H'coming Chapel Set For Oct. 27

The annual Homecoming Chapel will be held Saturday at 10:00 a. m. in Van Meter Auditorium with Dr. Kelly Thompson, president of Western, presiding.

Following Dr. Thompson's welcome the Western Band, under the direction of Edward A. Knob, will render special selections prior to the invocation by Dr. Gordon Wilson.

Dr. Raymond L. Cravens, dean of the college will review the grid-iron rivalry of Western vs. Eastern and discuss this year's homecoming battle.

Mr. Lisle Sherrill will introduce the Homecoming Queen candidates which is to be followed by more band music.

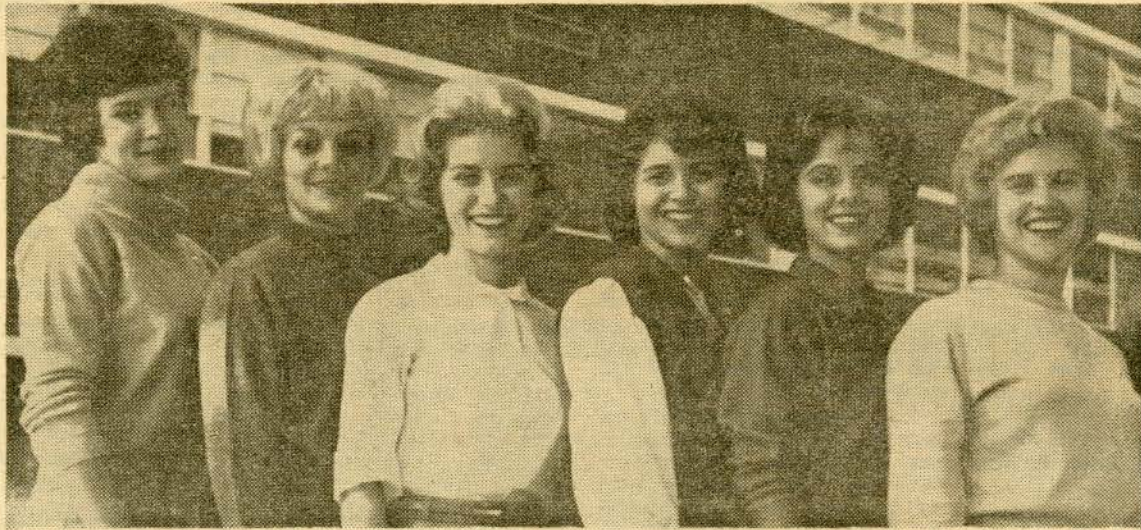

Dr. Brad Mutchler, representative of Western Alumni will speak in behalf of that group followed by an address by Dr. John Scarborough, entitled "Hail to the Hilltoppers."

The "Grand Old" award will be presented in behalf of Dr. Harry E. Thompson, believed to be the oldest living graduate of Western.

All alumni, visitors and students are invited to attend.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO SENIORS

Senior pictures for the TALISMAN must be taken and the proof selected by Christmas vacation. It is preferred that the 4 x 5 glossy picture be made at a local studio.

Air Of Expectation Envelopes Western As Homecoming Nears

There is great expectation — and a touch of mystery and surprise — surrounding the Western campus, as preparations continue for the annual homecoming celebration on Friday and Saturday.

The expectation stems from the normal round of events slated for alumni, students and faculty and from Western's first use of a central theme in connection with homecoming.

The Homecoming Committee, headed by Dr. H. L. Stephens, head of the Biology department, has designated "Western In The Soaring 60's" as the homecoming theme. All campus decorations and floats in the annual homecoming parade will be designed around this central idea.

Queen's Coronation

The climax of the celebration comes Saturday afternoon with the crowning of the homecoming queen and the football battle between Western and arch-rival Eastern Kentucky.

The crowning lends homecoming its unknown quality, since the results of the election to determine the queen won't be known until the official coronation in Western Stadium at 1:50 p. m. Members of Western's Board of Regents will crown the queen just prior to the start of the football game, which gets under way at 2 o'clock.

Six Candidates

Six candidates, two each from the sophomore, junior and senior classes, will vie for the role of queen in an election Thursday.

The candidates are: Seniors — Marilyn Cates, home economics major from Louisville, and Wanda Steenbergen, physical education major from Glasgow; Juniors — Pat Norman, commerce major from Glasgow, and Sylvia Terry, Spanish and English major from Paducah; Sophomores — Sandra Marshall, English and elementary education major from Covington, and Christine DeVries, English major from Bowling Green.

To Begin With Pep Rally

Homecoming officially opens at 6:15 p. m. Friday with a pep rally in Van Meter Auditorium.

The annual homecoming dance is set for the Paul L. Garrett Student Center at 9 o'clock Friday night.

Breakfasts, coffees, get-togethers and luncheons will be held throughout the morning Saturday.

New Seminar Center

Three Buildings Purchased By College Heights Foundation

By Bonnie Lyle

Western's road to progress is being lengthened each day with the building of new dormitories, a new coliseum and the rebuilding and repairing of buildings already established. The latest addition to Western's progress report came in the acquisition of three buildings purchased by the College Heights Foundation from Lee Howell at an undisclosed amount.

One of the buildings has been converted into what is now the Seminar Center, which houses on its two floors, various members and classrooms of the education and English departments, respectively.

