

Western Kentucky University

TopSCHOLAR®

---

WKU Archives Records

WKU Archives

---

6-11-1984

UA11/1 On Campus

WKU Public Affairs

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.wku.edu/dlsc\_ua\_records

Part of the Higher Education Administration Commons, Journalism Studies Commons, Mass Communication Commons, and the Organizational Communication Commons

---

This Newsletter is brought to you for free and open access by TopSCHOLAR®. It has been accepted for inclusion in WKU Archives Records by an authorized administrator of TopSCHOLAR®. For more information, please contact topscholar@wku.edu.

ON CAMPUS

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY
ARCHIVES

Western Kentucky University

June 11, 1984

PALMORE AND BUTLER TO TAKE OATH JUNE 22

John S. Palmore, former Kentucky chief justice, and Danny Butler, a Greensburg attorney, will receive the oath of office as members of the university's Board of Regents Friday, June 22 in the Regents Conference Room.

Palmore, 66, is a native of Ancon, Canal Zone, and served as chief justice of the State Supreme Court from 1977 to 1982. He attended WKU from 1934-36 and earned his L.L.B. at the University of Louisville in 1939.

His appointment replaces Chairman of the Board Joe Bill Campbell.

Butler, 37, is a 1970 graduate of WKU and is a member of the law firm of Butler, Butler and Hudson in Greensburg.

He holds a bachelor's degree in government and earned his law degree from the University of Louisville in 1973.

His appointment replaces Ronald Sheffer of Henderson.

Both will serve through March 31, 1990.

***

CO-OP ED GETS MAJOR GRANT

The Cooperative Education Center has been awarded a $466,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Education to strengthen and expand WKU's cooperative education program over the next three years.

These large scale comprehensive grants are very competitive, and only five to ten institutions across the nation receive similar funding each year.

The money awarded to WKU will be used to expand the centralized co-op staff and provide stipend support for faculty coordinators from departments on campus, says Patricia Brelsford, director of cooperative education.

***

(Over)

Contact: Sheila Conway, Editor

24 TO PARTICIPATE IN JUNIOR SCHOLARS PROGRAM

Twenty-four high school honor students have received scholarships to participate in Western Kentucky University's 1984 Summer Junior Scholar Program.

The students, who will be seniors in high school this fall, will attend classes during WKU's summer session June 11 through Aug. 2, and are eligible to take up to nine semester hours of college course work.

In addition, participants will attend a humanities seminar.

The purpose of Western's Junior Scholar Program is to provide an early introduction to college work and college life, and Dr. Sam McFarland, professor of psychology, is director of the program this summer. Students were chosen on the basis of superior grades and aptitude test scores.

***

PRINS VISTS AREA "JUST OPENED TO MANKIND" ON CHILEAN STREAMS STUDY

Dr. Rudolph Prins, professor of biology, who is in Valdivia, Chile studying the quality of life in streams, writes that his stay has returned "200 percent of my investment back in terms of professional experience and appreciation for an area unknown, by and large, to North Americans."

Prins received an award from the Organization of American States, a United Nations organization, to spend the spring semester at the Zoology Institute of the University of Austral. He's been teaching and doing research for the region of Chile known as the "fisherman's paradise," helping develop baseline data of the quality of streams in the area, which is abundant in small bodies of water.

"I have travelled very widely, especially south of Valdivia, working rivers and streams," he writes. He says he's seen nearly all of the major lakes and volcanoes, been to the Strait of Magellan and been to a wilderness "just opened to mankind. What a thrill to be first to work the area."

He's teaching about freshwater invertebrates. "The university is very strong in aquatics; they bend over backwards to make my stay comfortable," he writes, adding, "the feelings toward Americans are very good. There is no need to feel embarrassed practicing Spanish on them," he joked, adding, "After all, they love to practice English on me."

He'll return to WKU at the end of the month.

***

(More)

THREE GET UNIVERSITY'S TOP ACADEMIC SCHOLARSHIP

Three freshmen this fall have been awarded Alumni Leadership Scholarships, the highest academic award given by the University.

George Wayne Bush of Scottsville, Kristie Lynn Foulke of Philpot, and Beverly Kay Kirk of Burkesville each have been awarded $2,000 for the academic year 1984-85, renewable each year. The WKU Alumni Association makes the awards annually to high school seniors entering WKU who show leadership accomplishments and potential.

