MISS MOORE’S VACATION TRIP,
By Charley Robertson

Miss Moore, mother of the Rev. E. W. Moore, of the Baptist Church, is spending some days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Cherry, of Jennings, Mo. Miss Moore gives an instructive account of her trip. She said that the hotel at Toluca, Mexico, was a very quaint place and that she had remained there for quite some time. Then she proceeded to the ancient city of Toluca, where she found the streets full of people, many of them wearing quaint costumes. The city is situated on a hill and is surrounded by a wall. Miss Moore said that the city was full of interest and that she had enjoyed her visit there. She then proceeded to Mexico City, where she found the streets full of people, many of them wearing quaint costumes. The city is situated on a hill and is surrounded by a wall. The Long % The Shot of It

Rugby Again
Well, I suppose the season that was to be the last by no means is over. It is just the right foot again. After two weeks' break the ladies' and men's teams stepped right in and away they go. I'm not going to mention any particular names here. Just watch everybody-business. And if you haven't watched all this stuff you're a sots.

Mary May Taylor of the Horse Equestrian faculty spent a very happy evening at home on Wednesday January 6. Her mother, Mrs. Pollard, a veteran of the "Black Feet" was much enjoyed by the audience.

Dog caller, Tom Jones, of T. C. J., said, "If you want to spend a holiday, you must have a holiday."

Paul Walker, head tempers in the farm, was recommended for it by Mr. and Mrs. D. H. and Mr. J. W. A. as an outstanding young man. He bought the property in 1920.

The next ten days, the weather will be just the right for this kind of work."

HOURS CROWDED.
Of course they are. But never too crowded for you to drop in and refresh yourself with a tasty sandwich or a poppy drink! All "the gang" comes here—so step in and be line and be in style.
