Commencement To Be May 29

Seniors Have Full Schedule In Coming Week

Seniors may find themselves in the classroom for as few as three days before graduation. However, they have been preparing for the occasion for months. The opening day of class is the most important day of the year for seniors, and they are usually the first to benefit from the school's activities. The seniors' schedule includes a series of classes, seminars, and workshops that are designed to help them transition to life after graduation. They may include classes on research, writing, and career development.

Open Shop Scheduled For Wednesday And Thursday

Annual industrial arts open shop is planned for this week. The shop will be held in the Industrial Arts building, located at the north end of the campus. The shop is open to all students, and there is no charge for admission. The shop will be open from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM, and will be staffed by faculty members and student volunteers.

Exhibition Being Held In Art Gallery

Members of the Art Education class, under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Bowles, will be exhibiting their work in the Art Gallery. The show will feature paintings, drawings, and sculptures by the students. The exhibit will be open to the public from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM, and will continue until May 29.

Western’s Finals chanpionship game was presented to the college community by the Western Kentucky University basketball team. The game was held in the gymnasium on May 22, and was attended by hundreds of fans. The game was a closely contested match, with the home team prevailing by a narrow margin.

Toppers Split With Eastern

Gene Rhoden, one of Western’s all-time greats and a five-time All-American, will be the headliner of the college’s basketball team. Rhoden played for the college from 1950 to 1952, and was a key player in the team’s championship run in 1951.

217 Candidates To Receive College Degrees

Degrees will be awarded to 217 of the more than 400 students who have graduated from Western this year. The number of degrees awarded is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the students and faculty.

Awards Presented In Chapel Today

Western’s annual chapel program, held at 11:30 AM today in the chapel on campus, featured the presentation of awards to members of the Western band and basketball teams. The band and basketball teams were honored for their dedication and hard work throughout the academic year.

WINS WOMEN’S SPEECH CONTESTS—Miss Joan Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Curry, 20, and Miss Frances Anderson, the President of the AUAW, were named the winners of the speech contests. Summer School

Western in its 1962 Summer School, again offers to both men and women, work of the highest caliber at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Here, at a beautiful campus in Bowling Green, exists the opportunity for a serious study of a subject or recreation.

Summer school opens June 6 and closes July 30. Summer school at Western is open without examination to students who have completed at least two years of high school and to students who have completed two years of a college or university course in which English was the principal or secondary subject. Two weeks are required for the completion of a regular course.

A limited number of credits may be granted on a non-degree basis. The summer school is open to qualified students desiring to improve their general education and training and to complete pre-professional requirements for entrance into technical and professional programs.

For the summer session the highly-trained resident faculty, the resident associate faculty, and special lecturers. A campus workshop for bread- wasters and junior college students, the field and pedestrian tours will be made. Other special features are being planned for the 1962 summer school and will be announced later.

Western has also decided that classes in English and Social Studies in Education will be conducted from June 15 to July 1 and June 25 to July 15. This course is for persons desiring to obtain an Associate degree in Secondary Education and will carry a credit of two courses.

The cost of summer study at Western is low. Residence costs, which include tuition, room, board, and activities, for the 6th, 7th, and 8th months are $280. Rooms in the 8th month are $190. Students have $2.50 and $2.50 per week for their personal needs.

At least six hours per week of a normal load. Upper-grade and undergraduate students will be allowed to carry additional work if their previous academic records justify it.

After Now

College juniors have for the last several years been fashioning a sort of life of their own, one of those on whom its next generation of progress even now is depending.

We've found this valuable market for new ideas and new work, which comes in a mature and serious way, in those who have been in college a long time, that is, from those on whom we have had some time of training and development. We feel this is a time of development and growth.

We're ready to see the next generation take up the baton, and we're ready to help them develop, and we're ready to help them develop, and we're ready to help them develop, and we're ready to help them develop.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

By EVELYN BAILEY

As commencement time draws nigh and another flock of graduates seek jobs, it's quite natural that the personal interview takes up a considerable space in their thoughts and plans.

The personal interview alone may secure a job for a person or it may prevent his obtaining a position, either of the interesting variety which he chooses to let it do. A few pointers may mean dollars if he needs their advice.

In applying for a job, what is the course to think of in selecting the right personal interviewer's side? Remember that everyone wants an enthusiastic, intelligent, sensible, and attractive worker who appears able to contribute something to the organization, whatever it may be. No one cares to employ a dull, tiresome, unctuous, and incomherent person who cares only about getting a job for necessity.

One should find out something about the organization he hopes to work for. If a certain department seems particularly attractive, inquire about it.

One should be alert and polite, ready to answer, but not nervous or over-eager. The good interviewer should be stiff, but should be a most formal one. Bright the potential employer with "How do you do?" or "Good morning," but never "Hello." Let the interviewer make the first guess toward shaking hands.

It is better, in describing work one has done, to say, "I enjoyed the work very much," rather than "I was good at that work."

If you do unfamiliar work, it is wise to be truthful and frank and say: "I've never done that work, but I'd be delighted to try." Or, "I'm afraid I wouldn't be very good at that work.

It is, however, surprising whether or not Television is detrimental to the student. Which group is better off?

Frankness is usually best when it comes to an explanation of previous poor performance.

Personal appearance has great influence on the outcome of an interview. One should be neatly dressed and well groomed. Hair and nails should be immaculately clean and shoes polished behind as well as on the toe.

Clothes need not be marketed fashion, it is ideal if the personal appearance is neatness, cleanliness, and efficiency.

In short, for the success of the personal interview, the general effect presented by the interviewee must be one of neatness, cleanliness, and efficiency.

Cigarette Tests

No, they weren't created in July. They were invented in 1913, according to a story passed along by a veteran tobacco promoter. The tests were first used by the government to determine the quality of tobacco. Since then, they have become a standard method for evaluating the characteristics of cigarettes.
