Bridgework

With the midday sun as their guide, geography and geology students tread carefully across a footbridge to Fall Creek Falls State Park near Cookeville, Tenn. The students were on an overnight field trip sponsored by Nick Crawford, associate professor of geography and geology, to study weathering and erosion. An overnight stay in Lost Creek Cave near Sparta, Tenn., and five miles of hiking highlighted the trip. Crawford has led about 20 groups of students into the area since 1968.

Faculty wives cook up recipes

By LINDA SANDERS

Alice Bivin serves William Bivin, university attorney, Mushroom Mouthfuls. Deloris Floyd named a soup after William Floyd, professor of child development. And Ngoc-Phuong Miller, wife of John F. Miller, assistant professor of sociology, makes Water Chestnut Bamboo Shoot Soup.

The recipes for these dishes are part of "A Cookbook of Faculty Favorites," published by the Faculty Wives Club. The 336-page cookbook is sold to raise money for the Faculty Wives Scholarship Fund.

If the cookbook is any indication, the faculty have tastes as different as Hamburger Corn Pone Pie, submitted by Marilyn Tomes, wife of Personnel Services Director James Tomes, and Liberate's Luncheon Casserole, submitted by Sara Crowe, wife of University Archivist Crawford Crowe.

Liberate's Luncheon Casserole contains bread, cheese, eggs, milk, dry mustard and other ingredients.

F. Corydon Crooks, assistant professor of special education, sometimes eats a dish prepared by his wife Mikosan, called Oyako Donburi. It contains such things as five Mitsuba (parsley), one seaweed, Boniot (dried bouillon), five tablespoons Kikkoman soy sauce and two tablespoons mirin (rice) wine.

Moore questions spending by freshmen candidates

By TOM EBLEN

Associated Student Government President Bob Moore said that freshman class officers are "not that important," and he thinks some candidates spent too much money getting elected to them.

Moore said that David Vance and Brooks Greeley, newly elected freshman president and vice president, spent more than any of the other candidates, and about as much as any ASG candidate ever has.

"Most people who run for executive office don't even spend that much," Moore said. "It seems to me that they just bought the election."

Vance, a Paducah native, reported spending $192 in his bid for the freshman presidency and Greeley, of Bowling Green, claimed $100.75 in campaign expenses.

Vance reported that he spent $148 for advertising in the Herald, $32 for posters, $5 for film, $5 for a banner and $2 for miscellaneous costs.

According to Greeley's statement, he spent $20.80 for handbills, $14.95 for a banner, $49 for Herald advertising, $5 for a photograph and $11 for radio advertising.

"The administration told Tom (Blair, Moore's opponent for ASG president last spring) and I that we spent closer to the limit than anyone ever had," Moore said. "Vance outspent me."

ASG has set the campaign spending limit for all offices at $200 and requires receipts and a statement of expenses to be turned in before the winner is sworn in.

Moore said he thinks there is a relation between the amount spent and the number of votes received. "Getting elected to freshman office usually depends on how much you get your name around. It's not right, but that's

Cookbook funds scholarships

Moore questions election spending

President Dero Downing's wife Harriet contributed recipes for Quick and Easy Bean Soup, Seafood Casserole and Creole Eggs, among other things.

Some of the dishes have names as intriguing as Molly's Fruit Salad, submitted by Nancy Heldman, wife of James Heldman, English department head, and Mississippi Mud, submitted by Sue Smith, wife of Robert Smith, assistant professor of library science.

Mrs. Tomes submitted a recipe for what she calls Gunk, also known as Graham Cracker Bars. Louise Diddle, wife of the late basketball coach E. A. Diddle, has a favorite recipe for Corn Pudding. Football coach Jimmy Feix's wife Frankie likes Chocolate Chip Pie.

The bread section contains recipes for Monkey Bread, the favorite of Elaine Faine, wife of John R. Faine, assistant professor of sociology; Grandma's Pumpkin Bread, submitted by Donna Bunch, wife of Paul Bunch, assistant director of public safety, and Wheat Germ Bread, contributed by Charlotte Moore, wife of Vernon Moore, sociology instructor.

The cookbook, which is sold in the university center bookstore, was edited by Alice Ahmed, wife of Basheer Ahmed, business administration professor, and Joann Farina, wife of Robert Farina, chemistry professor.

