PASSING INSTITUTIONS

The Bachelors

While we are regarding the graduation of the Class of 1917, we should not overlook the fact that the Class of 1927 is graduating.

The campus is alive with the excitement of the occasion. The students are dressed in their finest, and the air is filled with the sound of music and the clapping of hands.

The opening ceremony is attended by the President of the College, the faculty, and the guests of honor.

The graduates receive their diplomas, and the President addresses them. The students are then bidden farewell by the President, and the ceremony concludes.

The baccalaureate service follows, and this is a solemn and stirring event. The students are led in song and prayer, and the graduates are presented with their diplomas by the President.

The next day, the graduates are honored with a reception at the President's house.

A book review by Elizabeth Utterback

MARIA CHAPELLEKINS

translated by Professor Schuyler

This novel is a poignant reminder of the harsh realities of life in the early 20th century. The story follows Maria, a young girl from a humble background, as she struggles to make a living in the city.

The novel is written in a clear and concise style, and the characters are well-developed. The author has a deep understanding of the people and culture of the time, and this is evident in the way he portrays their struggles and triumphs.

Overall, this is a powerful and moving story that will stay with you long after you have finished reading it.

PITCHFORD BACK IN GAME WITH PAD

By Prof. McDonald

Western lost the first Thanksgiving Day football game in its history when the young college of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, scored a surprise upset. Western was defeated, 20-7. With the first Thanksgiving Day football game over, the Westerners were in need of a new coach. The first game was a cover-up, as the team was directly responsible for the loss. The score of 20-7 was a result of two poor plays. The ball on the 30-yard line was fumbled. Westerner wing tackle, G. B. Wilson, recovered the ball and scored. Another fumble occurred on the 30-yard line. Western's tackle and Napoleon's fullback, L. J. White, recovered the ball and scored. The second wing tackle came at the direct result of a 20 yard penalty. This around the Westerners was an embarrassing situation.
