As promised in the Christmas issue of the NEWSICIAN, here is your second issue to help to bring you up-to-date on all of the happenings in your Western Music Department.

We trust that all of you had a busy and enjoyable Christmas season and are back hard at work getting ready for the many spring activities.

"CAROUSEL" in MARCH

An activity being re-activated the year on the Western campus is the presentation of a musical-dramatic production. Under a cooperative plan with the drama and art departments final preparations are being made to begin try-outs for the production selected for this season, Rodgers and Hammerstein's popular "CAROUSEL", to be presented in Van Meter Auditorium, March 18 and 19. Make your plans to return to the campus for what promises to be an elaborate presentation of this colorful work. Mr. Rose will handle the musical part of the production.

Send us some good solo voices for future productions!

BACHELOR OF MUSIC DEGREE

After many years of study, planning and faculty committee meetings, the new music curriculum leading to the Bachelor of Music degree has been approved. The new degree will be awarded to several students this year who will be qualified to receive this professional degree. In addition to the revision of several music courses, two new courses are being offered. One is a Junior High School Methods Course, another is an Instrumental Technics course devoted to marching band problems and instrumental repairs. We are most happy over this new curriculum which was set up to meet the specific needs of our graduates. The new curriculum was given its final blessing at the November meeting of NASM, and following a routine inspection in the spring, Western will be admitted to full membership as a active member of the association. We have been an associate member for nearly ten years. This program was initiated by the late Dr. Weldon Hart back in 1948.

MUSIC EDUCATORS CLUB

The Western Music Educators Club is again enjoying another busy year with 24 active members. Two of the group, seniors Geraldine Webb and Francine Walker, took part in a student member panel along with Mr. Rose, the sponsor, at the recent state convention of KMEA at Lexington. At the December meeting of the club a constitution was adopted. It is hoped that several members of the club will be able to attend the SMEC convention in Roanoke, Virginia, in April.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS

The Bowling Green Community Concerts Association has undergone a complete reorganization this year with Dr. Stone as the new President of the association. The membership campaign was unusually successful and marks the second year that all Western students may attend the concerts on activity tickets. A popular dance program was presented the Tuesday before Thanksgiving by the TV company of Linn and Alexander and sixteen musicians and dancers. The Roger Wagner Chorale will be here January 25, Archer and Gile balladiers will appear February 24, and the young pianist, Stanley Babin, will present the fourth concert March 21.

NEW CONN ORGAN

After much investigation and listening, the music faculty selected the Artist Model of the Conn Electric Organ for installation in Van Meter Auditorium last spring. Mr. Rose presented a short concert on the new organ prior to the June baccalaureate service in the first public hearing of the new instrument. It is used at nearly every chapel exercise and for processions, musical productions, etc. The console is located in the left balcony over the stage, and there are two speaker cabinets each holding six speakers also located in the balcony. The installation is valued at over $6,000. Thank you, President Thompson.

SPRING ACTIVITIES

The Symphonic Band, directed by Mr. Ed. Knob, will present its first concert of the season, February 19. The chorus will present its annual Holy Week concert at chapel on Wednesday, March 25. The choir will tour to the Louisville area sometime in March or early April. Music festivals are being combined this year into one festival as a regional division of the State festival. The festival for the school in this area will be held April 23-25. SMEC will convene at Roanoke, Virginia, April 3-7. In addition there will be a number of senior recitals and out-of-town programs to make for the usual busy spring season. Commencement is scheduled for June 4, and summer school will begin June 15. Pay us a visit!
