RN to BSN Students Participate in Health Fair

Sixteen students enrolled in WKU’s on-line RN to BSN program participated in a health fair organized by four nursing faculty members. The health fair took place at the UPS center in Bowling Green on March 15th. Forty-six employees visited various health promotion displays including arthritis, high blood pressure, sun safety, diabetes, healthy back practices, hand washing, healthy heart, and cholesterol/diet/BMI.

The students pictured are Jan Boarman, Dustie Barnett, Dee Edwards, Melissa Ebelhar, Kim Gowen, Sandra Gross, Sara Hodskins, Bethany Kinney, Ashley Kirk, Robin Madison, Ayme Rowland, Michelle Sharp, Robin Sewell, Angela Storie, Jennifer Waterbury, and Terri Webb. They were from Bowling Green, Owensboro, Smiths Grove, Albany, Greenville, and Oakland.

Faculty attending were Dr. Cathy Abell, Ms. Tonya Bragg-Underwood, Ms. Kathleen Riley, and Dr. Deborah Williams.

School of Nursing Faculty Achieves NCC National Certification

NCC is pleased to announce that Kimberly Botner has successfully met the requirements to maintain the NCC national credential as a Women’s Health Care Nurse Practitioner (WHC).

The credential is earned by meeting educational and/or practice requirements and taking a rigorous examination that covers the specified specialty areas.

Kimberly Botner joins the over 100,000 health care professionals that have earned the prestigious NCC credential since 1975. Maintenance of the credential is required every three years and involves a continuing competency assessment and earning continuing education.
NCC congratulates Kimberly Botner on achieving this professional milestone.

NCC is a not for profit organization that sponsors a national certification program in the obstetric, gynecologic and neonatal specialties. NCC is accredited by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies. Please visit nccwebsite.org for more information about NCC and NCC credentials.