The other two buildings, apartment houses, are still being rented to the former tenants. The Seminar Center is being rented by the college from the College Heights Foundation, pending future purchase.

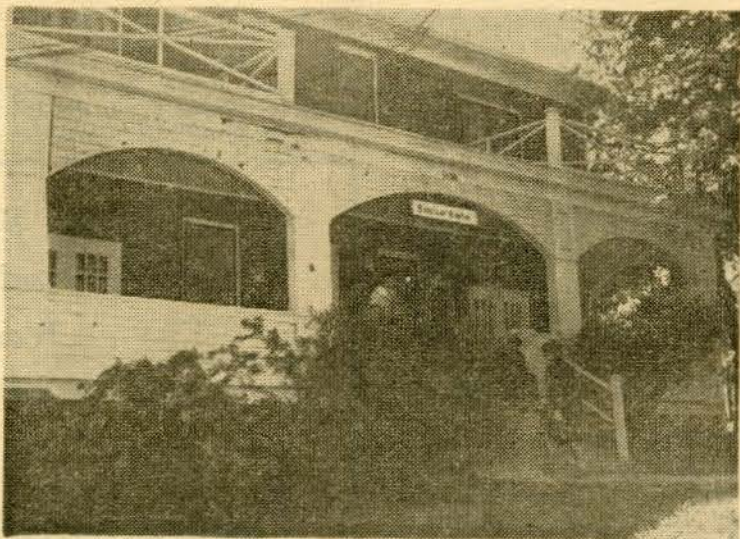

The Center was formerly four family apartments, designed in such a way that it was easily converted into classrooms and office space.

First Floor

The first floor is dominated by seven education faculty members; a classroom which seats approximately 35 people, with the remainder devoted to offices, all under the direction of Dr. Tate C. Page, head of the Education Department.

The second floor houses approximately seven members of the English department, a classroom seating some 25 persons and a seminar room which will accommodate about 15 students.

The seven English instructors are assembled in five offices, two of them doubles. According to Dr. Willson Wood, head of the English department, "We were sorely in need of a place to reassemble some of our people, having been formerly scattered from the basement of Cherry Hall to the third floor of the library".

In conjunction with the matter, Dean Raymond Cravens said, "We feel that we are utilizing space by planning the rooms to accommodate the correct number instead of having a room designed for 40 students with only 15 or 20 in the class."

Four Former Herald Reporters Continued In Journalism Field

Four persons at this week's College Heights Herald Breakfast will be former Herald reporters who made good in the field of journalism.

Guests at the breakfast will be Bert Borrone, sports editor for The Park City Daily News; Miss Bonnie Lyle, society editor for the Daily News, Noel Coppage and Ronnie Stuart, news reporters for the Daily News.

Borrone, who has been with the Daily News since returning from the Army in 1945, was editor of the Herald in 1940-41, the same year that Robert Cochran, director of public relations at Western, was Herald business manager. Borrone got his B. A. degree with a major in English and French from Western in 1941.

His column, "It Says Here" which appears four times a week, is a popular feature of the Daily News.

Miss Lyle joined the Daily News staff last summer and was elevated to her present position in September. She is a former feature editor and society editor of the Herald.

In addition to her daily section, she writes a weekly column, "Society Sidelights," which appears on Sunday in the Daily News.

Miss Lyle and Stuart are presently attending Western on a part-time basis. Both are senior English majors.

Stuart joined the Daily News Staff in October, 1961, after serving on the Herald staff for two years. Stuart, who was sports editor of the Herald during the fall semester of 1961, sometimes assists Borrone in the sports department of the Daily News.

Coppage, a 1959 graduate of Western, joined the Daily News staff in 1960 after teaching school for a year in Allen County. He was on the Herald staff during the 1947-58 school year.

During his term at Western, he was editor of Voices and wrote an article for Kentucky Folklore Record, a quarterly magazine which is the official publication of the Kentucky Folklore Society.

English Instructor Spends Three Weeks Inside USSR

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Robert Obojski is a newcomer to the Department of English faculty this year and is a former feature editor of "Coin World." While with "Coin World" he traveled throughout Europe, including Russia, and reported on numismatic activities in that area of the world. Currently, he is the regular philatelic and numismatic writer for Christian Science Monitor and the Park City Daily News.)

By Robert Obojski

Moscow has been portrayed as a sinister, fierce, forbidding city, but after having visited the Soviet capital for two weeks recently, I came to the conclusion that the Russian people are warm-hearted, outgoing, and extremely anxious to learn as much as they can about the United States and the American people.

During this tour I also flew down to Kiev from Moscow and spent a week in the capital of the Ukraine. Here again I found that the Russians were far from a hard-boiled lot, as one might expect if he believes everything he reads in the daily press.

Tension and bitter feeling may exist between the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union, but they certainly do not exist between the rank and file of peoples of those two countries when they meet.

Visitors Treated Well

American visitors are treated so well in Russia that it's almost embarrassing. In fact, the Russians lay out the proverbial "red carpet" for tourists.

When you land at Moscow airport, for example, a uniformed government official helps you fill out the required entry forms, directs you to the currency exchange, and tells you, "Enjoy your visit to the Soviet Union—spend all the money you want." (The Russians have only recently discovered that tourist dollars can be an important asset to their economy.)