The scholarship fund gives awards of at least $100 to "deserving Western students." Twenty-three students have received the award.

the way it is."

Vance said he doesn't think he bought the election. "I think I had the qualifications for the office and I was the only one who put my qualifications on my posters," he said.

"They gave us a $200 limit, and being a freshman, I didn't know how much everybody spent, so I went ahead and spent what I could."

Vance declined to say where all of his funds came from except for $32 worth of posters that were donated by the Maranatha Christian Center, of which Vance is a member.

According to Moore, there is no rule that forbids candidates from accepting contributions from organizations.

"I think what Vance did was fair, but it is a definite advantage to have a lot of money," Moore said. "That's why we have limits in the first place."

"After they get in I think they'll see that freshman offices aren't that important," Moore said. "Executive positions are the only ones that have scholarships attached to them. The main advantage is that it...is kind of a first foot in the door to bigger and better things."

Moore said he plans to introduce a bill in congress today that would limit campaign spending for all but executive council officers to $100.

The spending limit for president, administrative vice president, activities vice president, secretary and treasurer would remain at $200.

He said a clause will be included so that the Rules and Elections Committee and congress can raise the limits if inflation makes it necessary.

"I think I can put up a pretty good argument for why it is needed," Moore said.

Student arrested on DWI charge

Campus police arrested a student early Friday and charged him with driving while intoxicated after an incident on Russellville Road.

Howard B. Clark, 21, 2205 Smallhouse Road, was arrested at 2:28 a.m. after police observed him allegedly driving the wrong way on Russellville Road.

Clark appeared in city police court Friday morning, and his case was continued until today.

quilt competition will be presented at 10 a.m. in Garrett Conference Center, temporary home of the Kentucky Museum while the Kentucky Building is being renovated. The quilts will be on display after the award presentation.

The Homecoming parade will begin at 10 a.m. on the square downtown. The Big Red Band and 18 floats carrying the Homecoming queen candidates will participate in the parade, which will end at Smith Stadium.

The University Homecoming Committee will judge dorm, fraternity and sorority decorations Saturday morning. Prizes will be awarded for originality and creativity.

The "W" Club breakfast at 10 will have the 1927 football squad as its special guest in the Diddle Arena Auxiliary Gym.

The Homecoming queen will be crowned in the pregame activities at 12:30 p.m.

The game against Morehead in Smith Stadium kicks off at 1 p.m. Tickets are $3 and $4 and can be purchased in the Diddle Arena ticket office. Students are admitted free and should sit in sections FF through MM.

Students, faculty and alumni are invited to an after-the-game reception in Diddle Arena.

A reception for all present and past recreation majors will be after the game in Diddle Arena, room 212.

Celebrity Ball, an Atlanta rock group, will perform at an ASG-sponsored dance at 8 p.m. in Garrett Ballroom.

Flu vaccinations set for today

Influenza vaccinations for faculty, staff and graduate assistants will be given from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. today and tomorrow at the campus clinic.

Moore's comment isn't good politics

Bob Moore, Associated Student Government president, has welcomed two new members to ASG by telling them that they spent too much money getting elected to their relatively unimportant positions and that they "bought the election."

Moore was referring to David Vance and Brooks Greeley, recently elected president and vice president, respectively, of the freshman class.

Vance reported that he spent $192 on his campaign, and Greeley said he spent $100.75. The limit for spending is $200.

Moore said he was surprised at the two's zealous campaigning because their positions are "not that important," and because the "executive positions are the only ones that have scholarships attached to them."

Vance and Greeley probably are feeling a bit silly now that they've blown almost $300 between them on something that doesn't really matter.

If we read Moore right, he's saying that the lower offices—and particularly the freshman offices—don't amount to much more than a hill of congressional beans.

If that's true, then the worth of other offices in ASG, except perhaps for that of the executive offices, becomes suspect. After all, as Moore points out, the executives are receiving scholarships, so they must be important.

But his comments slight the rest of the members of congress, and that isn't good politics, either in his efforts to convince the students that ASG is good for something or in his attempts to show congress that he can lead it well.

