The Great Delusion

Every month sees the prophet and the priest of the delusion of the old world in the same places they were last month. The one, a man of reason, and the other, a man of faith, but both trying to get their ideas into the right hands. They both forget the wrong ideas and the right ideas, and try to get them into the right hands. They both forget that the delusion is the delusion, and the right ideas are the right ideas, but both try to get them into the right hands.

The one, a man of reason, and the other, a man of faith, but both trying to get their ideas into the right hands. They both forget that the delusion is the delusion, and the right ideas are the right ideas, but both try to get them into the right hands.
