Robert G. Cochran, Dean of Public Affairs

Bowling Green, Ky., Feb. 22...The fourth in a series of meetings aimed at providing area communities with cultural enrichment programs is scheduled for Thursday and Friday at Western Kentucky University.

Chairmen from area "Cultural Enrichment Through Community Action" committees will attend the two-day session in order to evaluate pilot demonstrations previously held at Russellville and Hardinsburg, as well as to make future plans. Another pilot demonstration in the current series is scheduled at Owensboro March 4.

Financed through a federal grant, the project aims to establish a self-motivating and self-sustaining cultural enrichment program in every community within the area. The program is also designed to encourage an atmosphere in which youths may seek enriching experiences in their home communities.

Burnett Shryock, Dean of the College of Fine Arts, Southern Illinois University, is serving as consultant for the meetings. The project is under the direction of Dr. O. J. Wilson, Western's Director of Institutional Research, in cooperation with Dr. Charles Clark, the University's Director of Extension and Field Services.

Western faculty members slated to participate in the two-day session are Dr. John D. Minton, Dean of the Graduate School; Dr. Howard R. Carpenter, Head of the Department of Music; Dr. Russell H. Miller, Department of English; Miss Sara Tyler, Director of the Division of Library Services; and Dr. E. G. Monroe, Department of Art.

Counties participating in the program and their representatives expected to attend the sessions are: Allen County--Mrs. Eva Meredith, Scottsville; Barren County--Mrs. James Norris Gray, Glasgow; Breckinridge County--Aubrey Bowie, Hardinsburg; Butler County--Mrs. Clay Keith, Morgantown; Daviess County--Lynn Luallen, Owensboro; Edmonson County--Mrs. Elaine Parsley, Brownsville; Grayson County--Phillip Cooper, Clarkson; Hardin County--Mrs. Elizabeth Faurest, Elizabethtown; LaRue County--Rev.
