Cigarette blamed for fire

By JAMIE MORTON and STEVE PAUL

A fire that damaged the first floor of Garrett Conference Center early Friday morning is believed to have been caused by burning cigarette left in a lobby chair.

Insurance adjusters hoped to have damage estimates by Friday.

The first floor of the conference center will be closed for at least two months, said Kemble Johnson, assistant physical plant director. But the cafeteria, post office and second floor will remain open.

Those with meetings scheduled for rooms 101 through 106, the memorial room or the executive room should contact David Gordon, staff assistant at the conference center, to cancel or reschedule.

The fire may also delay a proposed move of the journalism department, the College Heights Herald and the Tallman to Garrett.

Although state police investigations have been completed, the definitive cause and the extent of the damage have not been released. The state police arson investigator's report ruled out arson and listed a cigarette as the probable cause.

Gene Whalen, university safety inspector, said people were smoking in the lobby before it closed. "We ruled out everything else that had to be it."

Campus police were called to the conference center around 12:15 a.m. — when the fire was believed to have started. The Bowling Green Fire Department was on the scene for about two hours. The fire was small, Whalen said, and the firemen's main job was to control the smoke.

Fire damage was limited, Whalen said; four chairs, a table and a lamp were ruined. The major damage was caused by smoke from the burning vinyl chairs. The closed doors, he said, helped keep the smoke from reaching the ballroom and cafeteria.

Insurance adjusters on campus yesterday hoped to have an estimate Friday.

Lt. Joseph Gentry, left, and Lt. Horace Johnson inspect three destroyed chairs. The fire occurred around 1 a.m.

Musicians create tuba holiday with foolishness

By MARK EBLEN

The atmosphere was relaxed as the tuba and euphonium players walked out onto the stage Friday night to play some "Tuba Foolishness."

The members of the Tuba Ensemble were clad in everything from a flowered Hawaiian shirt to a tuxedo.

Then Pat Pickett, the ensemble's director, entered the recital hall in the fine arts center, carrying the group's score. After tuning the seven tubas and four euphoniums, he turned to the audience and explained the purpose of the concert.

"Today's Tuba Foolishness Day because tuba players are a unique breed of music," he said.

"They tend to do things different from the norm. In the pieces we're going to play for you tonight, they're going to play the melody — something tubas never get to do."

Pickett, a graduate assistant from the University of Kentucky, got the idea by Tuba Foolishness Day from Octoberfest, an annual festival for tuba players started by Harvey Phillips of Indiana University.

People have invented other tuba holidays such as Tuba Christmas and Tuba 4th of July, and he said he thought April Fool's Day would be an appropriate time for another one. And, he said, he hopes Tuba Foolishness Day will become an annual event at Western University.

Before the ensemble began its performance, Pickett told the audience to "feel free to clap, scream and jump up and down" if the mood struck.

"This concert is for you all," he said.

The ensemble then performed "El Capitan," by John Philip Sousa and "Tuba Juba Dubs," by Terry Hutchinson.

And while the rest of the ensemble took a break, three players performed solos.

One soloist, Bowling Green freshman Jon Hale, said, "I enjoyed it so much, I was ready to go back and do it again."

Another soloist, Robert Kirby, said he had seen Western's tuba ensemble perform while in high school, and said participating was a lot more fun.

"We (tubas) don't get a chance to do many things like this," the Bowling Green sophomore said. "We usually don't have a director or enough players."

Then Pickett announced the last piece, "Samstagmorgenmusik," which means "Saturday morning music" in German. "It was written by the Scandinavian composer Loef Lipka," he said. But Pickett had arranged the medley of music from television cartoons, and "Loof Lipka" was just "April Fool" spelled backward.

The audience laughed and clapped as the group played the medley, which included the theme from "Bugs Bunny," "Popeye," "The Flintstones," and excerpts of "Schoolhouse Rock."

Chuck Curry, a Horse Cave sophomore, and James Morgan, a Shelbyville freshman, sang while the ensemble performed the "Noun Song."

Western had a good tuba ensemble, Pickett said, but it hasn't been around for the past few years — until Pickett brought it back last fall.

"I had always been in ensembles and wanted to start one down here," he said. "I hope we get to perform more in the future."

Student hams it up for money

By TERESA L. YOUNG

It was 10 p.m., and the bar was quiet. The only sounds were low voices, relaxed laughter and soft music.

Suddenly a voice yelled, "Halloo darlings."

The crowd laughed as a 5-foot-7-inch woman wearing a pig mask hatted long black lashes and shook her curly blond hair.