***

TALISMAN GETS TOUTED AGAIN

The Talisman, student yearbook, has received the nation's highest award in scholastic journalism for the fourth time.

The 1983 Talisman was one of six university yearbooks, and the only book in Kentucky, to receive the Pacemaker Award from the Associated Collegiate Press at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Editor of the 1983 book was Carol J. Smith, a 1984 WKU graduate from Hopkinsville, and Danna Eberhard, a 1983 graduate from Evansville, Ind., was managing editor. Yearbook adviser is Terry VanderHeyden.

The Talisman has received the award or been named a runner-up since the award originated in 1980.

***

WKU TO OFFER NURSING CLASSES IN OWENSBORO

WKU is completing plans to offer upper division courses in nursing in Owensboro this fall.

They'll be coordinated by Owensboro Education Program Executive Director George Overstreet, and two support courses for the bachelor of science degree will be offered.

Last February, the District Eight Kentucky Nurses Association adopted a resolution to seek more nursing education opportunities in the area comprising the counties of Daviess, Ohio, Henderson, Grayson, Breckinridge, McLean and Union, which have had limited access to nursing education programs.

Western's proposal is a direct response to the KNA's resolution, said President Zacharias, to members of the Owensboro program's advisory council.

***

(Over)

WORKSHOPS WILL HOST ACADEMICALLY TALENTED YOUTHS

The department of teacher education will host three workshops this summer focusing on high ability students, under the director of Dr. Julia Roberts.

A three-week residential program for verbally and mathematically precocious youths, (a first for Kentucky) will be held on campus July 8-28 for seventh and eighth grade students who participated in the 1983 or 1984 Duke University talent search and earned a qualifying score on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. Students will attend one fast-paced, challenging course six hours a day Mondays through Fridays and three hours on Saturdays, says Dr. Roberts.

A workshop for parents and teachers of gifted students Friday, June 15 will discuss strategies for enhancing the potential of gifted, creative and talented students. Joyce Juntune, executive director of the National Association of Gifted Students, will be the keynote-speaker.

A summer camp for academically talented junior high students is planned for June 24-July 6. Youngsters will live on campus and take classes designed especially for them.

***

WHO'S "BIG RED"?

Two students have been selected to portray Big Red, university mascot, for next year.

Elizabethtown junior O'Brian McKinley will portray Big Red and Lexington junior Jessica Rappaport will serve as alternate.

McKinley, a broadcasting major, was alternate last year. Rappaport, a public relations major, is the first female to wear the Big Red suit.

Only full-time students are eligible to audition for the part, and two scholarships are awarded to the winners provided by Pepsi-Cola and Jones, Nance and Steineman.

Big Red averages 50 public appearances a year, in addition to men's and women's sporting events.

Ralph Carey, a Western student, created Big Red in 1979 and portrayed him that first season. Since then Mark Greer, a 1983 graduate, and Skip Cleavinger, a Paducah junior, have portrayed the furry red mascot who has won numerous awards since he was created.

***

(More)

CAMPUS WILL HOST 'FRENCH CONNECTION'

WKU will host 27 French university-age students next month as part of a travel/study program arranged by Western's Office of International Programs through Anglophiles Academic of London, England.

Jan Chamberlin, a Spanish and French teacher at Bowling Green High School, will direct the program, and BGHS will assist with arrangements for the students' stay in Bowling Green.

WKU's visitors are seeking to improve their English proficiency while gaining first-hand knowledge of American culture and civilization, according to Mary Ann McCelvey, international programs.

They'll be here July 2-25.

***

AND ON ANOTHER INTERNATIONAL NOTE:

WKU is exploring arrangements for a student exchange program with Kansai University of Foreign Studies in Osaka, Japan, that may allow one student from each institution to study on the cooperating school's campus for one year on a reciprocal basis. The students would pay tuition fees to their home institution and study at the other.

A knowledge of Japanese wouldn't be a prerequisite, but enrollment in Japanese language courses would be.

The Office of International Programs says the first exchange could take place in 1985.

***

DINNER THEATRE OPENS FRIDAY

Ticket sales are going well for the Hilltopper Dinner Theatre, which opens Friday at 6:30 p.m. in Garrett Conference Center Ballroom, say theatre organizers.

