Let's Get Together

The greatness of America is in the rich variety of its people. During next week, Brotherhood Week, we take time to remember the belief in the values of our common humanity, and our common individuality. One of the best ways we can each contribute to this renewal of the American spirit is by getting together with our friends and neighbors, fellow workers and strangers and enjoy a fellowship experience that transcends race, creed, or national origin.

The week is dedicated to the goal of establishing such an understanding of what it means to be a member of the American nation. Each day of the week is dedicated to a different aspect of the goal and the week will be closed by a grand finale in a way that transcends race, creed, or national origin.

other people, must be able to adapt themselves easily to different—and some-times difficult—living contitions.

Miss Newberry's exchange took her to Bridgland, South Wales, Great Britain. Here Miss Newberry taught in the Technical College and had students ranging in age from thirteen to twenty-six years. Bridgland is a town about the size of Bovingdon, about twenty miles from Cardiff and about one hundred miles from London.

School policies provided opportunities for travel and during her year abroad Miss Newberry traveled in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Switzerland, France, and Italy. The Christmas and Easter vacations allowed about two and a half weeks for travel and sightseeing. These trips were made with groups of American school teachers at one time and with English Grammar School teachers and students at another time.

As the growing season in Britain is also short, a few vegetables—cauliflower, peas, Brussels sprouts, and cabbage—were necessary. However, meat and fruit are plentiful enough. Laundry and dressmaking services is not too hard, as it is in America, and there is a shortage of fruit. Miss Newberry remembered things in order to say how much more she now appreciates the blessings of America.

The British use a lot of strong and shortened words. Examples are "at" for college; "pub" for publicans, "yes" for vacating; "be for breathing house;" "tea" for tea-able; and "clunk" for movie, one expression with which we are familiar.

Miss Newberry has come to love the English people as individuals since her year with them and says that she made some wonderful fridees. Customs and conditions differ in different countries, but the people are much the same. She must look as people as individuals to understand them in love them.

The year abroad not only gave her an opportunity to know and understand the English people, but it also enriched her teaching. She believes she can make literature more alive and interesting to her students as the result of her visits to so many historical and literary places.

Mr. William Whitchell will speak at the Physics Colloquium next week. His topic will be "Photosynthetic Ef-test."

New Testament Dedicated To Miss Helm

Miss Mary Helm, head of Western's library, has been honored in a unique way. She received a gold-covered, Japanese-translated version of the New Testament.

When Miss Helm was looking for a new, more modern edition of the Bible, she found a rare one, a gold-covered, Japanese-translated version of the New Testament. The publisher of the book, who had been impressed with Miss Helm's dedication to her work, presented her with the book.

The book is dedicated to Miss Helm, and she is said to be deeply touched by the gesture. The publisher of the book, who had been impressed with Miss Helm's dedication to her work, presented her with the book.

The Aircraft Observer... eyes...ears... brains...of the Air Force Team!

IN THIS still of the night—high above a sleeping American city—an unidentified aircraft is spotted. In a matter of seconds a lightning-like jet interceptor takes to the air. Unerringly, with an Aircraft Observer showing the way, the Air Force F-94 Night Fighter speeds to intercept the stranger. The Aircraft Observer is the man behind the pilot—the officer who keeps America's planes flying on course and on target. Without him the Air Force couldn't do its job.

What is the Aircraft Observer?

He's a Radar Officer... employing an all seeing eye that penetrates where human sight fails.

He's an Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer... knowing everything there is to know about his plane... keeping its heart beating.

He's a Navigation Officer... plotting his plane's course... with an entire crew depending on him for a safe flight.

In the air, he's the Bomardier Officer... in full control of the plane over the target area... the Air Force Officer who "draws the map" on the enemy.

What the Aircraft Observer gets

He earns over $5,000 a year. His silver Aircraft Observer wings give him prestige and distinction, and he wears the bar of an Air Force Lieutenant. They mark him as the eyes, nose, an ears of America's Number One flying team.

What it takes to be an Aircraft Observer

The Aircraft Observer must be sound of limb, keen of mind, and above all, must have the determination to be the best.

To qualify as an Aircraft Observer you must be single, between 19 and 26 years old, and have a high school graduate. However, it will be better for you if you have a college degree. The first year, too, can be the best... as an Aircraft Observer.

"5 Stores to Serve You"
Curricular Change To Be Made In ROTC Program

Western is one of more than a hundred leading universities and colleges in the seven-state Second Army area participating in this year's major nationwide shift in which the ROTC (Reserve Officers Training Corps) program, according to a recent announcement from President Paul C. Moore, will be expanded to Headquarters Second Army, Fort George G. Meade, Maryland.

The Army ROTC program has been a part of the curriculum at Western since 1917. The Air Force ROTC came to Western following World War II in 1946.

The new system is known as the General Military Science of the Branch General Program. It differs from the previous set-up in that students are no longer trained at the school for duty in some specific branch of service such as the infantry, Transportation Corps, Quartermaster Corps, and so on, neither are they given general military training and later assigned for further training in a specific branch on the basis of their background, interest, and needs of the Army.

Six ROTC schools are taking part in the GMS program this year. Others which may be definitely committed to begin the new training, next year (1945-46) are in addition to Western University of Kentucky State College, Kansas State College, Kansas College, College of St. Mary, St. Mary's College, College of St. Mary, Kansas College, Duquesne University, Pennsylvania State University, Washington and Lee University, Kansas State College, and University of Kentucky, Lexington, and University of Kentucky, Bowling Green, Kentucky.