Letter to the editor

Claims favoritism

On Oct. 19 at 3:30 p.m., I and several other students witnessed another prime example of what appeared to be unjust favoritism. On this day, a 1976 Cutlass Supreme with a white T-top was parked illegally in the "B" zone of Central Hall's lot.

This wasn't the first time this had happened. On the contrary, almost every day of the week (Monday through Friday) this same car is permitted to occupy one of Central's precious parking spaces. And every day, a yellow piece of paper (called a ticket) is placed on the windshield.

On the 19th a tow truck was called to remove the car from Central's lot. The owner of the car was warned what was happening, and arrived "in time" to prevent his car from being hooked up to the tow truck. The owner stepped between the tow truck and his car. He refused to move; therefore, additional campus security was called.

Well, to make a long story short, the security police allowed the owner to drive away in his car. Thus, unjust favoritism.

Last year, a girl's car was being towed out of Grise Hall's lot. The girl begged campus security to release her car back to her; however, campus security told the tow truck to leave—with the car hooked on the back. Cases like this are infinite in number. Unjustice in reality.

In conclusion, security is definitely in need of conformity. What is fair for one student should be fair for any student on campus.

M. Minor
Junior

The letter was signed by eight other students.

Marcus Wallace, public safety director, said that the present policy on towing is to let the owner move an illegally parked car even if a tow truck has been summoned.

The owner can also ask that his car be removed from the tow truck should it be attached before he gets there, Wallace said. But the owner is responsible for towing and service fees, and for citations accumulated before a tow truck was called.

The towing policy as it stands was approved in November 1975, although Wallace said he didn't deny the possibility that an "inconsistency could have occurred" last year in the incident mentioned in the letter. "But I've never heard of it happening," he said.

College studying can really be a rat race

It started about a month ago, I believe. It was no more than a flash, a brief flurry of brown streaking across my living room floor. Later I saw it in the kitchen—brown lightning zig-zagging from behind a month's accumulation of newspapers to a hiding place close to that week's trash.

After ruling out elves, leprechauns and hobbits, I was forced to consider the possibility that my apartment had been invaded by a mouse.

It was hard to believe. Mine is not the type of apartment where you would expect to find rodents. It's too messy. There's hardly any food available, except for the occasional dropped crumbs from a Wendy's burger or chocolate doughnut. Surely he couldn't live on the malnutritious diet of a college student.

Besides, the cockroaches should have driven him away.

Nevertheless, he was there. Last week he made his move.

I was halfway through a late study session when I was disturbed by the patter of tiny feet. Four of them. When I looked down I saw that they belonged to a furry little creature later christened "Little Friend."

Little Friend was standing on his hind legs in the middle of the room, sniffing the air cautiously. I stared at him. He stared at me. I won. He ran behind the curtains.

He didn't stay there long, though. In another minute, he was back out, running across the floor. He began circling a hamburger plate I had left on the floor.

I yelled to my roommate, "There's a mouse running around in here."

"You're always seeing mice," he yelled back.

"I can't help it if you're not as observant as I am," I said. "Come in here and see him for yourself."

My roommate declined to witness the spectacle. So, feeling an obligation to keep him informed, I began a play-by-play description.

"He's underneath the chair. Now he's running over to the curtains. No, he turned around and ran underneath the couch.

"Now he's running back toward the plate. Get away from there. It's amazing! He's not afraid of me."

He wasn't. Not much, anyway. Oh sure, if I jumped up and down, waving my arms, he would give me a dirty look and zip away. But he wouldn't be gone long.

After a while it got to be a game. I would sit still and he would come as close as he dared, and we would both sit quietly and ponder the meaning of it all.

But then Little Friend went too far. Ignoring my admonitions, he began running across my notebooks on the floor.

That was too much. Hiding behind the walls and living off crumbs was one thing. Invading the privacy of my notebooks was quite another.

Anger welled up inside me. With murderous thoughts, I got up and went into the kitchen. There, beside the stove, was just what I needed—D-Con.

I opened the box, sprinkled some onto a newspaper and put it down. Then I waited.

I continued studying for some time, glancing nervously at the poison from time to time. Little Friend wouldn't come out. "How does he know?" I wondered.

About 1 a.m. I gave up. But just as I was leaving the room, I gave one final glance back. There he was, approaching the D-Con.