Also, when you land, Intourist, the official Soviet travel agency, has a limousine waiting for you. The limousine takes you to a downtown hotel where all necessary arrangements have been made. And when you want to visit another Russian city, or leave the country altogether, a limousine is again ready to pick you up and take you to the airport. Intourist simply cannot be matched for thoroughness of service!

People Do Not Favor War

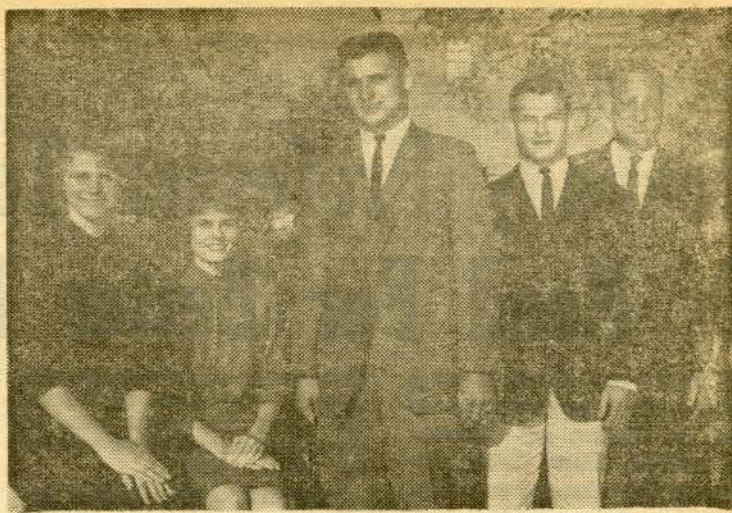

In Kiev I learned that the people there at least do not favor war as part of their national policy. By the end of World War II in 1945, Kiev stood nearly 50 per cent destroyed — many of the city's finest boulevards, shipping centers and residential areas lay in total ruin. When I arrived more than 15 years after war's end, the reconstruction job — a Herculean task — was barely completed.

The people of Kiev know war from bitter first-hand experience, and open conflict with the West is without question the last thing they want. However, the aims and objectives of their governmental and military leaders may be entirely different matter.

In Moscow, young people can pretty well spot an American by the style of clothes he wears to the cut of his hair, etc. While

Delta Tau Sigma Fraternity Gains Official Recognition

The Delta Tau Sigma Fraternity has been officially recognized by Western. The announcement was made by Dean of Students Charles A. Keown, who is chairman of the Fraternity Committee. Today, October 24, 1962, is the first anniversary of the founding of the fraternity, and recognition serves as an excellent birthday present from the College.

Mr. Roy Hedges of the Department of Economics and Sociology was selected as faculty advisor by the fraternity members and was approved by the College. His comprehensive background in various educational and occupational fields and his interest in working with and assisting college students will prove to be a great asset to the fraternity in its endeavors.

The president of the Tau Sigmas is Victor Duvall, a senior pre-med student from Big Clifty. A member of the Biology club and Alpha Epsilon Delta, an honorary pre-medical society, he plans to enter medical school after graduation in June.

Peabody Professor Tells TDEA Of Need For Better Education

"I have a deep-seated, gnawing concern about my land and its ideas on freedom and democracy," said Dr. Willard Goslin, professor of education and co-ordinator of the Korean project here recently.

Addressing a capacity audience at the 35th annual meeting of the Third District Education Association at Western, Friday, October 12, Goslin said his concern stems from two sources, one from within and one from without America. The one without he cited as communism, saying he does not doubt for one moment Khrushchev's integrity in saying he "expects to plow us under."

"What concerns me is that the authoritarians of the world have become wise enough to understand that the most powerful force in the world for turning people to their own ends is the educational system. I am afraid these people who would take over America might care more about the things they want than we care about the things we ought to do," Goslin stated.

"America is not willing to sacrifice its interest in its economy and security to have a decent school system. If we are to survive, our democracy must go forward, not just hold its status quo and we must educate our people to the point where they will be able to cope with the tremendous problems they will face in the next few years," the educator challenged.

3,000 Attend

Educators and teachers with an estimated attendance of 3,000 were gathered here Friday for the morning's general session, six luncheon sessions and 15 departmental meetings in the afternoon.

Included in the morning program at which W. Paul Hampton, superintendent of Butler County schools and president of the association, presided, were musical selections by the Glasgow High School band and brief talks by E. Kelly Thompson, Western president, who introduced Goslin, Mrs. Wilmer Meredith, Third District PTA president; Fred J. Pardue, Kentucky School Board Association president; Charlton Hummel, Kentucky Education Association president; T. K. Stone, NEA director from Kentucky and a report by Mrs. Thelma Hendrick, TDEA secretary - treasurer.

Owen Arnold, Franklin - Simpson County school guidance counselor, was named president to succeed Hampton.

Election Of Officers

Merle Johnson, Adairville agriculture teacher, was chosen president - elect to replace Leslie Leach, assistant superintendent of Barren County Schools, who resigned. Mrs. Juanita Parks, Rockport class room teacher, was named vice president and Robert J. Gover, assistant superintendent of Warren County schools, secretary-treasurer.

KEA director for the association will be Leach. Roy Reynolds, Russellville high school principal, was elected a TDEA director. Mrs. Louise Willis, Caverna Elementary school teacher, was elected NEA delegate with Lloyd Bernard, principal of Franklin-Simpson County elementary school, and Mrs. Leila McEndree, Russellville city school teacher, as alternates.