Casting a sidelong glance at a man, she asked, "Do I remind you of anyone?"

"Well, you look like Miss Piggy," she said.

"Do I look fat enough to be Miss Piggy?" she screamed, throwing a white feather boa over her shoulder, adjusting six strands of pearls and slinking over to a red-faced man.

"Aren't you cute!" she said.

"We are going to have ourselves some fun tonight — you and me!"

After reciting a poem and singing "Happy Birthday," she sat on another man's lap and played with his hair.

Then she turned around and flung her boa around the neck of a dark-haired man, pulling him closer and asking him if he were ready for the kiss of his life.

She kissed him and made her exit.

Without the costume Miss Priscilla Piglet is 18-year-old Heather Richardson, a freshman communications major, who runs a singing-telegram business.

Richardson, whose professional training consists of six months of voice lessons when she was 12, became interested in the business through her mother, who owns Musical Messengers Inc. in Lexington.

Richardson runs the Bowling Green branch, and for $15 she will deliver a telegram on campus — extra for off campus.

She said she likes to embarrass her target because that's what the person ordering the telegram wants.

Others have turned the tables on her. "She got so embarrassed when I sang a telegram to her in public," said Audrey Hudson, Richardson's cousin. The Montperey sophomore works occasionally for her aunt in Lexington during vacations.

"They had to hold me down to keep me in the restaurant while Audrey sang to me," Richardson said.

Most of her "victims" aren't as hard to hold, she said, but a man once ran away.

"He took it like a man," said Lewis Pickett, a Louisville senior who had hired Richardson to welcome his out-of-town guest. "It was very effective."

Richardson played the Kissing Bandit for that telegram, arriving at Pickett's apartment in a black cape and mask.

Richardson also dresses as a bunny girl, a cowgirl, a tweed-dressed singer, and as a clown, and she has dressed as a giant frog, Big Bird and a gorilla.

Reports

- Linda Sue Gaines, Barnwood Avenue, reported Saturday that her jacket and pants valued at $30 had been stolen from Diddle Arena.
- Rita Daniels Hicks, Western Avenue, reported Saturday that glass in a Diddle Arena vending machine had been broken. Damage was estimated at $10.
- Joan Cecil Adams, Central Hall, reported Friday that her vest valued at $40 had been stolen from Diddle Arena.
- Barry Lynn Blakeman, Mall Apartments, reported Friday that his stereo receiver, electric razor and textbooks, valued at $105, had been stolen from the fifth floor of the parking structure.

Fire damages Garrett

- Continued from Front Page — and Gordon Wilson Hall. But Harry Largen, vice president for business affairs, said he doesn't think necessary renovations to Garrett can be completed by then.
- "My guess is, with the total amount of work that's there, we would not be able to complete it before the fall term," he said.
- University officials have set Jan. 1 as the date for the move.
- Dr. James Davis, vice president of academic affairs, said administrators met Friday afternoon to discuss the move, but nothing final has been decided. "There are several things we're looking at, and I can't say anything until I get the reports back in," he said.

Coed housing poll needs participation from students

In January the Board of Regents hit the coed housing ball back into the students' court. It's time to hit it back.

The regents tabled a coed housing proposal by Associated Student Government, saying not enough students had been asked if they favored such an arrangement.

This week students have another chance to voice their opinion— a chance they should take.

Today through Friday, tables will be set up in dorms and other areas to distribute and collect the survey, which has been approved by several administrators. If 70 percent to 80 percent of on-campus residents—about 4,000 people respond, the regents should take the results of the poll seriously.

The first question asks whether the student favors coed housing and which types of dorms should be converted to coed housing.

The second asks if the student would live in a coed dorm; the third, what the student would do if his dorm went coed.

The best aspect of coed housing is that it would give men and women the chance to live together responsibly and develop friendships. It also would offer women an easier way to find a male escort, reducing the risk of crime.

If students think about coed housing, they should take five minutes to answer the survey.

The regents have asked students to hit the ball back. If students don't, they won't ask us back onto the court.

Letters to the editor

Education is key

I am a black student at Western. I am very concerned with the education of black students. Education is something to praise, something to strive for, something we as black students must gain.

I have been at Western for three years. I came to college with the intention of someday graduating and acquiring a degree. Many black students have gone to college with the same intention. These same students enrolled and attended school, but failed to achieve. They eventually were forced to discontinue their education due to any number of reasons: financial aid, family problems, academic difficulty.