I began to have second thoughts: Perhaps I should warn him. Maybe we could learn to live together in peace.

But no. The deed had to be done. I watched in silence as Little Friend swallowed one bite after another. When he ran away, I couldn't take it any longer. I turned off the light and went to bed.

I haven't seen Little Friend since. My roommate claims I made up the entire incident. When I tell others they look pityingly at me and shake their heads.

But it really happened. It really did.

Now if I could only do something about the giant rat that lives behind the university center...

Students form local chapter of KPHA

A group of Western students has become the first student chapter of the Kentucky Public Health Association (KPHA).

"The student chapter was formed to provide a cohesive group of students majoring in public health and to allow them to work together, be involved in group projects, and to become familiar with public health professions," Dr. David Dunn, chapter adviser, said.

According to Dunn and chapter president Steven Need, the student chapter has the same goals as the state organization—to promote public health.

"I feel that it's important for students to become involved in a professional organization," Dunn said.

Some of the activities the 24-member group has been involved in include seminars and a health fair.

"We try to keep up on current issues and give members a better understanding of the health field," Need said.

To become a student chapter of the KPHA, the group had to submit by-laws to the state board. After being accepted as a chapter, the group got official university recognition.

Other officers are Lillis Clark, vice president; Mike Adams, secretary, and Constance Caskey, treasurer.

Deadline set for Zephyrus

The deadline for submissions to Zephyrus, a creative writing supplement of the English department, is Dec. 2.

Poems, short stories, essays, one-act plays and any other forms of writing are acceptable. All works must be typed and brought to the English department

Cash prizes of $15 each will be given to the best prose and poem submitted.

Wanda Gatlin, assistant professor of English, is editing the supplement.

Zephyrus will be published in the spring.

Outage darkens dorms

Electrical service to five women's dorms was interrupted last night at about 8, apparently because of a short in underground cables, according to public safety officer R.J. Simmons.

The dorms, East, West, North,

South and Bates-Runner halls, had electrical difficulties at 8:06 p.m. Electricity to the buildings was shut off and repair work began by 8:11, Simmons said.

Repairs were expected to be made by morning, he said.

Sigma Kappa, SAE win jam

The third annual Kappa Delta Jamboree Wednesday night in Garrett Conference Center Ballroom featured a lot of rewritten country songs and female impersonators.

The event for fraternities and sororities attracted a standing-room-only crowd for foot-stomping music and skits in which fraternity men were dressed as women.

In sorority competition, Sigma Kappa took first place, followed by Chi Omega and Alpha Omicron Pi.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was first among fraternities, Sigma Nu took second and Phi Delta Theta was third.

Comic Mozart opera opens Thursday

The Western Kentucky Opera Theatre's production of "Cosi fan tutte," Mozart's comic opera about men and women, opens at 8 p.m. Oct. 27-28 in Snell Hall Auditorium.

Producer-director Virgil Hale described the opera as an 18th-century farce dealing with infidelity.

The title translates to "women are like that." The story centers on a bet between two officers and their cynical bachelor friend about whether the officers' girls would ever, under certain circumstances, "look at anyone else."

The orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Leon Gregorian, conductor of the Owensboro Symphony Orchestra and the Western Kentucky Symphony Orchestra.

The newly renovated Snell Hall Auditorium is behind Thompson Complex.

Tickets can be bought in advance for $2 in the music department office in the fine arts center. Admission at the door is $2.50.

Improvement in forms may aid aid process

By ALAN JUDD

Filling out financial aid applications may be a little easier next year, because there will be just one application form, according to A. J. Thurman, financial aid director. And, Thurman said, more improvements may be on the way.

Thurman, who was to design a standard form for the state, said some progress has been made. The needs analysis form is now the same at all state universities, he said.

"However, for specific financial aid, 'Each institution has its own application,' Thurman said. 'This has not been changed. They decided there was so much difference between them they would never be able to totally unify the forms.'

The new form at Western covers five kinds of financial assistance, Thurman said.

"One form is now used to apply for basic grants, state grants, the national defense loan, support loans and college work studies," Thurman said.

Scholarships are applied for through the university-school relations office, Thurman said. He said that work programs require another form.