Goslin's remarks this morning followed the theme of his address at the association's banquet in the Paul L. Garrett Student Center last night in which he urged the development and choosing of leadership.

"We must have the right people to put in the right place," he cited. "One mistake we often make is equating position with leadership. The two do not necessarily go hand in hand," he pointed out.

"There has been a trend in the country for the last four or five years to put more emphasis on the student who has a capacity for science than one who has a capacity for human relationship. This trend will lead us down a blind alley if we follow it long enough."

Hardin Co. Club Plans First Party

A club party was the main topic of discussion when the Hardin County club met Monday night at 6:30 in the Student Union building.

Coach Tom Ecker the club sponsor, introduced himself to the club members and stated that he would help the club in any way he could.

Beta Omega Chi Holds Rush Party

Beta Omega Chi sorority gave a tea for rushees last Wednesday at the Kentucky Building. A style show, consisting of outfits worn on different sorority and school occasions, was presented by sorority members.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, and punch were served.

Kentucky Library Receives More Church Records

The Presbyterian Church of Bowling Green has added more old church records to their present collection in the Kentucky Library. Several record books were found recently in the basement of the Citizens National Bank and given to the Presbyterian Church. It is believed that the Rev. Robert H. Clarke, former pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, left the records there before leaving Bowling Green in 1938.

The following books are of the Logan Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Kentucky:

The Minutes 1813-1845 (typed copy)

A Bound Volume of Printed Minutes 1886-1902

Minutes 1888-1905 (manuscript copy)

Three Treasurer's Books 1900-1906 (manuscript copy)

The records of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. that were added are the Minutes 1908-1927 (manuscript copy) and Minutes 1927-1935.

... for a life of pride and purpose

Among the young people being graduated from college in these times, there are some who think and feel—perhaps a little more deeply than the others—about the world we live in, the future we face. They ask, "How can I make my career really meaningful? More than just personally rewarding?"

And many of today's most successful young people are finding a fulfilling answer to these questions as officers on the Aerospace Team... the United States Air Force. They can tell you that no career could better combine the opportunity for achievement—and the deep inner satisfaction of knowing that they are helping preserve the very future of America.

How can you become an Air Force Officer?

If you are a college senior and not currently enrolled in ROTC, Air Force Officer Training School provides an opportunity to qualify for a wide variety of career fields. The graduate of this three-month course receives a commission as a second lieutenant. As the Air Force continues its technological advance, officers with college training will move into positions of increasing importance.

For full information—including the opportunity to earn graduate degrees at Air Force expense—see the Air Force Selection Team when it visits your college, visit your local Air Force Recruiting Office, or write: Air Force Officer Career Information, Dept. SC210, Box 805, New York 1, New York.

The citizens of Bowling Green and the students at Western had a first-hand opportunity to talk to the Lt. Gov. and to hear from him how he stands on the basic issues in the campaign for the Senate.

Recognized Fraternities May Apply For Nat'l Affiliation

President Thompson, Dean of the College Raymond L. Cravens, Dean of Admissions Dero G. Downing, and the Fraternity committee met with the advisors and representatives of the 11 recognized fraternities in a question-answer session Thursday, October 1 at 3:00 p. m. in Van Meter Auditorium. Some students from unrecognized groups also attended the meeting.

President Thompson said he thought that Western would soon have one of the strongest fraternity systems in the nation. He said that the 11 local fraternities would be allowed to buy fraternity houses and affiliate themselves with national fraternities as soon as possible.

Dean of Students Charles A. Keown announced that his office had a list of over 20 national fraternities who wished to establish local chapters. It was also announced that the men's fraternities would have to maintain an academic average at least equal to that of all male students, and the sororities must maintain an average equal to that of all women students.

First 'Grand Old Grad' Award Will Be Presented To 98-Year-Old Texan At Homecoming Chapel

Another first—in a long line of firsts at Western Homecoming Chapel Programs—will be a highlight of the 10 a.m. annual gathering Saturday, Oct. 27, when the initial "Grand Old Grad" award is presented to a 98-year-old Texan.

Dr. Kelly Thompson, president of Western, will receive the award in behalf of Dr. Harry Edgar Thompson, a native of Kentucky who now resides in Longview, Tex. Lee Robertson, director of alumni affairs, will make the presentation for the college and the Western Alumni Association, who are jointly sponsoring the project honoring the grand old educator.

Became O.S.U. Professor in 1893
Dr. Thompson, no relation to the college president, is an 1888 graduate of the old Southern Normal School, predecessor of Western Teachers College which later became Western Kentucky State College. Following his graduation from Southern Normal School, Thompson departed for Stillwater, Okla., where he received his M. A. degree from Oklahoma State University and then his Ph.D. in education from Carver College, Oklahoma City. He became a professor at Oklahoma State University in 1893.

Billy Buckner Attends FFA Nat'l Convention

Billy Joe Buckner, a member of the Hart Memorial Chapter of Future Farmers of America at Hardyville, and also a junior agriculture major at Western, participated in the National FFA convention in Kansas City during the week of October 8 through 13.

He is the first FFA member from the Hart Memorial Chapter to receive the American Farmer degree. This degree is the highest to be earned in FFA.

Billy was one of the thirteen FFA members receiving the degree out of the membership of more than twelve thousand in the state of Kentucky. Cooperation, citizenship, leadership, and an outstanding farming program are the merits upon which the degree is based.

up his active career as a teacher.