I began to see myself as these other students. I was ready to give up. I saw the future I had planned for myself in the black student. I saw myself like snow in July. I began to feel shame and despair. Then it struck me: I said to myself, 'What is the problem, what is going on?' The truth of the matter was, I had stopped applying myself to my studies. I had forgotten one very important fact. College is a place of higher learning, not a big party or social event.

When I first arrived at college I had the ugliest pair of tennis shoes of anyone on campus. Now I have the prettiest. In trying to compete with other students on a style or social level, I had forgotten about competing on an academic level with the students of the majority.

The point I am making is, how can black students expect to compete with whites in the work force or job market if we can not compete strongly on the academic level? There are many black students who do a great job of competing with white students on the academic level; I can only say these students are marked by distinction.

I have been able to catch myself at the correct time. It may take me longer to achieve the goals I set than first expected, but I will achieve.

Do not ignore what I am saying. Read and understand. The black has been one of the lower figures on the totem for too long. We must rise on the academic level. A complete education is the key which opens the lock, which bars the door, which stands between the black student and the world.

Supports Herald review

I am afraid I have to take exception to William Collins' letter about Linda Lyly's review of Hedda Gabler. His first complaint was about her calling it an unlikely pair. If he had paid attention to his own department, he would know that the play was done only at the insistence of Dr. Kemler. I personally thought the opening line was well put.

As for the misrepresentations, the title was misread in all the advertising. That is how it went out of the theater office. As for the characters, Dr. Kemler, the director, wrote the names for Linda Lyly. (And if it's not a story of a newlywed couple in 1880, what is it?)

I wish Mr. Collins would take his own advice and do some research before he writes. The members of the Herald staff are doing the best they can. Can Mr. Collins say the same?

Backs Shultz in election

After four years here at Western, I had come to take the Associated Student Government as somewhat of a grand farce. Most of the legislation they pass is petty, and the two meetings I have attended were being interrupted constantly by either someone who knew nothing of parliamentary procedure, or by someone who knew too much and held up the meeting over some Mickey Mouse clause in Robert's Rules of Order.

I am about to change my mind about ASG. Why this sudden change of heart? Because a man of action is running for office. Bobby Shultz is running for the position of senior vice president, and if he has faith in the organization, then so do I. I'll have faith in the organization because I know that Bobby is not a resume filler, not a glory hound. He is a hard worker, and so one I know can match his integrity.

Here is your chance, Western, for a positive influence in ASG. Don't pass it up.

Supports Binkley in ASG

General elections for Associated Student Government offices will be April 12. I would like to bring to your attention Kim "Bink" Binkley who is running for public affairs vice president.

Other than working with Ms. Binkley on a personal basis, we have worked together in campus related activities and I have seen her strong leadership abilities. She was elected by her peers as floor representative of Bernie Lawrence Hall, president of her pledge class, Kappa Delta's Panhellenic representative and is now serving as Panhellenic historian. Her campus involvement, however, does not hinder her academically, as her grade-point average will reflect.

Ms. Binkley is extremely outgoing and self-confident, but listens and considers others' opinions as well. She presents herself in a positive and professional manner.

I hope you as students will recognize that Kim Binkley is capable of fulfilling the office of public affairs vice president. Bink can be the link between you and ASG.

Response needed

It's time for action! The Board of Regents has asked that a thorough survey be conducted to determine student opinion in reference to co-residential living. The survey will be conducted April 4 through 8.

The results of this survey will be taken into consideration by the Board of Regents when reviewing the ASG-IHC proposal on co-residential housing. The results will only be used as statistical reference. The results will not be used as a final decision in the board's decision, but they will have a major influence.

Please respond very honestly and seriously to this survey. This is your chance to play a part in shaping Western's future. Many long, hard hours have been put in by many people in the preparation and administration of this survey. It is one of the most important and influential occurrences at Western in many years. You should feel a responsibility to the students who will be attending Western in the future. This is a chance for you to help shape the future - do it.

Backs Groomling

The Associated Student Government is an important organization on Western's campus. To you, the student, it is important that you elect leaders who will represent the total student body and who will speak in favor of the students' opinions during a controversial issue. I am giving my support to Claire Groomling, who is running for the position of secretary. I have worked with Claire during the past seven years in various organizations and have seen what a dedicated worker she is. I know that I can depend on Claire for good organization and efficiency. She is one who will put in extra hours to make a stronger student government.

If you are looking for a candidate who has experience with our government, who is level-headed and who is ambitious, then Claire Groomling is a wise choice. Give her your support. She will prove to be a quality leader.