Thurman has not given up hope for development of a standard, statewide form. "Maybe in subsequent years, there will be complete unification," he said.

We were wrong

The Herald incorrectly attributed a quote to Dr. William Buckman in last Thursday's story about the Faculty Senate's first year.

The quote which said, "I feel certain that I have not always responded to the actions of the Faculty Senate in the manner that would have the complete and full approval of every individual member. On the other hand, I think that they (disagreements) have been on a professional level" should have been attributed to President Dero Downing.

Participation low in open houses

Participation in the 97 open houses this semester has been low, as it has in past semesters, according to Linda Kinser, student affairs office supervisor.

Mrs. Kinser cited Barnes-Campbell as an example. "They have had six open houses so far and have an average of 55 people participating," she said. "That's a routine thing, though. It's true to form of last year."

Each dorm is allowed a maximum of 12 open houses each semester.

The open houses can last for five hours between the hours of 5 p.m. to midnight on Fridays and Saturdays and between 1 to 10 p.m. on Sundays.

She said the residents decide the dates and times for their dorm's open houses.

Dorms 'lobbying' for attention

State and county fairs and the Kentucky Derby will be saluted as "Great American Pastimes" this week in Interhall Council's Homecoming lobby contest.

Rodes-Harlin is sponsoring a tribute to state fairs from 7 to 9 tonight in the lobby. A kissing booth and cake walk will be featured.

Deficiency notices will be mailed

Grade deficiency notices will be mailed this week, according to Mack Houston, assistant registrar. The notices are sent to students whose midterm grade for a class is a "D" or "F."

A student receiving the notice should contact his teacher for the course, Houston said.

"McCormack's Cracker Barrel" from 7:30 to 10 p.m. tomorrow salutes county fairs and country stores. McCormack residents will compete for ribbons in sewing and cooking, and a bluegrass band and a professional square-dancing group will provide entertainment.

Central Hall's lobby will become the Churchill Downs Clubhouse at 8 tomorrow night. Central residents will perform, and refreshments will be served.

The University Homecoming Committee has judged outdoor dorm decorations for several years. The lobby contest, is sponsored by Interhall Council and is not a part of the university committee's competition.

Lobby decorations will be open to the public tomorrow through Friday. Several dorms are decorating the lobbies but not sponsoring a program.

North Hall's theme is "Two by Two," focusing on pastimes for couples, such as picnicking. South Hall salutes TV soap operas, and Gilbert Hall pays tribute to leisure activities.

East Hall is combining Homecoming and Halloween decorations.

Four dorms will compete for university awards with outside decorations. McKean Hall is building a monopoly board on the front lawn, and Central Hall will continue the horse racing theme. Bates-Runner Hall will salute "Monday Night Football" and West Hall will display "How the West was Won."

We have the LARGE Homecoming Mums.

Eastern rebounds at Tops' expense

By BRYAN ARMSTRONG

RICHMOND—Before Saturday's game against Western, 1977 had not been a successful football season for Eastern. The Colonels, preseason favorites for the Ohio Valley Conference title, were struggling with a 2-3 overall record and a 1-2 mark in the OVC.

The primary reason was injuries. Coach Roy Kidd had been without seven starters in each of Eastern's last two games, both losses.

An open date last week gave the battered Colonels all the time they needed to heal.

All but two of those starters were back against Western, which went into the contest with a 1-5 record and an inexperienced quarterback, John Hall. Western's starting quarterback, Doug Bartholomew, was out with a sore throat.

What a difference that week made. Eastern got well at Western's expense, scoring early and often to beat the Toppers, 35-10.

"We've got a good football team," Kidd said. "This losing has been a heartbreaking thing. When you're the preseason pick to win the conference, everybody gets up for you."

"It was just an awfully good job by Eastern," Western coach Jimmy Feix said. "They just had some big offensive plays."

Ernie House, Stan Mitchell and Jim Nelson wreaked most of the damage in Eastern's Homecoming victory.

House, a senior quarterback and last year's co-OVC Offensive Player of the Year, completed nine of 15 passes for 163 yards and three touchdowns. All three scoring passes were from outside Western's 20-yard line.