Following World War I, in which Thompson served as an assistant battalion commander, he returned to his first love — education. After teaching for more than 50 years he finally retired in 1954.

He is the last of a family of 14 and is the lone living member of the first faculty of Oklahoma State University. He now resides with a niece in Longview.

Contributes Papers Ky. Library

When it was suggested by the college that Dr. Thompson attend homecoming festivities this year he replied by letter that he did not believe it would be feasible for him to attempt such a visit at the date designated due to previous commitments and business appointments.

Through the years, Thompson has contributed a number of historical papers, legal documents and articles to the Kentucky Library here, but his visits have been irregular.

Robertson said this week that the "Grand Old Grad" award is not to be an annual one and will be presented only at the discretion of the Alumni Association and the college and that he regretted Dr. Thompson's inability to attend but pointed out that he had never read a warmer refusal.

Doesn't Wish To Wear Out Welcome

This is the last reply that came back to Western in the form of a card. The message read as follows:

"Dear Alumnus — I am sorry to say no — I appreciate your asking me and will cherish the award and enjoy the write-up. But I was only there for a stop in 1921." (Implying that he didn't wish to wear out his welcome by making his visits too frequent.)

Instructor Spends Three Weeks Inside Russia

walking down Red Square in front of the famed GUM department store, a group of Russian boys in their late teens stopped me and inquired pleasantly, "Are you an American — tell us about New York and Chicago..."

Youth Liked Ball Point Pen

On other occasions, a young Russian, spotting a ball point pen in my vest pocket, would ask "Can I please buy that ball point pen?"

"Can't you buy them right here in Moscow stores?" I replied.

"We can," came the answer, "but American makes are better."

Incidentally, at this point we must give the Russian schools credit for their fine work in the teaching of English and other foreign languages. Most secondary school students must elect at least one foreign language from among these—three, French, German and English. English is by far the most popular of them — since the end of World War II, several million Russian students have finished full six-year courses in English prior to entering college.

Russians Respect Americans And Education

The Russians respect Americans and the American system of education — no question about that. Bookstores and public libraries in all major Soviet cities carry a wide line of books published in the U.S.A., particularly technical publications.

At the huge Moscow University library, for example, I saw American - published books on such varied subjects as highway engineering, electrical wiring, dentistry, shopping center design, public relations, bridge building, plumbing, sewer construction, home building, radio & television repair and scores of others.

In respect to fiction, such writers as Ernest Hemingway, Edna Ferber, Upton, Sinclair, Sinclair Lewis, Jack London, and Thomas Wolfe have been popular in Russia for years. These volumes are available in both the original English and Russian translation.

U. S. Papers Seldom Seen

However, no U. S. published magazines and newspapers are readily available in Russia. These are read and analyzed only by top government officials. While such top publications as "Time," "Newsweek," "Life," "The New York Times," and the New York "Herald Tribune" are readily available even in satellite countries like Poland, they are seldom seen anywhere in the Soviet Union itself.

Though Communism is a "bad word" in the U.S.A., I found in the U.S.S.R. that the Russian people have a deep and abiding faith in Communism. They simply compare their lot under the Czars with the tremendous progress the country has made since 1917. In 1917, for instance, more than half the population was wallowing in illiteracy since the Czars had no desire to see the masses educated.

95 Per Cent Can Read And Write

But now, after 45 years of Communist, easily 95 per cent of the Russian populace is able to read and write. (Still, Alexander Kerensky, provisional president of Russia for a brief period in 1917 before the outbreak of the November Revolution, stated emphatically from his New York City home a few years ago: "If Russia had adopted a more democratic system of government rather than a dictatorship during the critical months of 1917, more significant progress would have been made in all fields of endeavor during the past two score years.")

Russians Want Education

Young Russians today have an unquenchable thirst for education because this desire for learning was hitherto thwarted. Now, for the first time in Russian history — a history that stretches back for more than a millenium — the government wants the masses to be educated.

Though the Soviet secondary schools, along with the colleges and universities, may still be doing a lack-lustre job in teaching the humanities, they have raised the level of their scientific and technical training programs to astounding heights.

Western-Eastern Tilt Saturday

Toppers And Maroons Meet For 36th Time

A rivalry that began back in 1914 and has continued down through the years to become one of the state's oldest and at times the most heated will be resumed Saturday afternoon beginning at 2:00 p.m. when the Western Hill-Toppers and the Eastern Maroons clash for the 36th time. The Maroons come to Bowling Green this year considerably stronger than in the past with a second place standing in the OVC and the only team to inflict a loss on front-running East Tennessee.

Eastern Making Title Bid

Led by a soph transfer from Ohio State, Larry Marmie and soph end Wendell Wheeler of Ashland, the Maroons are making a strong bid for the conference title. Marmie, a 187-pound quarterback, ran and passed and a 85-yard pass interception by Wheeler were instrumental in the Maroons 20-14 victory over previously unbeaten East Tenn.

Toppers Seek Second OVC Win

Halfback Jimmy Chittum has been ripping off gains at nearly seven yards per carry and fullback Herbie Conley, who has been injured was expected to see action in last Saturday's game with Austin Peay. In OVC team defense the Maroons have yielded only 227.7 yards per game to their three previous OVC foes.

