Players Plan Semester Of Three Projects

The Western Football team plans three major projects for the coming semester.

This announcement comes at a time when the football team is in the middle of its season, and was received with enthusiasm by the fans. The team has enjoyed a successful season so far, and is looking forward to continuing their winning streak.

The three projects include:

1. The development of a new mascot for the team, which will be revealed to the public during the homecoming game.
2. The construction of a new stadium for the team, which will be completed in time for the next season.
3. The implementation of a new training program for the players, which will focus on improving their physical and mental strength.

Toppers Edge Dayton In Triple Overtime

The game was a thrilling contest, with both teams pushing hard for the win.

Despite the intense competition, the Western team emerged victorious, winning the game by a narrow margin of three points.

The team's performance was lauded by fans and critics alike, with many praising the team's determination and skill.

In summary, it was a great night for the Western football team, with a hard-fought victory against a tough opponent.
Dimes And Dollars

In the last issue of the HERALD we ran an editorial on the subject of the rise in prices. We observed that in the stores now in progress, but had we filled the entire paper with information and details of the March of Dimes, space would have been demanded to present the situation. If by our editorial a few extra dollars are given, the campaign will be highly beneficial.

Almost every week there is a new drive to raise money for one of the many organizations that seem as if they were the project of a boy in the American people and to the people of the world as well. So many of us have become hardened to these new drives, whether with the subscription or not, that even a strong effort to give is often thought of lightly.

The March of Dimes is a campaign that stands as a benchmark to every one of us as future fathers and mothers. If you know your child will be stricken by a disease that may kill him, how would you feel, hoping that a cure could be found and would be before pole stuck your families. This is the reason this campaign is carried out.

The Dimes and Dollars campaign is a number of small contributions to help in the battle against disease. It is all in a matter of dollars and the amount that is raised will help to carry on the fight.

Spiral

Western is traditionally known for its great sportsmanship—qualities that they have and do often display in sporting events on the campus and in the nation. Western students have seen the quality of sportsmanship and sportsmanship with others.

One of the greatest performances of sportsmanship and loyalty was shown by the Bowling Green Wheatley during the basketball game between the two teams. A large group of students and friends turned out to welcome home the victorious Toppers after they seemingly disposed in the final game.

The Toppers will take the pledge of letting the students of Western that Bowling Green Wheatley and Western will always be friends.

In the last issue of the HERALD we ran an article on the subject of the March of Dimes, space would have been demanded to present the situation. If by our editorial a few extra dollars are given, the campaign will be highly beneficial.

Modern Transportation Is Challenged By Model T

By F. W. Albury

That old familiar sound of the rustling, sputtering, but ever-running Model T Ford is almost forgotten in this age of hydraulic, gasoline, and what have you, brought a look of nostalgia into the eyes of the distinguished old-timers from Bowling Green to Blount, Mississippi, this past afternoon.

The cause of this mild sensation through the south was the trip to summer camp of two Western students, Harold Ascher owner of the famed "T", and Julian Berry companion and co-pilot.

The trip was a series of amusing events from the start of the 1,300-mile journey to the finish. The average speed, said Ascher, "was a supermorn 56 miles an hour, but you should have seen us when we hit some sun spot of 60, man, we were flying."

The journey was completed with but one mechanical mishap, that being a flat tire, but just south of Birmingham Alabama the long arm of the law encroached the pair, cause, Speeding. The "T" was clocking along as a masterful 26 miles an hour when a pedestrian raised up, waved the pair in the earth, and stood menacingly beside them as he informed them that they were speeding in a 10-mile-an-hour zone. Ascher just smiled and asked, "Who do you think is going to believe you?" With that, the pedestrian sent them on their way with a hearty "Good luck."

Without any other interruptions the pair of adventurers made a rather bunged into Keeler Field for football training.

The most amusing incident concerning the "T" is, Ascher and Berry relate, occurred at the drill field. The troops were lined up and waiting for the officers to make an appearance, and as Capt. W. C. Ascher and his Adjutant joined up the back of the parade, the remark of "That's our car for sure," was heard in the ranks. Thereafter the "T" was known to one and all as the "staff car."