Mitchell, Eastern's Veer tailback, gained 119 yards on 18 carries and scored three times, once on a pass from House and twice on runs. Mitchell was the OVC's leading rusher going into the game. "He's the type of kid that if you're not careful, he'll make the big play on you," Kidd said.

Split end Nelson caught two of House's scoring throws on 24- and 21-yard plays. The touchdowns equaled his total for Eastern's first five games.

"In order to contain Nelson," Feix said, "we cheated the safety over a little bit, and that opened it up for Mitchell. We got outcoached."

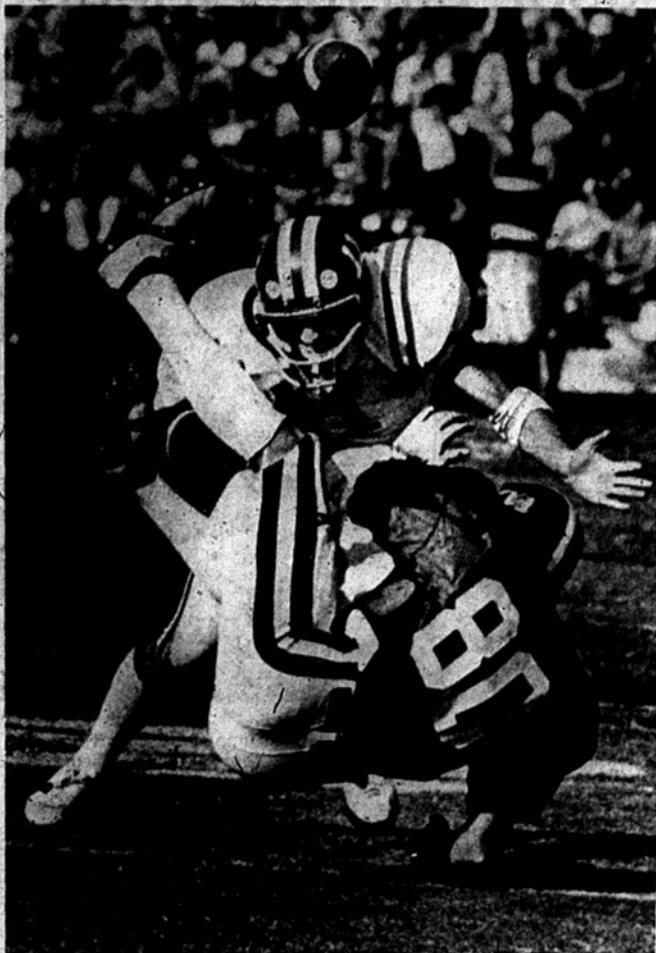

Despite being held to 10 points, Western finished just five yards behind Eastern in total offense—335 to 330. "I can't fault our offense, even though it didn't score many points," Feix said. "We moved the ball well."

Once again, Topper tailback Jimmy Woods was a bright spot in a loss, Western's third in four conference games. Woods was the game's leading rusher, picking up 128 yards on 19 carries for an average of 6.7 yards a carry. Woods has 581 yards for the season.

Western had the first shot at scoring when Dave Betz tried a 50-yard field goal early in the game. The attempt was blocked, however, and Eastern recovered on its own 16-yard line.

It took the Colonels only four plays to find the end zone. On first down, Mitchell swept right end for a 44-yard gain. Western's Nute Harie dragged down Mitchell on the Topper 40 to save the touchdown.

On the next play, House rolled out to his left to pass. House spotted end Bill Kolesar standing on Western's 10 and lobbed him the ball. Cornerback Fred Kixmiller tackled Kolesar on the six. A roughing-the-passer penalty put the ball on Western's three-yard line.

Two downs later, House and Mitchell came around left end on an option play. Western linebacker Alfred Hayden was the only Topper nearby. House pitched out to Mitchell, who ran in untouched.

Eastern scored again the next time it had the ball. From Western's 21-yard line, House hit Nelson on a slant pass. Nelson dodged Western's Biff Madon, Jim Atkinson and Kixmiller to race in for the score.

Late in the second quarter, House threw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Nelson to widen the margin to 21-0. Betz scored Western's only first-half points on a 35-yard field goal with seven seconds left.