The first production Friday, Saturday and Sunday and June 22-24 is "Move Over Mrs. Markham." "The Boyfriend," the theatre's second premiere, opens June 29.

Tickets are $12.50 for adults and $10 for children under 12. Call the WKU ticket office or make reservations at 5222. Dinner's at 6:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 1 p.m. Sundays.

***

LOOKING FOR A FULBRIGHT?

June 15th's the last day to apply in the Fulbright Scholar Awards competition for Australia, India, Latin America and the Caribbean, and Sept. 15 is the deadline for Africa, Asia (except India), Europe and the Middle East.

Some 800 awards are obtained from agencies and embassies abroad by the Council for International Exchange of Scholars through the U.S. Information Agency.

Fulbright Scholar Awards are available in all academic fields and in a wide range of professions. This year's offerings include 275 awards for postdoctoral research, about a third of the total. The remainder are for college and university lecturing or for consultative or teaching positions with governmental bodies or other professional institutions, such as hospitals, orchestras and theatres, museums and cultural centers, and the news media.

This past year, WKU had three faculty Fulbright winners, an exceptional number from one institution.

More than 100 countries in all areas of the world offer awards under the Fulbright Program, which was begun in 1947 to promote mutual understanding between citizens of the U.S. and other nations.

The Office of Academic Affairs has the list of available awards and applications.

***

FOR THE READING LIST...

There's a sequel to a widely publicized national report presented to President Reagan last May that discusses how the bond between two long-standing American partners--business and institutions of higher learning--can be enhanced, before it's too late.

Corporate and Campus Cooperation: An Action Agenda, is available via the Business - Higher Education Forum, One Dupont Circle, Suite 800, Washington, D.C. 20036.

The report discusses the problem of international competitiveness facing American business and the financial erosion of American colleges and universities, and it endorses areas of "special need for incremental funding in the 1980s," eight specific priorities that represent the consensus of more than 1,000 college presidents.

The Business-Higher Education Forum is comprised of 80 corporate and academic chief executive officers, and they're affiliated with the American Council on Education.

***

(More)

TV RELIGION IS BOOMING BUSINESS, SAYS WKU AUTHOR

Who's likely to watch television preachers, who they are, what's behind their emergence--even into politics--are answered by Dr. Jerry Cardwell, head of sociology, anthropology and social work in his new book, "Mass Media Christianity: Televangelism and the Great Commission," scheduled for publication this summer.

"When one thinks of television ministry barely 10 years old, it's a real phenomenon," says Cardwell, whose book is one of yet a handful written about the booming business of TV religion. It's designed to give the general reader some understanding of mass media Christianity as a social movement.

"We believe that the people who watch and contribute to the television ministry--the mass media membership--are a significant factor in any understanding of the social forces present in American society today," he says.

Cardwell covers everything from profiles of some of the more famous televangelists (Jim Bakker, Pat Robertson, Jimmy Swaggart, Jerry Falwell and lots more) to profiles of people who've gone to the electronic church, giving background on what's caused Christian television to how the TV preachers have turned on their viewers.

Because TV preachers already have "a long entourage of 'doubting Thomases,'" Cardwell says he's not out to criticize them.

"We've tried to describe the methods and the apparent goals of television preachers as we understand them," he says. "Clearly, we have no way of getting inside the minds of the media ministers and discovering their 'true' goals, desires and aspirations, but we have wondered through what process those people who do claim to 'know' the honesty and integrity of the TV preachers actually acquire that knowledge," he says.

***

"WHAT? ME WORRY?" SOME ADVICE WORTH NOTING...

DR. HENRY BAUGHMAN, associate professor of health, speaking to the clerical section of the Kentucky Public Health Association at its annual meeting, talked about the effects of stress and its relation to health.

"What is stress for one may be motivation for another," he said. "It depends on how the individual views stress or copes with it. Change is one of the major stress factors, and exercise is one of the primary coping mechanisms, along with getting organized and relaxing," he says.

***

(Over)

CARLTON JACKSON'S 'HOUNDS OF THE ROAD' COLORS GREYHOUND BUS COMPANY

Three quarters of a century of the Greyhound Bus Company hasn't been documented anywhere like Dr. Carlton Jackson's chronicled in Hounds of the Road, his latest book (his ninth), published by Kendall/Hunt.

It's not an "official history," says Jackson. Rather, Hounds of the Road is told from the human angle and is a "social history."