Thanks UCB

I would (like) to thank the members of University Center Board for their dedication to the students of Western. As the year draws to a close, it is easy to look back and see the many accomplishments of UCB, such as the concerts they put on so much hard work and time into, their interesting lecture series and the very entertaining "Catch a Rising Star" series that featured several well-known performers.

Their latest feat is probably their best yet. They have arranged for reigning world-champion pool player Nick Varner to give an exhibition in Downing Center on Tuesday. The show Varner puts on is both entertaining and fun. To be amazed by Varner's shooting skill you won't need any special knowledge of pool; all you will need is your eyes.

This is just another fine example of UCB's hard work. Thanks a lot, guys.

$700 raised for charity

AOPi, Sigma Chi win ADPi 500

Alpha Delta Pi sorority raised $700 last week for its national charity, the Ronald McDonald houses, from its ADPi 500, said Linda Jones, chairwoman of the ADPi 500.

The houses provide free lodging for terminally ill children and their families while the children receive treatment.

Sigma Chi won the overall fraternity division of the events Wednesday and Thursday. Alpha Omicron Pi placed first in the sorority division, and spirit awards went to Sigma Chi and Phi Mu.

AOPi won the sorority division of the Nose Scoot, in which members shoved grapefruit up and down the field with their noses; Sigma Nu won the fraternity division.

In the Sack Race, for fraternities only, Sigma Chi bagged first place.

In the Dirty Limp contest, each contestant placed his forehead on a baseball bat and spun — the men 15 times, the women 10. The Sigma Chi’s and Kappa Delta won.

The KDe won a Blindfold Piggy race in which one person rode piggyback, giving directions to a team member. Sigma Phi Epsilon placed first in the fraternity division.

The Phi Mu’s won the Pi Guy String-Along, for sororities only. Each woman on the five-member teams threaded a spoon on a string through her blouse and pants and passed it to the next team member.

Beverly Cummings, a Bowling Green senior; Tammy Elam, a Hopkinsville sophomore; Elizabeth James, a Harrodsburg freshman; and Bonnie McLaren, a Bowling Green senior, cheer on Alpha Omicron Pi to victory at the Alpha Delta Pi 500. Roof repairs cost $174,000

Western is spending more than $174,000 for new roofs on South Hall, West Hall, the university center and a portion of Van Meter Hall.

Owen Lawson, physical plant director, said the physical plant has applied for money in next year’s budget for roofs on several more buildings, but plans haven’t been approved yet.

“We had leaks in some of the rooms,” Lawson said. “In the Downing Center, it was leaking on the bowling alley.”

The project, which began about a week ago, should be done in about three weeks, Lawson said, if weather permits.

Goehagen Co. of Bowling Green bid $60,000 to fix the university center roof, and R. and R. Roofing, an Ohio company, bid $16,000 to fix the West Hall roof and $50,000 for the South Hall roof.

The roofs are expected to last about 20 years, Lawson said; the average life span is 15 to 20.

The old roofs must be removed before new ones can be laid; those on South and West halls will be conventional “mopped-in,” smooth surface, while the roof of the university center will be a single-ply plastic sheet.

Toppers fall to MTSU in team scored meet

By STEVE THOMAS

Western lost to Middle Tennessee 72-54 Friday at Murfreeboro in their only team scored meet of the season.

Coach Curtiss Long said that the meet unfolded the way it was expected to. Western won the distance events and Middle Tennessee won the sprinting events.

Long said that the unfortunate thing for Western is that there are more sprinting events in a dual meet than there are distance events.

Western showed its power in the distance events by winning all 27 available points in the 1500-meters, the 800-meters and the 4400-meter relay.

In the 1500-meters, Simon Cahill finished first, followed by Ashley Johnson, Bryan Blankenship and Steve Metege.

Phillip Ryan won the 800-meters, Johnson was second and Blankenship was third. In the 3000-meters, Cahill finished first, followed by Larry Park and Jonathan Barker.

In what was billed as the feature race of the day, Tony Smith upset nationally-ranked Miguel Williams in the high hurdles with a time of 13.8.

"Tony came up with a very competitive come-from-behind win," Long said.

Steve Bridges won the 100-meter dash in a time of 10.2.

Weather cancels play

Rainy weekend weather played havoc with the tennis schedule, with contests at Evansville and Austin Peay canceled.

The match at Evansville has been rescheduled for Thursday.

Austin Peay will come to Bowling Green tomorrow for a 2 p.m. match.