Eastern's fourth touchdown came with nine minutes left in the

Murray routs Western, 30-81

By DON WHITE

Murray placed seven runners in the top 13 finishers in the WKU Invitational Saturday at Hobson Grove to beat Western, 30-81, for the championship.

Murray runners finished second, fourth, fifth, ninth and 10th as the Racers beat Western for the third time this season. The Tops placed two runners in the top 15 finishers—freshmen Bob Swann and Ron Becht, who ran third and 15th, respectively.

"Murray ran extremely well," Topper Coach Del Hessel said. "I thought we ran tired, but well in terms of effort. Our strategy was to go out hard at the start and hang in there, and that's exactly what we did."

Murray's Martyn Brewer and Jerry Odlin broke quickly at the start and were running one-two a quarter-mile into the race. Becht and Swann, whose strategy was to stay with Murray's top runners, were fourth and sixth, respectively. That was well ahead of teammates Pat Curl, Steve Carrigg and John Frazier, who were bunched with team captain and pacer Tom Condit in the middle of the pack.

By the halfway point in the five-mile race, Randy Melancon, a graduate assistant at Memphis State who ran unattached, had moved into first, 50 yards ahead of Brewer. Swann was running seventh and Becht had faded to 14th. Condit was 19th ahead of Frazier, Jerry Centrowitz, Carrigg and Curl, who were running together around 25th place.

The only top position in question over the last two miles was third, where Swann dueled Odlin stride for stride. Swann finally passed him with a quarter-mile remaining in the race.

Melancon finished 19 seconds ahead of Brewer to win in 24:52. Swann ran a 25:30, four seconds in front of Odlin and 10 seconds ahead of Racer Richard Charleston. Cumberland College's Tom Smith was sixth ahead of Austin Peay's Zafar Ahmed and Chris Bedard. Murray's Dave Warren and Brian Rutter finished ninth and 10th.

Frosh goof, but they'll learn

RICHMOND—A strange thing happened to Western quarterback John Hall in preparation for Saturday's game against Eastern.

Hall is a backup for the Western's first-string quarterback, Doug Bartholomew, who had started every Topper game since a season-opening loss to the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga. But when Bartholomew came down with a sore throat late last week, Hall found out he was going to start.

Hall had played in only two of Western's games, both times in spot relief when the contests had already been decided.

Because of Bartholomew's illness, Hall was thrust into a pressure-packed situation—starting against Eastern, one of Western's biggest rivals.

A good runner and passer, Hall is possibly Western's best all-around quarterback. But he's also a freshman, and freshmen make mistakes.

A rash of freshman mistakes was one of the causes of Western's 35-10 loss to the Colonels. "We had to play a quarterback we'd never played before," Topper coach Jimmy Feix said. "The kid was a little nervous at first, but we are probably able to do a little more with him in there."

"I was scared, really, at first," Hall said at practice yesterday. "They told me they wanted a running quarterback, and I just got psyched up to do the job."

Late in the first quarter, Western had a first down on its own 28-yard line. Hall dropped back to pass and was rushed heavily by Eastern's defensive line. Hall then committed a quarterback's cardinal sin—he left the pocket. He drifted toward the left sideline and was nailed by three Eastern linemen, almost losing his head in the process.

A little earlier, on a first down play from Western's 32, Hall took the snap from center and turned to hand off the ball. The Topper running backs had gone the other way, and there was no one to take the ball. Making the best of a bad situation, Hall turned upfield and gained eight yards.

"He reacted like a great athlete," Feix said. "He really took it in there."

Craig Freeman and Nate Jones are also Topper rookies. Freeman, from Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Jones of Madisonville, came to Western with impressive high school credentials. They are made from the same mold—the small, fast scatback, much like former Western star Clarence Jackson.

swept right end. The Topper blockers opened a hole inside, and Freeman might have run a long way had he seen the gap. Instead, he was pulled down from behind while trying to get outside.

The next time Western had the ball, early in the second quarter at its 30-yard line, Jones came around the right side on a similar play. After crossing the 33 and seeing a wall of crimson Eastern jerseys form in front of him, Jones reversed his field. He was trapped for a two-yard loss.

Following Eastern's touchdown that made the score 21-0, Colonel David Flores' kickoff sailed three yards into Western's end zone. Jones made an over-the-shoulder catch and tried to return the kick. For his efforts, Jones was run out of bounds on the Topper 14.