The Hilltoppers after an open date last weekend have had two weeks practice in preparing for the Maroons in the hopes they will be the first of the three state schools they must defeat in order to get back into the conference title race. The toppers will be looking for OVC win number two as they rolled over winless Tenn. Tech two weeks ago.

Jim Burt Top Pass Receiver

The Toppers have only lost twice to the Richmond eleven on homecoming while walking away with the laurels six times. Soph fullback Jim Burt, continues to lead the OVC in pass receiving with 11 grabs for 185 yards. His 71-yard catch from Topper quarterback Jim Daily is the longest touchdown via the air this season in the OVC.

If the Toppers can tighten their defense and the 1-2 quarterback combination for Bill Straub and Jim Daily can get going the Toppers could come away with homecoming victory number seven!

Eleven Senior Gridders Will Play Last Home Game Saturday

Eleven Hilltopper gridgers will be playing in their last home game when Western tangles with Eastern in the Homecoming game Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the Western Stadium. Six are linemen and five are from the backfield.

The linemen are Bill Mumford, Lee Murray, Barry Poole, Jim Taylor, John Barriola, and Ollie Newell.

Those of the backfield who will graduate are Lloyd Nash, Joe Jagers, Jim Daily, Bobby Mitchell, and Buzzy Best.

Let's take a look at these graduating seniors who have given four years of hard work on the gridiron.

Mumford

Bill Mumford, 5-11, 190 pounds, 21 year old end from Troy, Ohio, has done an excellent job in taking over the vacant position left by All-OVC end Jim Hughes.

Bill had proved his worth in the utility roll for three years before coming a regular end.

Murray

After playing a brilliant season last year at end, 6-0, 180 pounds, 21 years old Lee Murray has proved to be a top contender for All-OVC honors this year with his exceptional performance on offense and defense.

He is, without doubt, one of the top ends in the country for his size, but what he lacks in size he makes up in desire.

Lee was voted to the second team of the All-OVC at end position last year. He hails from Russellville, Alabama.

Poole

Although handicapped by injuries in his early career, 6-0, 205 pounds, 21 years old Barry Poole has already lettered two years at the tackle position.

Barry has seen the majority of his action on offense but can play defense with equal caliber.

Barry is from Madisonville, Kentucky.

Taylor

Probably the most spirited player on the team since his freshman year is tackle Jim Taylor of Clarksville, Tennessee.

Although Jim is small for a college tackle at 6-2, 195 pounds, he makes up for this in hustle and the desire to play. Jim excels on defense but is a steady performer on offense.

Jim is 22 years old.

Barriola

Considered by his coaches as one of the best defensive players in the league is John Barriola, 6-0, 200 pounds.

John is a Junior College graduate and during his junior year at Western played outstanding ball as inside linebacker along with Joe Bugel. John is a fine team man and was selected to the second team as an All-OVC guard last year.

Ollie Newell

Probably one of the smallest men in the league at the guard position is 5-8, 185 pounds, Ollie Newell of Ft. Pleasant, West Virginia.

Ollie is the "brain" on the football team with his 2.8 average.

Ollie has given the team their needed depth at guard position for the last two years.

Before coming to Western, Ollie served in the Air Force. He is 24 years old.

Nash

Rated as the best corner linebacker in the league is 22 year old Lloyd Nash of Owensboro.

Lloyd returned this year to finish his studies and athletic career after being in the Marines for a year. Always known as a steady performer, Lloyd can play both the halfback and fullback position.

Lloyd is 5-10 and weights 190 pounds.

Jagers

One of the most dependable ball carriers for the past two years has been fullback Joe Jagers, 6-0, 185 pounds from Princeton, Kentucky.

While not very fast, Joe is especially shifty and can be depended upon to move the ball against any opposition.

Joe was an all state performer in his high school days under former Hilltopper great Fred Clayton. He is 22 years old.

Daily

The leading passer in the OVC this year is quarterback Jim Daily of New Albany, Indiana.

A fine player, Jim is in his fourth year as quarterback for Western. His running has improv-

Topper Thinlies Win Over Murray

Western has ended Murray's powerful reign as cross-country champion as the Hilltoppers handed the Racers their first defeat since 1959, when Ft. Campbell turned the trick.

The Toppers won 25-30 even though the Racer's finished in the 1-2 position. Curt Sanders, (Murray) covered the 3.6 mile course, which was laid out through downtown Murray, in 19:08 and he was followed by teammate Dave Williams.

The Toppers, however, captured the next five positions which was a enough to defeat the Racers. Tom Graham paced the Topper runners as he placed third. He was followed by Mike Roberts (4th), John Noel (5th), Jack Mahurin (6th) and Mike Looney (7th).

Western, fielding their first cross-country team and coached by Tom Ecker, have three wins in four starts. Their only defeat coming at the hands of the University of Kentucky. Western and Murray will get a chance to renew their rivalry at Cookeville on Dec. 1 in the first OVC meet.

LARRY DYKES, Sports Editor

From the turn of events of the Ohio Valley Conference last week, the Hilltoppers now have new hopes of getting back into the thick of the title race after dropping their first two meetings with OVC foes. Western's win over Tennessee Tech last week, together with the fact that every team in the conference has lost at least once, gives the Toppers an outside chance.

One of the many "if's" would be that they would have to win their remaining three games against strong and powerful state rivals Eastern, Morehead and Murray. These wins would provide them again with the "mythical" state championship for the second straight year, but two of the three games are on foreign grounds, only Eastern will be a home foe.

