Dear Herschel,-

Let me suggest to you that, if instead of getting an appropriation for a public building here, you would get an appropriation to open up Barren River so that your constituents in the upper Counties could get to the world with their products and timber, &c., you would prove yourself a lover of your race, especially the poor and it would give you a hold on public life that nothing could take from you. Take a map and trace the River and think of what I say. I don't believe the custom house would do much good, and would defeat the other.

Your friend,

B. F. Procter.