WKU's professor of history decided to ride a bus to a professional meeting in Dayton, Ohio four years ago, and that's how the book got started.

Travelling more buses and talking with people who ride them, writing about shared experiences of former Greyhound employees, primarily drivers, even going to a convention of retired drivers, comprised a great deal of his research, also documented from Wyoming, New York, Chicago, Washington, Trenton, San Francisco "and a whole bunch of other places," he says.

The stories "are true," says Jackson. They are also "false, sad, funny, sexy, dirty and just plain silly."

Jackson, a keen observer who's written on a myriad of subjects in his career (his tenth book is underway about the evacuation of English children in World War II), couldn't help but be intrigued by the stories told by his fellow passengers on that 1980 bus ride to Dayton. One group included "professional riders" who'd been on the bus four days from Miami.

"Then the bus driver got to telling me stories, and by the time everything was over it had occurred to me that a good social history, not a dry history, would be in order. I didn't look at a single board minute, and didn't want to," he says.

Some help came from the Greyhound public relations department, but when he got into his research, Jackson was promptly cold-shouldered by Greyhound management, mainly due to a historical tendency their top personnel have to be well thought of in the public image, even to the point of manipulation, Jackson observes.

A history professor "trying to stir up things" could be of no assistance to the company, he said. But a history professor has a fun book about some people and "wheeling and dealing" that's delightful, and colors a company that's been grey for 75 years.

***

About You

---

CONGRATULATIONS to 1984 faculty excellence award winners, DR. JERRY BOLES, College of Business Administration; DR. LEROY P. METZE, College of Education; GLEN CONNER, Ogden College; DR. THOMAS BALDWIN, Potter College; and Alumni Association sponsored award winners, DR. CARROLL WELLS, mathematics, for teaching; DR. WILLIAM LANE, philosophy and religion, for research; and EVELYN THURMAN, library services, for public service.

***

From Anthropology:

DUANE ANDREWS has been reappointed to the Governor's Task Force on Mental Health for a three-year term.

*

WILL BERRY has been reappointed as regional representative for the American Kidney Fund.

***

NANCY BAIRD, associate professor and librarian in the Kentucky Library, addressed the National Council on Public History at its annual conference in Los Angeles, on public history for public schools. She discussed workshops conducted since summer 1981 by three faculty members from WKU's Kentucky Library, Kentucky Museum, and History Department.

***

ROBERT BAXTER and WILLIAM MOORE of the department of industrial and engineering technology presented a paper on integrating computing into the engineering curriculum at the Regents' Conference on Higher Education in Nashville, Tenn.

The theme of the conference was "Meeting the Challenge of Technology" and focused on how colleges and universities can use new computer and telecommunication technologies to enhance the educational process. The three-day conference was attended by more than 800 university faculty and administrators.

***

Members of the biology department participated in the 45th annual meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists at Memphis State University.

KENNETH FLAHERTY, a student, won second place in paper competition for a presentation about a project he studied under the supervision of DR. ROBERT FARINA of the chemistry department. Student ROBERT CAUDILL served as vice president of the business meeting attended by student members of Beta Beta Beta.

DR. JOE WINSTEAD served as chairman of a plant ecology session and is a member of the executive committee.

DR. WINSTEAD, DR. FRANK TOMAN AND PAUL BAYER, a graduate student, also presented papers at the meeting. The group consists of 1,250 professional biologists.

***

(Over)

DR. STAN BRUMFIELD, director of the University Counseling Services Center, was awarded practitioner certification by the Society of Neuro-Linguistic Programming, and was honored recently by the South Central Institute of NLP at a banquet in New Orleans.

***

SHARON DENISE CELSOR, a graduate student in folk studies, has been selected by a nationwide application process to intern at the American Association of State and Local History in Nashville, Tenn. this summer.

The association is one of the country's most prestigious historical agencies, says her adviser, Dr. Jay Anderson.

***

DR. CAROL CROWE-CARRACO, professor of history, was spring banquet speaker for the American Association of University Women, and she presented a slide-lecture on "A History of Bowling Green, 1750-1920."

***

DR. DAVID DUNN, head of the department of health and safety, was voted president-elect of the Kentucky Public Health Association. DR. DUNN has also served as vice president of the association.

***

DR. LARRY ELLIOTT and DR. FRANK TOMAN, professors of biology, have received summer Ogden Foundation Fellowships of $3,300 each to travel and gather information from colleagues to enhance their own instructional fields.