Tech Game Showed Improvement

The win over Tennessee Tech was the best Hilltopper effort since the opener against Southeast Missouri. The line play was much improved and praise was especially drawn by line coach Frank Griffin for tackles Harold Chambers and Bob Gephart, and end Lee Murray.

The Burt brothers, John and Jim, accounted for all three of the Topper's touchdowns in their 24-7 win over Tech. Halfback Bobby Mitchell had his best ground-gaining day as he carried the pigskin five times for 48 yards.

Straub Ignites Topper Spark

One of the biggest, yet one of the smallest reasons for Western's new hope in the conference race, is 5-7 junior quarterback Bill Straub. The last eight times he has guided Western in an offensive series of plays, the Toppers have scored four touchdowns. He has carried the ball 11 times and has a gain of 49-yards. He has completed only four of eight passes-but three were for touchdowns. Possessing one of the keenest football minds in the OVC, Straub mixes his plays well, spotting the defensive weakness and then picking it apart. The Toppers now have a 1-2 quarterback combination of Jim Daily and Billy Straub and just such a combination could fire them to a season-ending sweep.

Ecker Loses First of Three

Track Coach Tom Ecker is happier now than he was two weeks ago, but poorer. It seems he has a standing offer of a steak dinner to anyone of his three pole vaulters who can vault 14-feet. Paul Woodall, a New York University transfer, did just that last week as he cleared the 14-foot mark. Gary Imel (13' 9") and Dale King (13' 8") are getting closer with each vault, and it looks as though Ecker is going to be buying two more dinners in the near future. Woodall is only the second man in the state to clear 14 feet.

STRIKE!—Pins fell last Wednesday at the Crescent Bowl on the Nashville Road, as another season of Intramural Bowling began. Western students may bowl in the intramural program each Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. Join a team and join the fun. Experience is not necessary, as free instruction is available at the bowling center.

The program will consist of short talks by the officers, spiced with reminiscent interjections by the alumni.

Besides the turkey and dressing, there will be green beans, candied sweet potatoes, fruit salad, ice cream with chocolate sauce, and coffee or tea to please the palate.

Everyone is cordially invited and may contact Larry Siria or Al Young for reservations. The tickets are two dollars.

New A-A Building On Schedule

Despite Setback, Steel Work To Begin In Nov.

By Ronnie Stuart

Work on Western's new $2.9 million academic-athletic building is progressing on schedule in spite of last summer's collapse of a 25-foot section of the building. Construction Superintendent G. Von Anderson, vice president of Clark Construction Company, said most of the time lost by the accident has made up and the building should be completed by next September, the original completion date for the newest and most modern gymnasium in Kentucky.

Anderson said the construction schedule calls for workmen to begin the steel work on Nov. 15. At the same time, the lathing, plastering and rough carpentry work on the inside of the building will begin. The steel work will include the structural part of the roof.

At present, workmen are completing the construction of the bleachers which eventually will provide seating space for 13,000 basketball fans.

Also in progress now is the masonry work and installation of aluminum window frames. Anderson said the terrazzo work on the building's floor will begin shortly after the beginning of the steel work.

Utility System Installed

Workmen are in the process of connecting the school's utility system to the building. The work called for the construction of lines and pipes under Russellville Road. This work, not part of the construction company's contract, took about one week and only one-way traffic was possible while workmen were working in the road.

According to Anderson, his workmen have been doing rough work around the building, but his contract does not call for the construction of the parking lot, which will be of a size not yet announced.

In the accident last July 11, five persons were injured — one seriously — when a section of the bleachers collapsed in a mass of steel rods and wet concrete. No reason for the accident has been found. According to engineering calculations, the supports should have held the approximately 72 tons of concrete which were involved in the accident. Workmen worked at night all summer to overcome the three-week delay caused by the collapse.

When completed, the building will house a basketball arena, a swimming pool, an auxiliary gymnasium, 30 classrooms, offices for staff members and assorted shower, locker and equipment rooms.

The auditorium-arena has been named the E. A. Diddle Arena in honor of Coach Ed Diddle, who is starting his 41st year as coach of the famed Hilltoppers.

Seat 13,000

The three-tiered basketball arena will have a potential seating capacity of 13,000 and will give Western a chance to play home-and-home basketball series with large schools who have declined to come to Bowling Green because of the smallness of the present home of the Hilltoppers. The arena will be convertible to an auditorium with a portable stage.

The 300-foot diameter circular building will house three of the college academic departments. The departments of physical education and military science, now occupants of the present physical education building and another department to be decided upon later will be moved into the new building.

Plans also call for the development of a football practice field on the 12-acre Russellville Road site.

The present gymnasium will be converted to classrooms. The cost of the entire project has been estimated at $2.9 million.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new building were held last November on "Founder's Day," which is held each year as near as possible to the birthday of Dr. H. H. Cherry, founder of our 57-year-old institution.

To indicate the size of the project, a bulldozer was used in the groundbreaking in place of the customary shovel.

WAY UP — This picture of Western's $2.9 million Academic-Athletic Building was taken from the top row of the partially completed bleachers in the corner of the building nearest the Western tennis courts. The clearing below will be the site of the basketball court.

OBSTACLE COURSE—All of this debris will be replaced with a shiny new hardwood floor when the Hilltoppers open their 1963-64 basketball season in the new Diddle Arena. This picture, taken from the side of the new building which faces the New Residence Hall for Women, shows two sides of the partially completed bleachers that will seat 13,000 persons when finished.