Western, 3-5 overall, lost to Peay 6-3 earlier this season in a match that Coach Jeff True said could have gone either way.

But if his team continues to improve, True said he expects the Toppers to come out on the winning side this time.

"I am very pleased with the improvement," True said. "I think we could win enough to...

Men's tennis

maybe finish the season at .500."

In light of last season's 9-16 record, True admits that his outlook may be a bit optimistic. But he thinks he is being realistic, too.

"Well, we have to play Kentucky and Ole Miss (April 9-10 in Lexington) and those matches will be tough, but I think we can beat Evansville, Austin Peay and Middle Tennessee," True said. "We didn't have a good team this year, but if you hadn't been for the improvement in the team."

Women's golf

"We were playing against some really good competition," Quarcelino said. "And we just lacked the depth to do well."".

"We were playing against some really good competition," Quarcelino said. "And we just lacked the depth to do well."".

Quarcelino said the second day of the tournament was her team's best round.

"We played four shots better the next day since it was a shorter day and we knew the course better," she said. "After two days of practice we got to know the course and the conditions and we just went with it.

Tops finish low in tourney

Western may not have finished among the leaders in the 54-hole Marshall Invitational last weekend in Huntington, W.Va., but the team may have shown Coach Nancy Quarcelino signs of improvement.

Quarcelino said her team finished a stroke over par in the tournament, which was held at the team's average for the last 10.

But Western's 971 left them far behind the leaders. Quarcelino said she wasn't sure who the team finished, but she was sure it was a worse than sixth in the eight schools. She also said her team didn't even make the top ten in three instances.

Top split two; meet Cards today

By STEVE THOMAS

Western evened its season record at 16-16 yesterday with a doubleheader split at Indiana State.

The Toppers return home today for a 1 p.m. doubleheader against Louisville.

Western won the first game 9-8 riding the arm of relief pitcher Eddie Jones. Jones pitched the final 2 2/3 innings after relieving starter Mike Spearnock.

Jones, now 3-1 on the season, picked up the win after Western came from behind in the sixth inning. Jones allowed just two hits and no runs while striking out two and walking two.

Spearnock, a freshman, was batted out of the game in the first inning. He walked six batters and didn't have a strikeout in 4 3/4 innings.

Baseball

Western got back in the game with help from the long ball. Third baseman Jim Rathbun hit a grand slam home run in the fifth inning.

But it took two runs in the sixth before Western took the lead and Steffen cooled off the Sycamores. Brian Day doubled and scored the tying run on a single by John Britt. The game-winning run scored when Mark DeRumio walked with the bases loaded to force pinch runner Van Iderden across the plate.

Western scored four runs in nine hits and made no errors. Indiana State also had nine hits and made one error. Nick Kipp took the loss.

The Toppers lost the nightcap 4-1 as Indiana State's Bill Herr pitched a five-hitter.

Indiana State scored its first run in the first inning and then scored three times in the second. Western's lone run came in the second inning when DeRumio scored on a single by Ron Lightbier.

Jeff Pekanic, 0-3, went all the way, giving up only three earned runs on seven hits. Western committed one error and Indiana State was flawless in the field.

Western lost a 5-4 decision Thursday to Austin Peay on a throwing error.

Peay had tied the score in the top of the eighth and took the lead for good in the ninth when DeRumio threw the ball away while trying to double up a runner at second.

Greg Bartek, who has yet to win a game in three decisions, took the loss while Ralph Antoni hit his ninth home run of the year.
Camille Forrester, left, a Louisville sophomore, and Tracey Galpin, a freshman from Kenton-On-Sea, South Africa, stretch before running. They are middle-distance runners on the track team.

ENROLL IN AMERICA’S LARGEST MANAGEMENT TRAINING PROGRAM.

Becoming an officer in today’s Army—which also includes the Army Reserve and Army National Guard—requires getting the right kind of management and leadership training.

What’s the best way to get it? By enrolling in America’s largest management training program: Army ROTC.

In the Army ROTC 4-year program, you’ll acquire discipline of mind and spirit, and the ability to perform under pressure. We call it learning what it takes to lead.

It’ll pay off, too. First, during your last two years of college, when you’ll start receiving up to $1,500 a year. And, most of all, on graduation day, when you receive a commission along with a college degree.

ARMY ROTC BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

Former Western football coach returns to replace exiting Hape

Mark Clark, a former receiver coach with the Hilltoppers, will return to the Western staff.
He will fill the vacancy created when Bill Hape resigned last month to become head coach at Evansville Reitz, his prep alma mater.
Clark returns to Western after spending one year as defensive coordinator and linebacker coach at Washburn University in Topeka, Kan. He was a graduate assistant here in 1979-80 and was receiver coach in 1981.

