

Fall 2011

A Student's Guide to Overcoming the Pressure to Succeed in Higher Education [brochure and video]

Amber R. Sellers

Western Kentucky University, amber.sellers@wku.edu

Tori Holmes

Western Kentucky University, tori.holmes@wku.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/cns_apps

Part of the Health Psychology Commons, and the Student Counseling and Personnel Services Commons

Recommended Citation

Sellers, Amber R. and Holmes, Tori, "A Student's Guide to Overcoming the Pressure to Succeed in Higher Education [brochure and video]" (2011). Counseling Concepts and Applications for Student Affairs Professionals (CNS 577). Paper 20.
http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/cns_apps/20

This Other is brought to you for free and open access by TopSCHOLAR®. It has been accepted for inclusion in Counseling Concepts and Applications for Student Affairs Professionals (CNS 577) by an authorized administrator of TopSCHOLAR®. For more information, please contact topscholar@wku.edu.

Where does all the Stress & Pressure come from in college?

As the millennial generation reaches college campuses they bring higher test scores and abilities, but also more pressure to succeed. This is leading to increased stress levels all across college campuses within the United States. Students report having stress in many areas of their lives. Sometimes this stress results from internal expectations based on high school abilities or unrealistic goals. Other times, this stress is the results of pressure from family and friends.

In an age where students feel “every action should build toward their future life or career,” stress seems inevitable. With so much going on and only 24 hours in day, 7 hours a week, approximately 16 weeks, and 3 semesters a year, there is just not time to do it all. Yet, most students feel as though it is a requirement.

If you feel this same way, this brochure will provide you with some techniques and resources on campus to help you handle your stress.

REFERENCES:

- Howe, N., & Strauss, W. (2003). Millennials go to college. Executive Summary for American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Offices.
- Levine, M. (2005, February) College Graduates Aren't Ready for the Real World. The Chronicle of Higher Education: The Chronicle Review. Retrieved from <http://chronicle.com/article/College-Graduates-Aren-t/3743>
- National Health Ministries. (2006.) Stress and the College Student. Retrieved from <http://www.uic.edu/depts/wellctr/docs/Stress%20and%20the%20College%20Student.pdf>
- Newton, F.B. (2000) The New Student. About Campus.
- Reyonlds, A. L. (2009). Helping College Students: Developing essential support skills for student affairs practice. (pp. 23-36). San Francisco, CA : John Wiley & Sons, Inc.
- Tracey, T. & Sedlacek, W. (1985.) The relationship of non-cognitive variables to academic success: A longitudinal comparison by race. Journal of College Student Personnel, 26(5), 405-410.

ACHIEVING SUCCESS:

A Student's Guide to Overcoming the Pressure to Succeed in Higher Education

Amber R. Sellers and Tori Holmes
Western Kentucky University
CNS 577: Counseling in Student Affairs

TECHNIQUES TO HANDLE YOUR STRESS & LIMIT THE PRESSURE:

- Use a Calendar and Planner

Write your assignments, activities, and free time down in your planner. Look and plan ahead to future events. Make sure to set priorities, and take care of first things first.

- Get Involved in Your Interest

Social activities are often considered a good stress, so make sure you are involved with organizations you enjoy.

- Maintain Contact with Family and Friends from Home

Out of sight does not mean they have to be out of mind. Stay in touch and let them know what all you are doing. It will help them better understand when you seem as though you don't have time for them.

- Let It Out

Have a trusted friend or mentor to talk to. If these people are on the campus, they probably have shared your experiences.

- Keep A Healthy Lifestyle

YOU ARE NOT ALONE...

75% OF COLLEGE STUDENTS EXPERIENCE STRESS!!!

Some reasons for stress and increased pressure to succeed in ALL aspects of college life include:

- Heavier Academic Load compared to high school
- Parent's Expectations for school performance and your relationship
- Friends expectations of your time
- Involvement in extra-curricular or social organizations
- Time Management
- Need to respond to every text message, email, phone call, and Facebook or Twitter post (Just so you stay updated!)
- Career and Life Planning

CAMPUS RESOURCES TO HELP HANDLE THE PRESSURE:

- Advising Center/ Tutors:

Will help you get your academics on the right path and under control.

- Computer Labs:

Some are open 24 hours, so you can fit study in at any time. Just watch out for social media distractions!

- Health Services:

Most clinics have at least a nurse, but many have general doctors, dietitians, and other allied health professionals.

- Counseling Services:

Counseling provides someone to talk to when you feel like no one else understands.

- Recreational Facilities:

One good way to release stress is to do something physical. Workout, play basketball, or go to an exercise class with some friends.

- Intramural Sports:

Another way to fit in fitness while also having fun with friends. Also, take advantage to try some new sports. Sports

 Most of these are FREE! ***