

A Fort Washington, a Stockade and
a. a. a. Block-Houses, Detachment.

A Sketch of

Cincinnati and Fort Washington, as they appeared in 1789 and 1790 (or rather, as they would have appeared, had there been no words to intercept the view) from the heights in the rear of Newport, Kentucky. At that time there were only eight or ten log cabins; and also an ill built frame house, on Main Street, not here laid down. The whole covered with forests.

T H E O H I O

