Biographical/Historical Note: English was one of the original subjects taught at Western Kentucky State Normal School beginning in 1907 and was established as a department in 1918. Several other departments grew out of the English Department including Philosophy & Religion (about 1965), Speech and Theatre (1968), Mass Communication (1970), and the Center for Intercultural & Folk Studies (1972).

The English Department started several other programs. Dr. Cherry made the English Department the home of the College Heights Herald in 1925. Frances Richards was given the task of establishing the Herald and was the advisor until 1964. The Writing Center (Lab) was established in 1972 and the first director was John Reiss from 1972 to 2000. The first departmental study abroad course was a London theatre tour taught by James Heldman in 1972. The English as a Second Language program was begun in 1976. The English Honors Program was established in 1980 with Walker Rutledge as the sponsor. The Robert Penn Warren Center was established in 1986 by Joy Bale Boone and Mary Ellen Miller. And, the Women's Studies Program was established in 1990 with Katie Ward as the director followed by Jane Olmstead in 1996.

The English Department had a graduate program in the 1930s that granted 114 degrees, but was discontinued by the Council on Public Higher Education. A Master of Arts in Education was reestablished in 1941 and grew in the 1960s (the Graduate School of Western was established in 1964). The Master of Arts in English was reinstated in 1966.

The English Department has also sponsored or hosted oratorical contests, lecture series, conferences, and more.

Western Writers
The preface from the Whitman edition states, "We students of Western Kentucky State College interested in creative writing have this fall organized a writers’ group for discussion and mutual criticism and encouragement. Our best efforts will appear in this magazine founded for that purpose."

The second issue clarified that the work in Voices was "other than class-assigned papers" but was open to any style of creative writing. In Vol. X, the request for submissions emphasized the "most purely creative forms" and excluded non-creative work, such as book reviews and journalistic articles.

English Club:
"On Friday evening, Nov. 7, 1924, the English majors met with Mrs. Cherry, Miss Mason, Mr. Leiper, and Mr. Wilson as guests of Miss Mason and Mr. Leiper at Cabal [sic] Hall for the organizing of an English Club. Mr. Leiper explained the purposes of organization into an English Club, which, in main were the study of (a) the general field of English; (b) the English course of study; (c) what is in our library pertaining to English; (d) the newest and best books on English; and (e) English conditions in the high schools of Kentucky."
From the 1924-1925 English Club minute book

The English Club, later known as the Leiper English Club, held regular meetings that generally included presentations by students and members of faculty, who were ex-officio members. The club was very active until the 1960s and seems to have disbanded in the 1970s.

Ted Hovet helped to re-establish the English Club in 1996 and it continues to thrive. Current activities include used book sales, open mic poetry/prose readings, and the 10th annual Goldenrod Festival of Poetry including a poetry writing contest.
