Our Students. Our Hill. Our Community and Beyond.

Initially established in downtown Bowling Green, Western Kentucky University relocated to its hilltop campus on February 4, 1911, when students and faculty literally picked up the furniture and equipment they could carry and marched up the hill to their new home in Van Meter Hall. This began the climb that has defined the WKU Experience for our students for more than 100 years. While the campus structures and leadership have changed over time, President Henry Hardin Cherry’s commitment to transforming the lives of students and serving our region and the commonwealth remains constant. Our Hill is omnipresent and steadfast — and our continual climb is both real and symbolic.

Climbing to Greater Heights: The 2018-2028 Strategic Plan for Western Kentucky University is a carefully defined roadmap that will guide the University through the next decade. It focuses on student success and ensuring that our campus environment attracts the highest quality faculty and staff, and it renews our commitment to being fully engaged in our region and the commonwealth while providing a global context to the WKU Experience.

The landscape for public higher education is ever changing and may at times feel like an uphill climb. We will prepare ourselves to meet the challenges that lie ahead by pursuing innovation in teaching and delivery, connecting what we do to the region and the commonwealth, and ensuring that the WKU Experience transforms the lives of our students, employees, alumni, and friends and elevates the communities we serve - both in our region and beyond. These are the principles that will guide us in our climb to greater heights. We invite you to climb with us.
This plan:

• Outlines aggressive steps to ensure that students can graduate in four years fully prepared to enter the workplace or pursue a graduate degree. WKU students will begin their climb confident they have support from faculty, staff, and the community. And when our graduates leave WKU, they will depart with the skills to make a good living and, more importantly, with the capacity to make a good life for themselves and for those around them.

• Fosters a campus climate that supports quality teaching and pursuits of scholarly and creative activities; service and outreach; a devotion to diversity, equity, and inclusion; and a commitment to being good citizens and stewards of place.

• Recognizes the need for WKU to be intentional in our partnerships with the communities that surround us, to be actively engaged in elevating the economies in those communities, and to build the talent pipeline that will fuel the future workforce for the commonwealth. As important is our commitment to providing a global context to the WKU Experience both on the campus and throughout the world.
WKU MISSION

Western Kentucky University (WKU) prepares students of all backgrounds to be productive, engaged, and socially responsible citizen-leaders of a global society. The WKU Experience

WKU is the premier student-centered, applied research university in Kentucky and the region, transforming lives by providing access and opportunity for all students and preparing them for productive careers and meaningful lives and by elevating the communities we serve in our region, throughout the commonwealth, and across the globe.

- Innovative in teaching and learning
- Committed to integrity and honesty
- Dedicated to scholarly excellence
- Collaborative in our partnerships with community and with our peers
- Devoted to diversity, equity and inclusion for all
- Inspiring innovation and creativity
- Nurturing a global citizenry on our campus and beyond
- Developing resources to sustain and grow quality teaching, scholarship, and service
Our Students

We embrace our responsibility as a public university in Kentucky to provide access to an affordable postsecondary education of exceptional quality, but we also recognize that access without success is access to nothing at all. This plan outlines aggressive steps to ensure that students can graduate in four years fully prepared to enter the workplace or pursue a graduate degree. WKU students will begin their climb confident they have support from faculty, staff, and the community. And when our graduates leave WKU, they will depart with the skills to make a good living and, more importantly, with the capacity to make a good life for themselves and for those around them.

WKU students will lead healthy, productive lives, make informed decisions using critical thinking skills, and exhibit respect and responsibility toward others and the environment. We will recruit college-ready students, retain them at higher rates, and provide them with a dynamic and challenging educational environment that facilitates their growth as scholars and individuals. WKU students will graduate work-ready and fully prepared to pursue meaningful careers and lives.

WKU already engages with many K-12 students. However, we should assist in the career and life development of every student in our service region and promote a culture of education beyond high school. While much of this engagement should promote WKU, some participants will find a college or career fit elsewhere. But many will become Hilltoppers.

After admission, we will work with each student to create an individualized Personal and Professional Development Plan that will lead toward selection of a career pathway. These plans are an important component of the WKU Experience and will follow a student through their undergraduate career, as upperclassmen, graduate students, and ultimately as alumni.

We will centralize and transform advising, focusing heavily on the first two years of enrollment. This reimagined Comprehensive Advising Program comprises more than just a discussion of schedules and careers but also will incorporate financial, mental, physical, and social wellness. When appropriate (and by the junior year), generalist central advisors will transition their advisees to a specialized advisor with training and expertise in the offerings of a particular college, its academic programs, faculty, and related career paths. Faculty also will retain their important roles providing counsel and advice to students. Finally, a cohort of peer mentors will support students as they persist and progress toward graduation.

