COLLECTION NOTE

This collection consists of oral history interviews with various contemporary and former residents of Russell County, Kentucky. A portion of the interviews were done by Western Kentucky University students for a folk studies class in 1986 and the remainder were conducted by Bobette Buster, between 1983 and 1984, with funding from grants from the Kentucky Oral History Commission and the Kentucky Folklife Foundation under the title, “There Will Always be a Creelsboro.” All of the interviews are on cassette tapes and some include an index, summary, and transcription. Topics include the building of Wolf Creek Dam, teaching in rural schools, gospel music, logging, and local tourism.