“ar and I enjoyed our years in Bowling Green and are looking forward to getting back,” Clark said. “Football has a bright future at Western and I’m excited about the opportunity to be a part of it again.”

Clark will be in charge of the linemen. Assistant coach Mike Cashity will become defensive coordinator and will work with the defensive backs.

“We’re pleased about Mark’s decision to return to the Hill,” Coach Jimmy Feix said. “He’s an outstanding young man, a fine student of the game and an excellent coach.”

Clark graduated from Cornell in 1979 and earned his master’s degree from Western in 1981.

Tops out of slump

By LEE GRACE

Western may have broken out of a spring slump last weekend with a second-place finish in the Colonel Classic at Richmond.

Men’s golf

Coach Jim Richards’ team finished behind host Eastern’s Maroon squad in the 38-team field.

The Maroon team fired a 596 while Western posted a 613.

Michigan State finished third at 609 and Miami of Ohio finished fourth at 611.

The rain-shortened tournament saw Western battling for the top spot for all 36 holes, a position that has been unfamiliar to the team in earlier outings this spring.

“Some of our young players did some work on their short game and got that under control a bit before we left,” Richards said.

“The course at Eastern also helped since it was the type of grass we were used to.”

Western also had a player finish in the top 10 for the first time this spring.

Bobby Fatinin, who had to play in a qualification tournament before making the trip, finished second in his first tournament appearance.

“Bobby Fatinin’s play had to be a big factor,” Richards said. “He didn’t make any of the two previous trips and could have helped us if he played as good as he did in Richmond.”

His 36-hole score of 148 left him seven strokes behind Eastern’s Pat Stephens, who is the Ohio Valley Conference’s defending champion.

Scott Beard finished tied for 11th with Bob Lohr of Miami. Both shot 151.

A rainstorm on Saturday washed away 18 of the first 36 holes. Richards said weather didn’t bother the team.

It’s a fact:

In an age of communication around the world, “you never got to catch up to you get it wrong.” That’s why newspapers lead the way with high depth reporting — the search for facts and background to the news.
IHC passes open house extension

Interhall Council voted yesterday to extend Friday open house hours to 1 p.m. to 1 a.m. They're now 5 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The proposal must be-approved by Charles Knaun, dean of student affairs, and then by the dorms, said President Rex Hurt.

The council also began final preparations for this week's coed housing survey. The survey, conducted by Associated Student Government and Interhall Council, started at 5 p.m. yesterday in the dorms and ends Friday afternoon.

The Board of Regents had requested 80 percent participation of residents before it would consider a proposal for coed housing.

"If we can get a good percentage, we have a good chance of getting it," said Jack Smith, student government's administrative vice president.

In elections for next year's executive officers, Hurt was re-elected president. Other executive council members elected were: Debbie Filer, administrative vice president; Tommi Smith, activities vice president; Sandy Hill, secretary; Danny Broderek, press secretary.

In the only contested election, Bill Hardison defeated Stanley Reagan for treasurer in a runoff vote that became necessary when neither Hardison, Reagan nor Angie Rodgers received a majority. The officers will be installed May 18 at the council's banquet.

Earlier yesterday the council had amended its constitution to allow four men and four women to serve on the executive council instead of the previous limit of three men and three women. With the new elections, four women might have been elected — which wouldn't have been permitted under the constitution, Hurt said.

In other business, council:

- Approved a resolution requesting that the university construct a temporary parking area off the sidewalk before the university center for banking machine customers.
- Approved a resolution requesting that a crosswalk, speed bumps, caution light or other safety device be placed between the parking structure and McCormack and Gilbert halls on Dogwood Drive. Both proposals must be approved by Knaun and public safety, Hurt said.
- Indefinitely tabled a proposal to change the light at Russellville Road and Florence Schneider Drive from a stop light to caution light between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Council voted to study the proposal before making a decision.
- Gave first reading to a proposal requesting lights for the parking area between Gilbert and McCormack halls.

Scholarships available

Biology scholarships for next year are available for qualified students.

- Biology department Scholarship Fund Awards to $25 will be based on academic performance, need and potential.

Four $500 Open Foundation Summer Scholarships are available for students at the Upper Cumberland Biological Field Station at Tech Auras in central Tennessee. Dr. Herb Shadowen, in room 121, has more information.
