9-12-1937

His Memorial is Western State

Silas Bent

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/exhibit_2015

Part of the Higher Education Administration Commons, History Commons, and the Journalism Studies Commons

Recommended Citation
http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/exhibit_2015/11
The building at the extreme top of the hill site, in the left of the main shot, is the Kentucky Building, which houses a museum of Kentuckyiana, among other things. (The buildings shown separately, the one at the left is H. H. Cherry Hall, accepted this fall for the first time. The other is the library.)

His Memorial Is Western State

The college at Bowling Green has 4,000 students and $3,000,000 buildings in large part because H. H. Cherry insisted on giving it his property and his life

---

Puddled Behind Ozan

This city has been known as the 'Ozan' to the instructors and a brother three days or in the fall because of the proximity to the University of Cincinnati. The weekly benefit of the city is $3,000,000. Selling his property and his life, H. H. Cherry insisted on giving it his property and his life.

Offered School to State

Looking at Franklin for the hill, Mr. Cherry continued to give a description of the school. When he was asked about the future of the school, he said, "We are now in the process of offering the school to the State of Kentucky."

---

Fifty Schools Then

In 1809 the school was founded by the students and many students have been taught in it. Mr. Cherry has been teaching there for 40 years and has made many improvements.

---

Stale to State?

In 1809 the school was founded by the students and many students have been taught in it. Mr. Cherry has been teaching there for 40 years and has made many improvements.

---

Led Teacher Training More

To the extent that many were involved in the school, the school was better known for its teachers than its students. The school was founded by H. H. Cherry and has been taught in it for 40 years. The school was started by the teachers and many students have been taught in it.