By TOT OLIVER

The dream game that we talked about in this column on December 13, materialized and became a reality on Dec. 22. Western clipped the Cardinals' wings and trimmed them in quest of the first annual Kentucky Invitation Basketball Tournament championship.

Western was favored, but all Louisville was under the self-imposed illusion that their boys would win the game. The Hilltoppers, fed this illusion, dreamed of a mirage for less than two hours.

After playing below par in the semi-final match against Eastern (Western won 81-75), the Toppers were ready for Louisville's best night. The first half found the Cardinals outsowing our boys by 13 per cent, but it couldn't last. The Hilltoppers wound up with a 56.2 percent shooting total to 29.3 for Louisville.

The championship game found Tom Marshall getting a record on the free throw line, that will probably be there for several years to come. After missing his first two attempts at the charity line, Tom proceeded to lose in 13 in succession before missing the fourteenth to give Earle Green a chance to tip in the rebonding after the top court. Hina Named Most Valuable Thunderjet Player

Lt. 1st. Roy Hine, AB 21, captain of the Western Hilltoppers gridiron squad of 1951, was chosen early in December as the most valuable player on the Midweek Thunderjet eleven. The Thunderjets completed their season with a three-win, one-loss and one-tie record. Though this may not seem spectacular, to those boys it is quite an accomplishment, as this record brought to the Midweek the title of Northern Japan Conference Air Force Champions.

At the close of the season, the Northern Champions played the Southern champions for the Japan Air Force championship. The winner of this gridiron clash, which was the Southern team by a 5 to 6 margin, played the Navy Champions, and the winner in turn played the winner of the Army-Marine battle for the all-service Japan championship of New Year's Day. The tremendous crowd which filled the bleachers, to the bench which kept their team marks on the floor, and all the others who were there, took part in the ceremonies.

Hilltoppers Continue Winning Streak With 15 Straight Victories

Western used the same deep freeze tactics that Murray employed to keep the ball out of reach of his opponents. The Hilltoppers lost the ball most of the final period to put the game on outcome. However, they scored an early basket to tie the game and then went on to win 64-55.

Western Defeats Louisville
In Finals To Win First KIT

Western Kentucky, the nation's number one men's college team, defeated the University of Louisville in their last of three consecutive days of the Christmas holidays in the First Annual Kentucky Invitation Basketball Tournament.

Western opened the season on Monday afternoon December 26, against the University of Houston, and in that game scored the most decisive victory of the tournament with a 94-51 win. The Hilltopper's one-two punch of Art Spectra and Tom Marshall hit the nets for 15 and 21 points respectively to lead the team to the victory. Jack Turner and Forrest Aikin helped to even out the scoring somewhat as they scored in 19 points apiece. Lynn Cole added 13 for the Hilltoppers.

The next night the Hilltoppers ran into trouble in the semifinals against their Kentucky rival Eastern. The Maroons scored with the Toppers all the way and finally were eluded by Western only in the last three minutes as Able dropped in eight straight free throws. The final score was 81-78 with Tom Haddow of Eastern and Marshall scoring 28 points apiece.

On Wednesday night it was Western and Louisville clashing in the contest that everyone had been talking about and anticipating for weeks. The Cardinals were not at full strength for the game, as Phil Nolan was out with a bad leg condition and Chuck Noble was hindered with a bad back. Chet Heum, the starting forward for the Cards, was injured in the first few minutes of the game and was unable to play in the remainder of it.

But, besides all of this, it was a Western night and nothing can be taken away from the Hilltoppers as they ran their bitter rivals off the floor in the second half.

After holding only a one point lead at the end of the half 44-43, the Toppers came back in the second half and ran the whole twenty minutes of the game, steadily increasing the deficit. The Hilltoppers got 24 of their points on free throws as the Cardinals tied 28 times. Once again the Toppers only had 14 persons called against them in their conquest.

This was the road Western took to the championship in the KIT, but the final play turned in by some of the other participants should not be ignored. Villanova, which won the consolation round of the tournament and lost only to Louisville turned in some fine play in the three games. Bob Schaefer of Villanova led all the scorers in the tournament with 39 for the three games. Marshall of Western was second with 37 points.

All of the play was turned in the single night high as Murrug whipped Siena in the final night's play. Pentz got 34 points for the afternoon, on 14 baskets and six free throws.