YAM Elects Four Sweethearts For H'coming Parade

The Young Americans for Morton held their weekly meeting last Thursday night in Garrett Student Center. The club elected four sweethearts that are to represent them in the Homecoming Parade. They are: Rilla Haight, Pam Baker, Brenda Moore, and Peggy Walker.

Chairman Virgil Hall explained that the club, composed of both Democrats and Republicans, has a three-fold purpose this year:

(1) To stimulate active interest in politics and encourage the registration of every student who is qualified to vote.

(2) To solicit the support of students for Sen. Thruston B. Morton.

(3) To work directly with the party in Warren County for the election of Senator Morton.

The first two objectives are to be achieved by such programs as guest speakers at weekly meetings, and dormitory programs with chairmen in each dormitory for absentee ballot voting.

The third objective will be carried out by student work in county headquarters. Thirty students have volunteered to work during spare time at headquarters until the election is over. The boys will serve as challengers, pass out literature at the polls, and take people to and from the polls to vote. The girls will work at headquarters answering the telephone, serving coffee, and will be available for babysitting duties.

Y. A. M. at Western officially opened Warren county campaign headquarters in downtown Bowling Green last week on 10th St., directly across from the County Courthouse.

A committee of seven people, who are John Chumley, Rilla Haight, Dena Stoess, Earl Forsythe, Martina Burchest, Joan Sagabiel, and Shirley Fowler, were put in full charge of decorating and opening headquarters. A cordial invitation is extended to the student body of Western to visit headquarters.

The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday night, October 25, at 7:30, in the Student Center. A guest speaker will be present to address the group.

Giant Crane Being Used In Construction Of Dorm

FROM THE INSIDE UP will be the building procedure on the new 11-story "skyscraper" men's dormitory with this tall steel crane made in Denmark and leased by Robert C. Crouch Co., Memphis, contractors. Built on a concrete pad in the center of the dormitory site, the crane will cut down on labor requirements.

The new 11-story "skyscraper" men's dormitory under construction at Western will be the tallest building in Southern Kentucky.

But the amount of manual labor involved in moving materials into the structure may be even less than that for a single-story building.

The reason is the tall steel crane that has become a part of Western's campus skyline.

Made in Denmark and leased by the Robert C. Crouch Construction Company of Memphis, contractor for dormitory job, the crane will handle all materials going into the building.

L. T. Smith, Western's Physical Plant Administrator, explained, "The new dormitory is ideally suited for the use of this type of crane. The longest lines of the building are vertical rather than horizontal. This will allow the contractor to set up the crane so that it can handle everything without having to be moved laterally during construction."

The crane, erected here by the Covington Machinery and Construction Company, a local concern, is built on a concrete pad in the center of the dormitory site. The vertical portion of it is approximately 50 feet high, with a 82-foot beam jutting from it that can be rotated in a complete circle. Equipped throughout with electrical motors and winches, the crane can lift 4,400 pounds.

From its present location on the ground, the crane can be utilized for the first four floors of the dormitory. After the completion of the first four floors, it will be shored upward into a position from which it can handle the next four floors.

This shoring-up process continues until the building is complete. This particular model of the crane is capable of handling materials for buildings up to 300 feet in height.

"This crane is one of the few of its kind being used in the United States right now," said Smith. "One in Atlanta and another in Muncie, Ind., are the only others I know of in this section of the country."

What Do All Colleges Have In Common? Boys!

By Bonnie Lyle

Some colleges have a lot to offer academically. Some colleges have a lot to offer socially. Some colleges have a lot to offer status-wise. But one thing they all offer is boys.

Now I don't care much for boys, having been an independent old maid since the day I was born. But a lot of girls really CARE for boys, you know. Of course, that is their privilege. Most girls couldn't care less for girls, but BOYS, now that is a different story.

How many girls do you know who would type a 15-page research paper for another girl? Or spend the day watching another girl work out on the tennis court, or sit up half the night writing a critical analysis for a girl, or work her math problems, or coach her in history, or help her wash her car? No, you don't know any either.

I guess Mother Nature didn't know any either when she started sorting out the blue and pink bundles, so if it's okay with her, it's okay with me.

Now—boys—they are different. Mother Nature planned it that way, probably. They are loyal, subservient, helpful, pests, good-looking, sloppy, nice, risqué, gone on themselves, eager to please, meddlesome, shy, aggressive, bold, arrogant, nonchalant or they couldn't care less.

But now the difference — a lot of boys would type a 15-page research paper for another boy—for $15. A lot of boys would spend the day watching another boy work out on the court — trying to spot his weak points and figure a sneak attack on him. A lot of boys would sit up half the night and write a critical analysis for another boy—in return for his car for a week; they would also work another boy's math problem—in return for an economics test; they would also coach another boy in history — for a set of four point spinners or they would help another boy wash his car for a couple of infallible doctors excuses.

I guess that is why they say boys will be boys; but girls will be girls—only for boys.

The annual affair, sponsored by the Art club and Faculty, will have on display outstanding prints by local students from the last four years. Many of the prints are award winners of both local and regional competition.

Dr. E. G. Monroe issues a personal invitation to everyone to attend the coffee and exhibit, which last year drew a homecoming crowd of well over 200 people.
