SC WARR, Joseph W., 1862
3482 1836-1864

Letter, 11 February 1862, to his mother and siblings from Joseph Warr, Company A, 2nd Minnesota Volunteers. From Somerset, Kentucky, he writes of troop movements toward Bowling Green, Kentucky, where he expects a victorious battle. He describes a recent encounter with Confederate forces crossing the Cumberland River and the severe wounds of those taken prisoner, but declares that the enemy would otherwise have shown no mercy. He notes the long knives of the Confederates ("Mississippi toothpicks") and the homemade quality of their uniforms. He also urges his brother Charles to seek out an education and help their mother.