DR. ELLIOTT is working with a biologist at the University of Louisville and is conducting lab research on microorganisms.

DR. TOMAN is at Kansas State University in genetic engineering, participating in a hands-on use of recombinant DNA techniques.

***

From the English department:

BETTY KING, a graduate student, has just had a book published, Women of the Future: the Female Main Character in Science Fiction, published by Scarecrow Press.

*

The following recently presented papers and participated in programs at professional meetings:

Joe Boggs, Dr. Nancy Davis, Ann Fields, Dr. Will Fridy, Brenda Martin, Dr. Charles Meyer, Mary Ellen Miller, Patricia Taylor, Dr. Joe Glaser, Charles Guthrie, Dr. John Hagaman, Gretchen Niva, Pauline Jones and Dr. James Flynn.

*

(More)

DR. JOHN HAGAMAN and DR. KAREN PELZ have articles appearing in The Journal of Advanced Composition. Also, DR. PELZ has a freshman composition text, Exploratory Writing, scheduled for publication by Kendall/Hunt in July.

***

LT. DAVID FENWICK was selected Police Officer for 1984 by the department of Public Safety. He's been with WKU since 1978. Campus police selected him, an annual tradition of local, state and federal law enforcement agencies.

***

Members of the Department of Geography and Geology attended and participated in the annual meeting of the Association of American Geographers in Washington, D.C. on geography and public policy. On the program were: DR. NICHOLAS CRAWFORD, DR. RONALD DILAMARTER, DR. WAYNE HOFFMAN, DR. JAMES L. DAVIS, DR. CONRAD MOORE, DR. ALBERT PETERSEN JR., DR. MICHAEL TRAPASSO AND GEORGE VENI.

***

DR. GLEN LOHR, professor of health and safety, has been voted president-elect by two organizations: the Health Education Consortium of Kentucky and the Kentucky Association of School Health.

***

VIRGINIA MUTCHLER and JUANITA HIRE, associate professors of teacher education, presented a paper on teacher assessment at the international Convocation of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in education in Montreal, Canada. Both also served as presiders at thematic sessions. Mutchler, counselor for Western's XI PI Chapter, represented the chapter as delegate.

***

DR. RONALD NASH, head, philosophy and religion, lectured in Grand Rapids, Mich. on Christianity and the Hellenistic World, and in Spokane, Wash., he spoke on social justice and the Christian church.

DR. NASH has published his 12th book, Liberation Theology (Mott Media).

***

DR. J.T. SANDEFUR, dean of the College of Education, has been selected as vice chair of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. He'll chair the organization in November. It's the third top national office he's been elected to, having previously served as president of the American Association of Colleges of Teacher Education and as president of the Teacher Education Council of State Colleges and Universities.

***

(Over)

DR. JOHN A. SCARBOROUGH has been honored for his outstanding classroom teaching by Kappa Delta Pi education honorary.

The Zeta Gamma Chapter at Troy State University nominated "Dr. John," retired professor of education, for the society's prestigious Honor Key for service to his institution and profession.

He has been a member of Kappa Delta Pi for 20 years, and retired from WKU last year.

***

From Sociology:

DR. FUAD BAALI will spend the 1984-85 school year in the Middle East studying the urbanization processes in Kuwait, Atar, Oman, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain.

*

In addition to publishing his book about televangelism (see p. ), DR. JERRY CARDWELL has been appointed to the program subcommittee of the Southern Sociological Society 50th Anniversary Committee. He presented several papers at professional meetings in the spring and published with DR. TOM DUNN an article on television and children in Psychology: A Quarterly Journal of Human Behavior.

*

DR. KIRK DANSEREAU has been invited to return to Middle East Technical University in Ankara, Turkey, where he served as a Fulbright Lecturer in the department of sociology in 1965-66. He has just been appointed to a three-year term on the editorial board of Sociological Spectrum.

*

ANN GOETTING presented a paper and organized a panel at the 1984 conference of the Western Social Science Association in San Diego. She published two papers this spring.

*

DR. JAMES W. GRIMM and DR. TOM DUNN have an article in publication in Sociology of Work and Occupations on the contemporary foreman status.

