden, but Captain Smith soon came to the rescue by leading in an exhibition of expert tackling which put a stop to the long gains.

Captain Smith and Paul McGinley were the best ground gainers for the Cardinals. Porter made a few good runs around the ends but these were finally abandoned on account of the slow condition of the field. Shelton easily outclass-ed Tech in the punting contest.

Ogden's little line deserves a world of credit. Their efforts against the weighty Tennesseans brought results that were surprising to the good crowd of spectators. Gilliam and Wally McGinley especially played their best defensive game of the season. This was the last home exhibition for Williams and Eisenhart and it can easily be said that they did themselves credit.

After playing with the Kentucky Military Institute eleven during the first half, the Cardinals came back in the second division and completely outclassed the visitors and smothered them under a 32 to 7 score.

The first half was fairly rotten as a football exhibition. About the only satisfied people on the field were those few rooters from Lyndon who were overjoyed that a half should end with their boys in the lead of a 7 to 6 score. The visitor's touchdown came after a series of seemingly endless fumbles, giving the Soldiers possession of the ball on the five yard line. Ogden's only attempt in the scoring column came when Wally McGinley received a neat pass from Captain Smith and walked through the entire visiting backfield for the goal. Try for point failed.

The second half opened with a rush. Ogden got into their customary swing and soon afterward Dug Smith made a thirty-two yard gain on a pass. Old faithful Paul McGinley plunged over the line and scored. This seemed to meet the approval of the spectators so Mac, aided by several good gains by Porter, soon pushed over another marker. Soon afterward Wally McGinley brought in another two points when he dropped Bosworth of K. M. I. behind his own goal line. Paul McGinley was prevailed upon to bring in another touchdown while Pickles showed his ability by plowing through the line for ten yards to score.

Arrangements are being made for a special car for the S. P. U. trip. Train leaves Thursday morning at 6:10 and returns that night at 10:10. Entire trip will cost about $6.50. Anyone desiring to go, see Temple or President Whittle.

Ogden and S. P. U. meet for the last grid game of the season at Clarksville Thursday. That announcement is enough to make every Ogden boy excited and ready to go. And those that do go will be amply repaid for their trouble.

S. P. U. and Ogden have been athletic rivals since the proverbial Hec tor was a small dog and sorry to say, Southwestern has always triumphed over the Cardinals with the exception of this season's first football game which resulted in a scoreless tie.

Since that contest both squads have been preparing for the Turkey Day bout with more interest than is usual. Southwestern feels confident that they will be able to walk over the Ogdenites while the Ogdenites are not so confident but feel that the Presbyterian will do their walking over on one of the roughest roads in the United States.

Fellow, it is up to us to support that quiet, little, unassuming and fighting crowd that has made Ogden a dangerous enemy on the gridiron this season. They have formed the most successful team the school has had since an Ogden team trounced Vanderbilt and held Yale 6 to 0 back in the nineties. They have earned a reputation for being the hardest hitting and cleanest fighting squad in this section of the state and we ought to be proud of them.

ALUMNI COLUMN.

Are you interested in a "Better Ogden College?" Do you desire to study her progress, to further your interest in your alma mater? In an era of rapid growth Ogden College is making a great stride forward. Our athletic teams are conquering all opposing contestants. Our goal line was crossed only once in five games.

The Staff is endeavoring to bring to every alumnus the latest news concerning college activities, and in short, to make The Ogden Cardinal the mouthpiece of college events. Any news concerning the college or the alumni will be gratefully received.

Mail all communications to the Alumni Editor.

James A. Mitchell, A. B. 1917, was the speaker at Ogden Chapel the morning of November 19. Since 1917, Mr. Mitchell has graduated from Yale, served in the world war as a Lieutenant and was interested in the banking business in New York. He is now engaged in the chemical business in that city.

Carroll L. Wilson, A. B. 1918, spent the week end in this city. He has a thriving business of his own in Hazard, Ky., and is doing well.

Mr. Wm. C. Lee, A. B. 1922, is John E. Robinson Professor of Natural Science at Ogden College and also has charge of the work in Spanish, that being his hobby. Mr. Lee is doing splendid work and is very well liked by all the students.

Mr. Roscoe L. Murray, A. B. 1923, is Principal of the County High School in McCracken County. His address is Paducah, Ky.

Mr. Mansfield Hendricks is now in the grocery business at Hawesville, Ky. He has a rapidly growing business and is doing well.

Motley Adams is employed at the postoffice in this city. His chief hobby is rooting for Ogden at the football games, and is a live Ogden Booster.

Rev. S. S. Daughtry is pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Harrodsburg, Ky. He is very much interested in Ogden and is a subscriber to the Cardinal.

While speaking of the sidelines, it might be appropriate to say something about the organized cheering. Not that there is anything wrong with it but that there are not enough students in the group. We should have one hundred per cent at every Ogden event.

Football is about over and we are needing a new manager for next season. Mr. Chandler has served his term and has done remarkably well. The problem is to get some one as good to take the job.

From an authentic source, comes the report that the Athletic Association would appreciate a money making scheme that will work. From the same source it is also learned that the A. A. body will accept a gift from any of the school organizations. Here is the chance for some of the overburdened treasuries to be lightened.

Thursday closes the football careers of Mr. Williams and Mr. Eisenhart as far as Ogden is concerned, as these two gentlemen are slated for graduation next May. Mr. Williams has held down one of the tackle positions for three years while Mr. Eisenhart has played regular center this season after serving in the line last year.

Both men have been as faithful as they could possibly have been and will be greatly missed when the squad lines up next season.

Mr. Oswald K. Amos is happily domiciled near Oakland, Ky., where he is engaged in farming.

R. Ennis Harris, A. B. 1923, is teaching and coaching at the High School at Fulton, Ky.