The new program is designed to meet the needs of students majoring in the sciences, liberal arts, and business, as well as in engineering and agriculture.

Education Council

The Education Council held its monthly meeting in the Cedar House, Thursday night. The group, which formerly met in the Kiwanis Club, held the meeting in the Cedar House.

The names of those elected were: Wilbur Daughtery, presidnet; Dr. John R. Brown, vice-president; and Ann Williams, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Willey, of the Education Department, discussed the proposed joint project for the teaching profession, with its allotment of college work consistent and to satisfy the requirements of the program. He also discussed the proposed state program for the teaching profession.

AAUW Banquet Held Locally

The Bowling Green Branch of the American Association of University Women held its annual banquet, Tuesday night at the Hotel Hume with approximately 80 members and guests present.

The speakers included Mrs. Alice Hesse, chairman of the Archeology Project, and Miss Gertrude Ziegler, director of the American Branch.

Miss Gertrude Ziegler, director of the American Branch, introduced the speakers.

Ann Boyd
Finalist In Beauty Contest

By slipped Tinley

Everybody knows that Western is known far and wide for its baseball, but Western excels in things other than baseball; it also has beautiful women. Ann Boyd, a Western student who attended the University of California at Berkeley, has long been one of the beautiful women under the category of a beautiful woman.

Each year at Christmas at the University, interest is focused on things other than studies. There is a "Gingerbread Beauty Contest," in which all the "date-able" participants are chosen as contestants by four separate organizations on the campus, who finally agreed to co-sponsor her in the contest. She placed first in all the preliminary trials without being her final trial. As the final testing was about to begin, Miss Boyd informed the judges of her intention to withdraw from the contest of the decision of withdrawing from the Western. Thus she was automatically eliminated from further competition.

To quote Mr. William H. Lott, former editor of the Golden Bear, who brought Miss Boyd's achievement to this paper's attention through the editor of the "Golden Bear," "We see that Miss Boyd would have been a "date-able" candidate. There is no doubt that her scholarship, ability, beauty, charm, and personality were superior to all other contestants. However, some students may point out that such selection has comparatively large number of students and that competition is keen. Also in the past we were willing to admit the superior quality of the Western basketball team, but it has never occurred to us that so few beautiful women were not from California. We are now willing to concede that Western may be headed for the highest place in basketball and music as well as in basketball league.

Alma Blair Awarded Scholarship

Alma Blair, BS '48, has been awarded a scholarship under the Rural School Improvement Program administered by Berea College. The fellowship carries full expenses for study at 4140 Teachers College, Temple, Arizona, for three semesters. Miss Blair plans to work toward the M.A. degree and at the same time see many of the interesting geographical and historical aspects of the United States.

Applications are now being received for another group of thirty teachers who will receive similar scholarships. Further inquiries should be addressed to the Register, Berea College, Berea, Kentucky.
1. College Heights Herald

The New York Yankees have nothing on the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers. For we also have a "murderer row," and we are hitting the nets at a clip seldom observed on the basketball scene.

The Hilltoppers are the only team in the nation today which can boast three players who have all scored over 1,000 points during their careers. What a scoring punch to toss at a foe!

At the beginning of this season, only one team (University of Kentucky) had ever had three men, playing at one list, who had each scored over 1,000 points in their careers. Now there are three teams, and the Marshall-Spottsville-Torres team has the most recently reached the total.

Jack Turner scored 32 points against Memphis 11 days ago to bring his career total to 1,005, but of course he has added to that in the last two games and now has posted his total 1,030 for his career.

All-American candidate Tom Marshall now has a career total of 1,173 through the Kentucky Wesleyan game Monday night. Tom is just 22 points short of reaching the greatest scorer in Kentucky history, Al Green of the famous "fauline five at the University of Kentucky, who had at the end of his career 1,194 points, but Tom should break this all-time high within the next game or two.

Art Spottsville, the other member of the Fabulous 30, has now scored a career total of 1,028 points in the league.

Five in a row --

The OVC Tourney Next Week in Louis ville

The OVC Tourney will be held in the Louisville Armory at 1 p.m. Sunday, February 21.

Western, Morehead, Eastern, and Murray will probably be the four seeded teams, while Tennessee Tech and Middle Tennessee will have to draw to see which teams they will face. The two teams left will play the first round and the winner will then play the second round.

The Topper will be seeded among the Topper teams, and the chances for a conference game are slim. The only chance for a conference game is if Tennessee Tech and Middle Tennessee go to the tournament. If they both go, it will be at the expense of the Topper teams.

None of these teams have the big guns for the Western attack, it makes two games.

Toppers' Slate Is Clean For Season - Minus Eastern

After suffering their first loss of the season at the hands of Eastern February 8, the Hilltoppers came back in their next three games and are now another winning streak. The Hilltoppers went to the hands of Murray 78-70, Murray 64-63, and Kentucky Wesleyan 89-76.

WESTERN 85, MOREHEAD 76

Western, seeded from the Tourney defeated the Topper to win handily over the Region 8, 85-76, and the victory in 28 games.

The topppers left on the wing and in the second half increased the lead to 10 before Double eclipsed that.

Steve Cole missed his first game of the season because of sickness. Guy Cheat, starting the game in place of Cole, came through with an effective position and helped send them on to victory.

Tom Marshall, after being held to 10 points at Eastern, came through with 34 points to prove he is an All-American caliber.

Jack Turner, who was shifted from forward to guard, hit 10 percent of his shots and ripped the nets for 15 points.
