Western Plays Host To Educators From Costa Rica

Western played host to a Commission of educators from the Republic of Costa Rica last Monday and Tuesday. The group of eleven, under the leadership of Prof. Miguel A. Pimentel, was the first such mission to visit the Hilltoppers in over a year. Pimentel and his associates are becoming acquainted with our school programs. In making the five-week tour, the visitors carefully selected colleges and school systems, each one having been chosen because of some particular characteristic which, it is believed, will serve the needs of educators in their country. They made this tour under the direction of Dr. Miguel A. Pimentel, a well-known American educator, who is now serving as the Chief of a UNESCO Mission in Costa Rica.

"Of their visit here," said Mr. Pimentel, "we are primarily interested in secondary education, three in teacher education, five in elementary education. They represent a large cross section of Costa Rica's most famous in politics, education, literature and music. Some are just "folks" who are lifting themselves by their own "stripes" and are lifting the general public to a higher plane. They represent the best traditions of the Spanish. Latin American energy at the same time they are trying to learn more of the American "know how" and of American democratic process.

While in Bowling Green, they visited schools at all levels, each according to his own particular interest.

Although the native tongue of the group is Spanish, all members of the party are very interested in English and, necessarily, most of the English was translated verbally in chapel held Tuesday morning.

Western Players To Face Maroons After 6 Consecutive Wins

Western will place its 45-game home court winning streak on the line tomorrow night when it takes on the University of Kentucky, which has a 38-7 record this season. The Hilltoppers have lost their last six games to the Bearcats, and have had a difficult time matching the Maroon's talent and experience.

The Maroons come into tonight's contest with a 13-1 record and have been ranked in the Top 15 in the nation for the past three weeks. They have won seven of their last eight games and have averaged over 100 points per game in their last three contests.

The game with the Maroons will mark the third big court battle of the week for the powerful Hilltoppers. Monday night an upset-minded Bowling Green, Ohio, University was stopped 85-66 Wednesday night, in a thrilling upset bid that was rejected. This game was televised on WNSM-TV from Nashville, the second highest rated college game ever broadcast on television.

With 18 and Less

As Granado Did. So Did Dad—And These Students

As Granado and his students prepared for the performance, they encountered a number of challenges. The most significant challenge was the lack of adequate rehearsal time. The past year may be known as Lincoln year among historians. For several years, since the election of Charlemagne's Lincoln, there has been a romantic story of his life probably because of the many poems and stories that have been written about him. The story of Lincoln is little known to most people.

One of the most interesting things about
Lincoln is that he was a very wealthy man.
He owned a number of slaves, and was an abusive master. He was also known for his humor and wit. Lincoln was a man of great intelligence and was a great orator.

The influence of Henry Clay upon

Hilltoppers Rack Up Three Wins On Southern Trip; Set New Scoring Mark

The Hilltoppers made a clean sweep on their recent three game tour of the south. Art Eppen led the attack against Miami University with twenty-five points, and thirty-rebounds. He and Herb Borton gave a remarkable showing and playing of ten-seconds. The final score was 73-59. Whistle, a substitute, came off the bench to lead the Hilltoppers to victory. The team tallied in double figures. Marshall got 14 Green, Borton got 12, and King and Sportsman 12 each.

In the third quarter, coach Tom Marshall took over the bench and all the players in the game were changed. Even with the substitutes the Hilltoppers were not as they hit the 100 mark with six and a half minutes left in the game. Marshall was able to keep the substitutes in the game for the final five minutes.

The defeat was the sixth against nine victories for Losipas.

The game was held at 30, 30 at half time and with only twenty minutes left in the third quarter, they had already gained a 31 point lead 4:30. In just six minutes Losipas had cut this margin to 10-12. Then Tom Marshall and Dean King took over the backboards and closed the lead rally. King totaled 22 points, while Marshall was able to score 14. Hobson and Calby were high for Losipas with 15 points each.

The current 4th ranked Hilltoppers had the opportunity of playing before the Sugar Bowl constituents who sent out the invitations to the Annual Sugar Bowl Tournament. It is hoped they made an impression.

COMMUNITY THEATRE PLAY HANDLED WITH SKILL

By HELEN LEST

One of the most tense and exciting murder murder mystery plays to be produced in the College Heights Theatre, was presented in Van Meter Building on Thursday evening, February 8. The play, "Murder Is Good," the murder mystery, was authored by two of England's most able writers: Edward Perry and Reginald Denham. Although the subject of the mystery melodrama is the motivation for murder, the production was handled in such a manner as not to offend the most discriminating tastes.

The production was directed by Russell H. Miller, who has produced all of the other Community productions. The evidence of skill and craftsmanship was apparent in the general decor and staging. Among those assisting on the technical staff were Ashley Adams, Thomas Hearst, Anne McCall, Shirley Baker, Stanford Cox, Richard Birk, Bill DeBono, Ethel Dening, Joan Botte, Mary Taylor, Mrs. Joe McCullar, Mrs. Jones Mercer, Helen Hardy, and Davis Mills.

Miss Grimoda Davis headed the cast of "Ladies in Retirement." Her performance of the leading role of Miss Grimoda, the companion-housekeeper, who commits the murder because she is the only solution to her problem, showed depth and understanding of the character of Miss Grimoda. Her command of acting techniques and the creation of character kept the audience's interest in her role even after they realized who committed the murder.

"Tippler Plays Victim"

In the role of Miss Grimoda, who lived in comfortable retirement on a large estate, was played by Miss Grimoda. The character was supplied by the audience and the environment of the audience, who knew her from her charmed life, was created by Millicent Gamp, who played the character. Miss Grimoda and the audience felt that the character was a crook and they began to enjoy her by killing her off too early in the play.

Student's Kitchen Plan Published

Mrs. Sue Myers Young, of Muhlenberg County, has at last realized her dream of a kitchen exactly as she pictured it. No plan of her own, she has changed it to fit her needs from the plan she liked most. A storage space for the canned foods was built into the end of the room which makes a difference from most kitchens, at the same time eliminating the need for a basement.

Mrs. Young's kitchen plan is of such significance to homemakers that articles about it have appeared twice in the "Progressive Farmer" magazine. The last article, appearing in November 1935 issue, was written by Mrs. Young herself, and tells of her experience in planning the kitchen. A former Western student and a graduate of the University of Kentucky, Mrs. Young is a native of Mrs. Ruth Moore Perkins, of the Foreign Language department.
