Jim Wilson, A Man Of Many Talents

By Betty Spindler

If you are just sitting in the snack bar, at a ball game, or almost anywhere on the campus and a flash bulb goes off in your face, don't be alarmed. It's only Jimmy Wilson doing his job. Jim is a transfer from Murray and a senior pre-med student. His main pastime is photography, which he became interested in when he was nine years old. His specialties are sport photography, babies, and weddings. This hobby has become an avocation for this chemistry and biology major who said when asked what connection the two interests had for him, "I think that photography will be an advantage in medicine and they will correlate later in life.

Besides belonging to the chemistry and biology clubs here at Western and working in the Public Relations Office, he is also photographer for the HERALD and does some photography for the TAILSMAN.

It seems that he has more than one outstanding talent. He also is gifted in the music field. He can play the trumpet, drums, and bass. He enjoys playing in a local band and a friend of his played basketball four years, football two years and baseball two years in high school. In summers he enjoys swimming and has been lifeguard for many various places for the past six years including Kentucky Lake, Butler State Park, Girl's Lake in Louisville where Jimmy-Inc camp and the PFA State Camp at Harrodsburg.

Although Jim is kept pretty busy with his photography, he never fails to be around when needed. He is well liked by his fellow students here and always has a friendly hello accompanied by a smile for everyone he meets.

"The fun of meeting new friends through my camera and having happy experiences that I'll never forget."

Homecoming Termed “Most Successful”

By Nama Taylor

What a Homecoming!
The bouncy and pep rally initiated the high successful features of Homecoming weekend Nov. 15-18. It was well attended by the student body and friends of Western and Murray, in the rain and cold proved how much the students were willing to back the team. The pep rally was followed by a make up game. The band played on the campus and downtown town. The cheering and spirit that was shown was a glad ring in the ears of the alumni that were already beginning to arrive on the scene.

After the pep rally the Homecoming dance was held in the Paul L. Garrett Student Center. The music was furnished by the Red and Gray orchestra. The dance was attended by both alumni and students.

Bright and early Saturday morning, you could tell something was brewing on the campus. Students were seen coming out of the dormitories earlier than usual and strange lights were seen in the Hill — that is, strangers to quiet dormitory life. The old friends to Western.

In the beginning of the day atberry Hall, Saturday that you could see people heading toward the Hill. Those people were going up to third floor to see the Pennant exhibition.

The “W” Club breakfast was a big success. The club members invited the supporters of the past as well as the students. A large group of alumni this year reported, facilities rather crowded.

“W” Club In Full Swing

Western’s “W” club is in full swing and already has two major accomplishments in the records.

The club members held their first meeting of the year and elected the officers for the 1954-55 school year. The officers are: Harriette McDonald, president; Sidney Bethel, vice-president; and Betty Johnson, secretary. Harry Grady, treasurer, and Bill Brown, secretary-treasurer.

“W” club members took an active part in the Homecoming parade this year. Bobby Hemley, assistant manager of the parade, was in charge of the Homecoming parade. Harry Gray and Harry White, members of the “W” Club, were responsible for the high spirits of the students and the success of the Homecoming parade. The parade ended on the Hill with the floats for the Homecoming queen riding in the convertible. The parade ended on the Hill, with the floats for the Homecoming queen riding in the convertible.

The big moment finally arrived. The Toppers and the Trouper Nominees were on the field making a colorful and daring sight.

Shirley Smith Has Unusual Position

L.T. Smith Honored At Homecoming Luncheon

Mr. L. T. Smith, head of the Industrial Arts Department at Western, was honored by his former students and the Arts and Crafts club with a Homecoming Luncheon in the later L. T. Garretson Center, November 13, at 12 noon.

The invocation was given by Mr. P. H. Cantor, registrar at Western, President Thompson welcomed the Alumni, the Alumni, calling Mr. Smith a "pillar of Western." Charley Robertson, B.S. ’27, school master of DuPont publications in the city, presented to Mr. Smith a sterling silver service set remembranced with "In recognition of your years of inspiring leadership to the boys November 13, 1935."

Mr. Robertson recalled that Mr. Smith, a graduate of Bradley University, France, Illinois, and former instructor at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, came to Western to develop an Industrial Arts department during his first years, he bought a building to house the department, which has held a home in a few weeks because of a house fire, he did so on his own hook. He served as football coach, and was succeeded by E. J. Dillard.

On January 2, 1938 the building housing the Industrial Arts department was destroyed by fire, and the department was housed temporarily in the basement of the Home Economics department. The present building, built from that building, Mr. Smith's architect, was built in 1938.

Mr. Smith was asked the amount of the cost of the building. He shrugged "Aw the hell, I don't know, I'm in charge of things here." He admitted his fellow department.

Debaters Travel To Lipscomb

The Intercollegiate Debate Team journeyed to David Lipscomb College on November 30 to challenge the Lipscomb team in what proved to be a heated and challenging series of debate on the national debate topic—Resolved: That the American Agricultural employers of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage. Representing Western were Bill Short and Lacy Wilkins, while the negative was composed of Jim Oyer and Elizabeth McWhorter. The non-decision debates were criticized by Russell H. Miller and Carroll Ellis, directors of debate for the respective schools.

These debates were the first round of intercollegiate debates for the Western Takes this season, and served as a warm-up session for the state tournament, held at Lexington, Kentucky, December 2.

Annual Wreath Lighting Slated December 14

The second annual Christmas wreath lighting program will be held Wednesday evening, December 14, at 7:30 p.m. The theme part of the program will be held in Van Meter Auditorium and the ceremony on the plaza in front of Cherry Hall.

The program will include music on the clarinet, the playing of carols, and other Christmas music. A brief message will be given by President Thompson.

Army ROTC Basketball

Company A was not in trouble as they scored to lead 23-15 in the 3rd quarter over Company B. They jumped 5 in the 4th quarter and the Redmen behind the entire game. Doig Roger, halfback, and Bill Doepner were big guns in Company A. In the final round, Dean Herwinkin and Vernor “Tank” Wilson looked good.

Company B was no longer in the tournament. They lost in the 1st round to Company D.

Company C earned the right to play Company A for the title by eliminating Company D in a thrilling battle.

College High Undefeated

Operating under the supervision of their new coach Finch, 1970, the College High Cardinals are still a flying start.

Led by David Denton, Doll Margarita's pre-season choice for All-Central, College High defeated Park City 20-0, Allen Co. 30-0, and Cumberland 28-0.

During a brief interview with Coach Diddle, he stated that he could "not point out any one outstanding performance," but was quick to say that Mike Taylor, Dan Browning and Denson were "a good winnerness and backed up his statement by pointing out that they all scored 113 points in the first three games through their combined efforts.

Louisville. The S. J. T. is sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and consists of eight teams competing. Bowling Green College University, University of Louisville, Western Kentucky, Murray, and Easterners are entered in the tournament.

Following the S. J. T., the Toppers started their road trip to the Texas-Oklahoma Musketeers in Cincinnati January 1. The Toppers should settle into a groove battle after the Musketeers, who the Toppers home game winning streak has reached 27 games. The Toppers are not so sure they can beat the Bobcats, and they have had a few more- the Best Farm in five years.

After the home game trip the Toppers will face the Hilltoppers, who will invade the Hill January 8.

Note from Slattery

"My family and I are grateful to all students, faculty members, and others connected with Western for their prayers, encouragement, and other help during my recent operation."

The response to my illness was overwhelming and gives me a still greater love for Westerners.
