Snack Shop

If you happen to be passing by the Student Union Building some evening and see lights burning, it's not students clearing up after the evening meal. It happens to be the Snack Shop.

After visiting the Snack Shop a few times in the evening, I discovered that there are very few students who are taking advantage of the facilities provided by the Snack Shop.

The Snack Shop has been open for the past three weeks. The hours are from 8:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. on weekdays and 8:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. on weekends. The Snack Shop, therefore, will stay open until ten if there is no home game, and it will close about 9:00 p.m. on Saturdays.

In my opinion, we should make a trip to the Snack Shop, as it is the only place where we can get a good deal of food and drinks.

Welcome Homecomers

Let's appoint ourselves a committee of one to make this homecoming memorable. One way we can do this is to have the Snack Shop open for an extra hour or two on the night of the homecoming. This might be the best thing we can do to make the homecoming memorable.

All Join In

A part of every homecoming is the breakfast, lunch, or tea given by the various organizations on campus. This year, both organizations decided to make the breakfast, lunch, or tea a success and invite all the students to join them. The breakfast, lunch, or tea is an excellent way to celebrate the homecoming and make it a success.

Camels Agree with More People Than Any Other Cigarette!
DR. AND MRS. EARL A. MOORE are scheduled to appear in the Community Players' production of "Good Housekeeping" in Van Meter Hall on Thursday evening, October 23, in Van Meter Auditorium. The proprietress of the selection of William McCleary's domestic comedy derives partially from his being set in a college locale, partially from the education-politics milieu upon which the plot hinges. Audiences and critics have praised "Good Housekeeping" as a delightful comedy, a true play. It is about several people in a normal but hilarious situation. Producing director is Russell W. Miller, director of dramatic activities for Western's English department. Dr. and Mrs. Earl A. Moore are members of the English department faculty, each having a teaching interest in the works of Thomas W. Henton and the College English profession. Leading roles in the cast are Shirley Ruby, Diana Davis, Kay Huffman, Sam Fleisher and James B. Jones. "Good Housekeeping" is being prepared in connection with the membership committee and is designed to show the group the many facets of the group the members may desire.

William McCleary wrote "Good Housekeeping" specifically for Helen Hayes. His heroine is a nice, light comedy character, while in the "Bad Heir" character of the American nation. Like it best of cases for more normal people, it reduces the family situation to the idea of a little wife of a college president pulling a young man up to get her husband involved in politics. In the original production, Mary Alice Allen, Miss Hayes' daughter, playing the maid's daughter in the play, was making her debut as an actress. At the close of a very successful season on the "Good Heir" circuit in preparation for the opening of the play in New York, Miss MacArthur was carried with and died of polio. The tragic death caused Miss Hayes to give up the venture and it was never given a Broadway presentation, although it has proved most popular all over America with colleges and little theatres.

Helen Leet Attends Harvard This Summer

Helen Leet, a teacher at George School, attended Harvard University for eight weeks during her summer vacation. Although she took two four-hour courses, she studied "Renaissance and Reformation." "It is a pity that all college work is not as interesting as these courses," she said.

Recent Campus Improvements

By Edith Koch

Have you, upper classmen, noticed the changes that have been taking place around you? The new buildings which were under construction last spring are now in use, and many other improvements are in progress.

The Physical Education Building has undergone several changes. To accommodate more classes, the gymnasium has been expanded. In the new school year, a new athletic field will be constructed, and the swimming pool will be enlarged.

The Fine Arts Building has undergone extensive changes. The art studio has been enlarged, and new equipment has been purchased to improve the quality of the art program.

The Science Building has been renovated and equipped with new laboratories. The biology lab has been expanded, and the physics lab has been modernized.

The Library has been expanded and reorganized. The new addition includes additional reading rooms and study areas.

The Student Union Building has been improved with the addition of a new student center. The center includes a lounge, a reading room, and a study area.

A new steam pipe line, extending from the Heating Plant to the stadium, is one of the many campus improvements which will benefit students.

The new national survey shows college students prefer Luckies

Last year a survey was made in leading colleges throughout the country which showed that smokers in those colleges preferred Luckies to any other cigarette.

This year another nation-wide survey was made—a representative survey of all students in regular colleges coast to coast. Based on thousands of actual student interviews—this survey shows that, as last year, Luckies lead again—lead over all other brands, regular or king-size—and by a wide margin! The reason: Luckies taste better.

Mairi, Sculptor, Painter
Team To Visit Campus

A husband-and-wife art team will demonstrate their media for Wep- ter, evening students. William and Emily Mair come here for a two-day visit on October 12.

Mr. Mair is a sculptor and specializes in wood carving of farm- ers inspired by his observation of plants. Mrs. Mair, a painter, prefers the conventional oils, believes that anyone can cultivate a great appreciation of his natural surroundings by learning to observe the manifestations of form, composition and color. Any article existing, she maintains, adds up to something. "I'd not agree for a minute that you had better not paint at all unless you paint well. It's much better to produce some-ed Vassar College, and received her art training at the Arts Student League. During a chapel program, Mr. Mair will offer a sculpture demonstration, as woodcutting. Mrs. Mair will create a painting.

In the first place," says Mr. Mair, "who is always glad to talk about woodcutting. "You've got to keep a good supply of wood on hand. This keeps your mind open and lets you explore the possibilities hidden in each piece." He advocates cleaning the whole piece by brushing its surface. This will reveal its grain and also shows its flexibility, such as coloring and soft spots. "I draw on the wood first with charcoal," he continues, "to give me a rough idea. I suggest that a beginner start with mahogany, because it will work easily with a hard chisel. Once the idea in your mind unites with the grain and color of the wood, the biggest part of the problem is solved. All you need then is skill and know-how."

The couple has worked in the field of the arts submitting their work to commercial shows and all national exhibits. Some of their most popular art they have designed for wallpaper, paintings and designs for neighborhood companies.

"What in the world is wrong with the spirit of the Western students this year?"

This year's football team is wondering about this. Only a small group seems to want to really back the team and they are the only one weeks after week.

What has happened to the spirit that was prevalent in previous years? The spirit that the coaches said they had three seasons ago, as well as several other years? The spirit that showed throughout the country when the people who supported the Western students. The spirit that will make the game work, or to hear the old famous football-sounding nickname of Coach Ed Diddle.

The first game of the year is still not a big game. Western opened the first game just as it was a big game of the new surroundings. It was not easy to see the opponent working out, and to hear the old famous football-sounding nickname of Coach Ed Diddle.

Eighteen freshmen and nine returners from last year opened the new gym floor last week. Western is the first team in the state to open in the new venue. The new gym floor is expected to be ready for the season opener.

The team is working hard, but the coach still looks better than they take the floor for the first game. Western is still a young team, and will be several weeks behind the experienced players.

Dr. Bultman, head coach, said that the game is important to the team and that they need to work hard to prepare for the game.