There is no doubt that Hall, Freeman and Jones are talented football players. They may very well be Western's starting backfield some day. But for now, they're freshmen in the big-time world of college football.

And freshmen make mistakes.

ETSU coach quits

East Tennessee head football coach Roy Frazier has resigned, effective the end of the season.

Frazier made the announcement after Murray defeated East Tennessee, 13-10, Saturday.

Two wins end fall season

By ROBIN VINCENT

Western had little trouble defeating Murray and Ball State at home last weekend in the last competition before this weekend's Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference tournament in Lexington.

The Toppers defeated Murray, 7-2, and Ball State, 9-0, to finish the 1977 fall season with a 10-2 record.

"Overall I think we played pretty well," coach Betty Langley said. "But there are still some rough spots. Ball State just had a very weak team so you couldn't tell much about how strong your team was from that. Murray wasn't as strong as they usually are, but we should have played better."

In the match against Murray, Western lost only the number six singles position and number two doubles position. Katy Strozdas defeated Karen Weis, 7-8, 6-3;

women's tennis

Shelly Fredlake defeated Lynn Martin, 6-1, 6-2; Kathy Ferry defeated Anne Rees, 6-3, 6-2; Tarrie Mudwilder defeated Kathy Linstrom, 5-7, 6-2, 7-6, and Suzanne Johnson defeated Leanne Owen, 6-2, 6-1. Murray's Yvonna Utley defeated Pat Wood 6-2, 6-3.

In doubles action Strozdas and Fredlake teamed to defeat Martin and Rees, 6-1, 6-3, and Betsy Bogdan teamed with Johnson to defeat Linstrom and Owen, 6-0, 6-4. Ferry and Cathy Summers lost their number two doubles match to Weis and Utley, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

In singles action against Ball State Strozdas defeated Lisa Scott, 6-1, 6-1; Fredlake defeated Leslie Ladwig, 6-2, 6-0; Ferry defeated Cathy Lowe, 6-4, 6-0; Betsy Bogdan defeated Susie Shively, 6-0, 6-0; Mudwilder defeated Sally Spencer, 6-3, 6-1, and Wood defeated Lea Eagle, 6-3, 6-3.

In doubles Strozdas and Fredlake defeated Scott and Shively, 6-0, 6-0; Ferry and Summers defeated Ladwig and Lowe, 6-3, 6-0, and Bogdan and Johnson defeated Eagle and Spencer, 6-1, 6-1.

Tops can't keep pace, finish 9th in Vol meet

When coach Carla Coffey took her team to Knoxville for the UT Volunteer-Spartan Invitational, she was expecting tough competition and fast times.

"It was really, really a fast meet," the coach said. The top finishers ran the first mile in 5:15.

"The caliber of people there was unbelievable and there was no way we could keep up with those times," Ms. Coffey said.

UT's Brenda Webb finished first in the three-mile race with a time of 15:47, while Eastern took top honors with low total of 50. UT finished second with 52.

women's cross-country

Western finished ninth in the 11-team field with a 229 total.

Holway finished 31st in 19:36 to pace the Lady Toppers. Western's next finisher was Jane Terrell, who finished 39th with a time of 20:18.

Kathy Van Meter, Kathy Foster and Sheila Clay finished 47th, 55th and 57th, respectively, to round out the scoring. Also competing for Western was Ellie Methany, who finished 59th.

third quarter. Following a Western fumble on its own 39, House and Mitchell teamed for a scoring bomb.

Mitchell crossed the goal line one more time three minutes into the fourth quarter, this one an eight-yard run.

After Mitchell's last touchdown, the Toppers drove from their 11 to Eastern's 28, where Hall was stopped a yard short of a first down on a fourth-down sneak.

Regaining possession quickly, the Toppers marched 49 yards to Eastern's four-yard line. On fourth down with only eight seconds remaining, Mike Hayes threw a halfback option pass to Billy Lindsey in the corner of the end-zone for Western's lone score.

In the solemn Topper locker room after the game, Feix was asked whether his troops would be mentally prepared for Western's game against Morehead next week.

"They'd better be," he said. "There's no doubt we'll be ready to play against Morehead. It's OUR Homecoming."