*

THOMAS ISHERWOOD, JANET HENRY, and VERNON MOORE presented a paper at the mid-south Sociological Association annual meeting. ISHERWOOD also co-authored a paper with DR. JERRY CARDWELL that was presented at the Southern Sociological Society meeting. Isherwood has been elected chair of the southern branch of the Kentucky Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers and has been elected as a board member of the Kentucky Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

*

(More)

DR. KATHY KALAB presented a paper on a rural foster grandparent program at the Western Gerontological Society meeting at Anaheim, Cal. Last month, at the request of the Japan Center of Tennessee, she presided at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville campus at a lecture on governmental policy and the Japanese elderly.

*

DR. PAUL WOZNIAK presented a paper with DR. JERRY CARDWELL on the corporate elite and societal impression management at the North Central Sociological Society meeting in Indianapolis.

***

Coming Up

---

- June 11-12 Small Business Development Center will sponsor a free small business tax workshop at the Chamber of Commerce Office, 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. to noon Tuesday. Call 2901 for more information.
- Tuesday, June 12 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Luchtime Learning at the Kentucky Museum. Subject: The ABCs of Quiltmaking. Call 2592 for more information.
- Tuesday, June 12 Small Business Development Center will sponsor a one-day seminar for managers of businesses on improving office automation in Grise Hall, Room 335, 7 a.m. Call 2901 for more information.
- Friday, June 15 8 a.m. to 4:10 p.m. Workshop for Parents and Teachers of Gifted Students will be held in CEB. Theme: Strategies for Enhancing the Potential of Gifted, Creative and Talented Students. Call Dr. Julia Roberts, coordinator, 2157.
- Friday, June 15 WKU Hilltopper Dinner Theatre opens tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Garrett Conference Center Ballroom, featuring "Move Over Mrs. Markham". Call 3296 for more information or 5222 for ticket reservations. Cost: $12.50 for adults, $10 for children.
- June 17-23 Elderhostel Program will be offered for persons age 60 or over wishing to return to college for a week. Call the Office of Public Service and Continuing Education at 3041 for details.
- Tuesday, June 19 Luchtime Learning Program, Kentucky Museum.
- June 20-21 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. 25th annual Book and Audio-Visual Exhibit. For more information call 4896.
- June 20-21 Tenth annual Summer Reading Retreat, CEB. Theme: 10: Quest for Gold. Call Dr. Robert Panchyshyn, coordinator, at 4541.

(Over)

- Friday, June 22 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Seventh annual Early Childhood Conference, CEB, Young Children--the Exceptional. Call Sara Taylor, chairperson, at 3593.
- June 24-July 6 Academically Talented Junior High Students Summer Camp for 7th and 8th graders. Call Dr. Julia Roberts, 2157, for more details.
- June 25-29 Children's Victorian Workshop will be held at the Kentucky Museum. Call 2592 for more information.
- Tuesday, June 26 Noon. WKU Women's Alliance will meet in the Auxiliary Dining Room, DUC. Panel: Women in Support Areas and Business Affairs.
- Friday, June 29 8 a.m. to 4:10 p.m. Seventh annual Summer Mathematics Retreat, CEB. Theme: The Key--Motivation! Call Dr. James Hicks, chairperson, at 3593 for more information.
- Friday, June 29 WKU's Hilltopper Dinner Theatre premieres "The Boyfriend" in Garrett Conference Center Ballroom at 6:30 p.m. Call 3296 for more information, or 5222 for reservations.
- Tuesday, July 3 WKYU-FM will air a live concert from Grant Park in Chicago at 8 p.m. Call Pam Younglove at 5489 for more details.
- Wednesday, July 4 WKYU-FM will air two concerts as part of its special Independence Day programming. At 7 p.m. the Cincinnati Pops will perform live at the opening of riverbend. At 8:45 p.m. The Minnesota Orchestra will present a fireworks concert. Call 5489 for more information.
- July 8-14 Elderhostel program for persons age 60 and over. Call 3041 for more information.
- July 8-28 WKU Summer Program for Verbally and Mathematically Precocious Youths is sponsored by the department of teacher education. Call Dr. Julia Roberts, coordinator, for more information at 2157.
- Friday, July 13 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Storytelling Conference will be held in CEB. George Shannon of Wisconsin and Elizabeth Ellis of Texas will be the featured storytellers. Theme: Stories from Around the World. Call Vera Guthrie, chairperson, at 3446 for more details.