In our effort to significantly increase first to second year retention, we will focus our attention and central resources on a robust and engaging First Year Experience. Each WKU freshman will have the opportunity to reside in Living Learning Communities in the proposed First Year Village.
Every WKU student will participate in shared intellectual experiences in and out of the classroom and will have access to high-impact practices such as internships, study-abroad, service learning, and undergraduate research throughout their college career. Additionally, all students will benefit from dining, studying, interacting, and investigating in the multi-purpose WKU Commons, which will be located in the WKU Libraries.

We will build upon the five-year Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Plan, which along with the Colonnade Program at WKU plays a substantial role in the lives of our students and leads to institutional diversity, cultural competency, and global citizenry for all. International and experiential education will continue to be core to the WKU Experience, and we will enhance educational opportunities on and away from campus to expand student horizons and cultural awareness.

As an institution of access and opportunity, we must ensure every interested student who aspires to be a Hilltopper has the ability to attend WKU and participate fully in the WKU Experience. We will do this by incorporating student need as well as academic merit in our financial aid decisions and by generating private financial support for the WKU Opportunity Fund, a $50 million fund dedicated to providing a wide array of experiences and opportunities for our students regardless of their economic background.

Increased partnerships with employers to provide co-op education opportunities, job-shadowing, and internship experiences, as well as placement of graduates, will be critical to our ability to produce a fully prepared workforce and to meet the needs of business and industry in our region and beyond.

Our Hill

The Hill is both the physical location and symbolic representation of the people that are the lifeblood of the University. Throughout its rich history, WKU has been shaped by its leadership and the dedicated faculty and staff who have committed their life’s work to teaching, research, and service that transforms the lives of our students and elevates the communities around us. This plan advances a campus climate that supports quality teaching and pursuits of scholarly and creative activities; service and outreach; a devotion to diversity, equity, and inclusion; and a commitment to being responsible citizens and good stewards of place.

A stable, realistic, transparent fiscal plan for WKU serves as the foundation of our efforts to reward, develop, and retain talent; to create innovative academic programs; to continually improve and elevate instruction; to encourage service and outreach; and to support and facilitate research and inquiry. In the first year of this plan, WKU will implement a new decentralized budget model that is designed to be nimble and that will invest in strategic priorities, reward performance, empower deans, and enhance academic entrepreneurship.

To ensure consistency and equity across the institution, WKU will implement a new system of performance evaluation that will appropriately determine and adjust compensation packages for new and continuing employees and fairly allocate merit increases. Additionally, job descriptions will be reviewed and revised to create greater uniformity across similar positions university-wide.

The WKU Experience puts high quality teaching and innovative academic programs at its core. We will engage in a process of program review to ensure we have the most attractive, efficient, and appropriate mix of program offerings. WKU will create the necessary physical and virtual structures to support innovative pedagogy and instruction and will offer professional development and pedagogical training to enact and nurture these programs.

We embrace and will invest in the use of technology, high impact practices, process learning, cultural immersion, team-planning of classes and co-instruction that creates opportunities for more effective teaching and service that elevates quality and more fully engages students. The University will support faculty and staff in the intentional and continual learning that is critical to student-centered, inspirational, and constructive instruction.

In addition to student-centered instruction, another hallmark of the WKU Experience is the active inclusion of students in faculty research and creative activities, and the intentional cultivation of individual student research projects. WKU will continue to grow and support faculty and student research, especially inquiry that has the potential to attract funding and financial support. We will elevate and articulate ever more clearly our institutional niche as an applied research university, putting ideas into action and demonstrating the link between theory and practice. Growing WKU’s portfolio of sponsored research will revitalize faculty scholarship, enhance WKU’s reputation, and create useable knowledge for our world.
Great teaching, scholarship, and service require dedicated, healthy employees and a collegial working environment. WKU policies and programs will support the health and well-being of each member of the University community and will foster a climate of support, respect, and appreciation for one another and for the institutional history and traditions.

Our Community and Beyond

Henry Hardin Cherry’s decision to locate WKU high on a hilltop in beautiful Bowling Green, Kentucky, was intentional. Overlooking the city from the Hill was symbolic of President Cherry’s commitment to caring for the community by educating its citizens. Today, WKU is an economic engine for the region and the commonwealth, and our reach extends across the globe through our faculty, staff, students, and alumni. This plan recognizes the need for WKU to be intentional in our partnerships with the communities that surround us, to be actively engaged in elevating the economies in those communities, and to build the talent pipeline that will fuel the future workforce for the commonwealth. As important is our commitment to providing a global context to the WKU Experience both on the Hill and throughout the world.

As the commonwealth’s premier student-centered, applied research university, WKU’s energy and resources must be focused first on meeting the obligations to the region we were built to serve.
